GERMANY FAVORS LEAGUE OF PEACE WITH CONDITIONS

But Bethmann Hollweg Says the Entente Allies Must Renounce Their Annexation Schemes.

DENOUNCES "BRUTE FORCE"

Abolition of "Aggressive Coalitions" Put as First Step Toward International Harmony.

ANSWERS VISCOUNT GREY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 9.—Answering Viscount Grey, Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg, in the course of his speech before the Main Committee of the Reichstag today said:

"Germany is at all times ready to join a league of nations—yes, even to place herself at the head of such a league—to keep in check the disturbers of peace."

BERLIN, Nov. 9, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg announced today before the Main Committee of the Reichstag that after the end of the war Germany would cooperate in an endeavor to find a practical means for procuring a lasting peace by means of an international league. The Chancellor also presented a new version of events in the last days before the outbreak of the war, particularly in connection with Russia's mobilization and efforts to avert hostilities.

The Chancellor, according to the Overseas News Agency, connected the two subjects in his speech, and in doing so replied to the speech made by Lord Grey, the British Foreign Secretary, to foreign newspapermen, in which he said that the origin of the present war must influence peace conditions, and that Germany would be entitled to ask for guarantees against future attacks if the present war really were forced upon Germany. Of course, Lord Grey at once added that Germany's interpretation of the origin of the war was incorrect, and that the war was not forced upon Germany, but was forced by Germany upon Europe.

Little Faith in Arbitration Courts.

Referring to the question of an international league for the preservation of peace, the Chancellor said:

"We never concealed our doubts whether peace could be guaranteed permanently by international organizations, such as arbitration courts. I shall not discuss the theoretical aspects of the problem in this place. But from the standpoint of matters of fact we now and in peace must define our position with regard to this question.

"If at and after the end of the war the world will only become fully conscious of the horrifying destruction of life and property, then through the whole of humanity there will ring out a cry for peaceful arrangements and understandings which, as far as is within human power, will avoid the return of such a monstrous catastrophe. This cry will be so powerful and so justified that it must lead to some result.

"Germany will honestly co-operate in examination of every endeavor to find a practical solution, and will collaborate for its possible realization. This all the more if the war, as we expect and trust, shall create political conditions that do full justice to the free development of all nations, of small as well as great nations. Then the principle of justice and free development, not only on the Continent, but also on the seas, must be made valid. This, to be sure, Lord Grey did not mention."

Denounces British "Brute Force."

The Chancellor pointed out that Lord Grey's ideas in regard to international guarantees of peace seemed to possess a peculiar character, in that they took into consideration only British wants. Neutrals, who during the war had to accept in silence British domination of the seas, were to form a union after the war when, England hoped, she would have conquered Germany, in order to guarantee that the British plans should prevail under the new conditions. The Chancellor said it was known on reliable authority that in 1915 Great Britain and France promised to Russia dictatorial domination of Constantinople, the Bosporus and the west shore of the Dardanelles, with the hinterland, and that Asia Minor should be divided among the Entente powers. These plans, he continued, probably were of interest for neutrals, who were expected to guarantee this order of things. The British Government, he asserted, has kept silent in regard to these plans, in spite of questions asked in Parliament.

"Such a policy of brute force," the Chancellor added, "cannot be the basis of an efficient international league for peace.

"These are the plans of our enemies

Suffrage Amendment Defeated in Two States

Woman suffrage amendments were evidently beaten in the two States that voted on the question last Tuesday. In South Dakota, with 200 precincts still to be heard from, the vote stood 22,934 for and 25,248 against the amendment.

West Virginia, the other State to vote on the proposition, rejected it overwhelmingly. The returns from 843 out of the 1,713 precincts in the State showed 33,887 for and 72,473 against it.

ASQUITH EXPOUNDS ESSENTIALS OF PEACE

Must Insure Security of Weak, Liberties of Europe, and Free Future of World.

TRADE OF NEUTRALS SAFE

German Talk of Wall Against It Called Childish Fiction—Ready for Next Channel Raid.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The banquet of the new Lord Mayor of London, Sir William Henry Dunn, was given at the Guildhall tonight, and was attended by Cabinet Ministers, members of the Diplomatic Corps, including Walter Hines Page, the American Ambassador, and men prominent in the military and naval world, among them Lord Fisher, Chairman of the Invention Board; Arthur J. Balfour, First Lord of the Admiralty, and Sir William R. Robertson, Chief of the Imperial Staff at Army Headquarters.

The leading speech of the evening was delivered by Premier Asquith, who, in alluding to peace, declared that nobody had greater reason than Great Britain to desire peace, but that it was desired on only one condition—that the sacrifices of the war should not have been made in vain. A feature of the speeches was the warm tribute of admiration on the stand made by Rumania and the expression of the opinion that although the attack on Rumania had not yet been defeated, it had been successfully stayed.

Turkey a "Subservient Agent."

Mr. Asquith began his speech with a reference to Turkey, which country he described as a subservient agent of German interests and ambition, as was instanced, he said, by the fact that by lifting a finger Germany might have arrested the Armenian horrors, but instead looked on "unmoved, acquiescent and possibly even complacent.

"That," said the Premier, "is a significant sample of what a continuance of the rule of Germanic Turkey in Europe will mean."

Mr. Asquith said he would refrain from any detailed review of the naval and military situation. He dwelt, however, on the continued Entente allied successes and said the British Navy was ready, and more than ready, whenever opportunity was offered to it.

With regard to the Greek situation Mr. Asquith said he wished he could speak with as much confidence as hope. The Entente Allies went to Saloniki as friends of both Greece and Serbia, he said. Their sole desire was to prevent Greece from becoming enmeshed in the Germanic net and to save her from internal strife. Whatever apparently drastic measures had been taken were dictated solely by the necessity of preventing Athens from becoming the centre of German propaganda and intrigue.

Declaring that the Entente Allies were in hearty sympathy with Eleutherios Venizelos, former Premier, Mr. Asquith, asked how Greece could possibly stand aloof from a war for the emancipation of smaller States.

"Greece," Mr. Asquith continued, "first lit the torch of liberty in Europe and withstood the inrush of eastern barbarism and tyranny. May Greece rekindle her lamp and show herself worthy of her immortal past."

Dealing with the general situation, Mr. Asquith said:

"Let there be no illusion about our enemies. They are great organizers and fine fighters in the field. They are also, if not skillful, yet indefatigable workers in the sphere of propaganda, where they have a double motive—to divide the Allies and capture neutral opinion."

No Designs Against Neutrals.

In this connection Mr. Asquith characterized the German suggestion of a sinister design on the part of the Entente Allies to combine against neutral countries and build up an impenetrable stone wall against their trade as childish fiction, which could only mean that the Allies were bent upon economic suicide. He said it ought to be unnecessary to affirm that when the time came for peace nothing would be more essential for the Entente Allies from the standpoint of simple self-interest than to establish and maintain the best industrial and financial relations with neutrals.

Alluding to the different methods of propaganda which he said were employed at different places with a view to dividing the Allies and influencing

WON'T CONCEDE WILSON VICTORY WITHOUT RECOUNT

Both Sides Should Be Anxious to Remove All Doubt, Willcox Says.

FOUR STATES IN QUESTION

THE OLD GUARD CONFERS

Willcox Not Invited to Meeting of Crane, Barnes, and Others Ignored in the Campaign.

The Republican campaign managers will not concede the State of California to President Wilson until after the result of the official count of the vote which is scheduled to begin on Monday has been announced. And even then it is more than likely that if the result of the official canvass should give the State to the President they will go into the courts and ask that the ballot boxes be reopened and the ballots recounted.

After a conference with Charles E. Hughes, in which former United States Attorney General George W. Wickersham participated, Chairman William R. Willcox of the Republican National Committee announced last night that California was only one of four States in which recount proceedings were probable. The other States are New Hampshire, New Mexico and North Dakota. In New Hampshire and New Mexico Mr. Hughes was leading on the late returns yesterday, but it was assumed by the Republican leaders that in the event of their winding up in the Hughes column, the Democrats would ask for a new count under the auspices of the courts.

"I think there ought to be a recount in those four States," said Mr. Willcox. "I assume the other side is just as anxious as we are to have any cloud on the title removed by a recanvass in States where the vote is close. Just think of it! There are States where in 400,000 votes or more the margin of the winning candidate promises to be 400 votes or less. Where the election of a President of the United States hinges on such a slender plurality I think the natural thing would be to have a recount."

Seek New Hampshire Recount.

In New Hampshire, where the vote fluctuated all day yesterday slightly in favor of the two candidates in turn, the Republicans took the preliminary steps looking to a recount while the odds seemed to favor Mr. Wilson. Republican National Committeeman Frank W. Estabrook, who has been attached to National Headquarters here, hurried home and took charge of the situation when it seemed to indicate that the State might be lost to the Republican nominee. He sent word last night that he had retained lawyers who were procuring from the Town and County Clerks certified copies of the vote returned from the various voting precincts.

The Old Guard Republican leaders held an important conference at the Hotel Manhattan last night which Chairman Willcox was not invited to attend. The leading spirits at this gathering were men who while they are shrewd and experienced in political campaigning have not been consulted much in connection with the campaign for the election of Mr. Hughes. Among those present were W. Murray Crane, the Republican leader in Massachusetts; United States Senator John W. Weeks from that State, who has been in charge of the Republican campaign throughout the country for the recapture of the United States Senate; William Barnes, and former Chairman Charles D. Hilles of the Republican National Committee, Charles B. Warren, the Republican National Committeeman from Michigan, was the only man at the conference who has been attached to the staff of Chairman Willcox at Republican National Headquarters.

Gloom pervaded the meeting of the Old Guard. They had been in close touch with Republican leaders in States which were catalogued as "doubtful" and had learned that in California, where the electoral votes were essential to a Hughes victory, there was little hope that the Republican nominee would come out ahead. From North Dakota, where a Hughes majority was regarded as safe, but where it had changed into a majority for President Wilson, word had come from United States Senator McCumber that the best to be expected was about an even break between President Wilson and the Republican candidate.

"There should be no man in the White House with a clouded title," said one leader. "It seems to me that the recount is the only means to clear the title by definitely establishing the fact that the ballots have been counted right."

It is understood that this view has the News of Wilson's Election Sent to Him by Wireless

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Nov. 9.—To President Wilson aboard the yacht Mayflower, en route to Williamstown, Mass., this message was wirelessed shortly before midnight tonight by Secretary Tumulty:

"I am here surrounded by the loyal Democrats of old Monmouth, and beg leave to send you our greeting and congratulations. The cause you have so nobly represented has at last triumphed, and we greet you. Our hearts, our thoughts and our affections go to you."

M'CORMICK JOYFUL AT NEWS OF VICTORY

HIS OPTIMISM UNFLAGGING

Chairman All Day Had Claimed 288 Votes, and Announced: "We've Got It Sewed Up!"

Scenes of growing jubilation at Democratic National headquarters here, which were in evidence throughout the day yesterday, reached a culmination last night when word was received that THE TIMES had bulletined that California had gone for President Wilson, and that the President was re-elected. Face to face with the success which they had hoped for confidently for many anxious hours, several hundred Democratic workers, including many women, cheered, leaped into the air, clapped their hands, and slapped each others' backs in an excess of the delight of victory.

When the result in California became definitely known, the Democratic National Committee issued this statement:

"The President has carried the country by a popular plurality of from 200,000 to 300,000. With an electoral vote of 272 absolutely sure, and with Minnesota, West Virginia, and New Hampshire still to be decided, to say there will be any contest is an insult to the intelligence of the American people.

"There is nothing to add to our statements previously made. We have claimed the re-election of President Wilson since early Tuesday morning. We knew we had it. We have been fighting especially for the Western States."

Vance McCormick, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, left headquarters at 11:30 o'clock saying that he was satisfied that the President had been re-elected.

The large crowd at Democratic Headquarters that had been watching the returns all evening broke loose into a riot of applause when the California result was posted. Hundreds in the street immediately fell in behind several bands and a parade was started down Forty-second Street to Fifth Avenue. After a march of only a few blocks, however, the paraders returned to headquarters and soon dispersed.

Close on the California information came the news from Republican Headquarters that Republican Chairman Willcox "had nothing to say." The pent up enthusiasm broke its bounds again and again. For many of those in headquarters it meant rest for the first time in seventy-two hours. Many others had not slept for two days.

The crowd at headquarters had one short period of anxiety when the news came from Republican headquarters at 5:30 o'clock that Mr. Hughes was ahead in California by 298 votes. A correction of this report was soon received, however, and the crowd cheered again.

Chairman McCormick had said at noon: "It's all over, boys. We are going to clean them up, and I still stick to my figures that the President will have 288 electoral votes. The New Hampshire vote has been counted, and it is in our favor. The count is still going on in the other States, but in California we are running well ahead and we will get it. There is no question about that. We have got it sewed up! President Wilson is re-elected beyond any shadow of a doubt."

President Was Confident.

During the day many well-known Democrats called upon the Chairman and congratulated him. Among them were Alton B. Parker and Morgan J. O'Brien. The Chairman denied that they had called in connection with possible recount proceedings. He said he had called up President Wilson at Shadow Lawn frequently and told him how things were proceeding. He said the President informed him that he was thoroughly satisfied that he had been re-elected.

A telegram was received at headquarters from Dudley Field Malone, Collector of the Port, who is in California, saying that the State was safe for the President, no matter what anybody might say to the contrary. Word also came from the National Committee's Western Headquarters in Chicago that a message had been received that The San Francisco Chronicle and The Los Angeles Times, both Republican newspapers, had conceded Wilson's success in the State. Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo added his quota of comfort by showing a telegram he had received from J. B. Coulson of California, a personal friend, which read:

"Fully convinced that it is impossible to overcome President's lead of over 4,000 in California."

Regarding Minnesota, Chairman McCormick said he was content to accept the estimate of Frederick B. Lynch, Democratic National Committeeman for that State, who had advised him over the telephone that the President's plurality there would be 500 at least. This, he said, would include the soldier vote, which had been checked up as far as possible by local leaders who were familiar with conditions. The count in Minnesota was proceeding slowly, Mr. McCormick said, because the system there permitted the mailing of votes, and many of these had not been received.

WILSON AHEAD IN CALIFORNIA BY OVER 3,100

36 PRECINCTS ARE MISSING

FULL RECOUNT IS CERTAIN

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 9.—California has given her electoral vote to Woodrow Wilson.

The Republican Chairman, C. H. Rowell, admitted at 8:25 o'clock tonight that, barring some exceptional errors in the count, the President had carried the State.

Mr. Rowell conceded the State after reviewing returns showing a plurality of 2,970 for Wilson, with only forty-eight scattered precincts of the 5,870 in the State not complete. These figures were: Wilson, 465,194; Hughes, 462,224.

These returns showed forty-two of fifty-eight counties in the State completed. In all but ten counties in the State returns had been back-checked and corrected. The possibility of error was thus reduced to a minimum.

Returns were received later from further precincts, reducing the number missing to thirty-six. The totals in the 5,834 precincts available at a late hour were: Wilson, 465,669; Hughes, 462,538. This would make Wilson's plurality 3,131.

After conceding California to Wilson, Chairman Rowell talked by wire with George W. Perkins in the office of the National Republican Committee in New York, and later gave out this statement:

"While the face of the returns as compiled by The Associated Press shows Wilson ahead in California, so many startling changes have happened in the count during the last twelve hours that it will not do to reach final conclusions on anything less than final information. The official count begins Monday, and we shall watch the counting of every vote in every county seat in the State.

"I estimate that there will be a difference of 4,000 or 5,000 between the high and low man on the electoral tickets, and this is greater than any possible majority in California. This means a split electoral vote."

O. K. Cushing, Chairman of the Democratic Central Committee:

"From the information we have received from all counties in the State we confidently expect that President Wilson's majority in California will not be less than 3,200."

The result in the State was made certain after a day of great tension, with hopes rising and falling in the rival political camps as the added returns changed the small but continuing plurality for Wilson over Hughes.

Starting the day with a lead of more than 3,000, Wilson lost ground as additional Los Angeles County precincts were heard from, and a rectification of figures was made in Alameda County. These, benefiting Hughes by 1,930 votes, cut the Wilson lead to 600 votes soon after noon.

In the late day, however, remote districts came in with consistent Wilson pluralities, until at night a decisive Democratic lead was re-established.

Mountain fastnesses and desert wastes hid most of these missing precincts. To many of these there was no telephonic communication. Humboldt County, in the extreme northwestern part of the State, awaited anxiously returns from eight precincts, reached only by stage. For more than 500 miles the snow peaks of the Sierras blocked communication in a half score of counties, passes and trails being drifted over.

The large cities and the fertile valleys which reach for hundreds of miles north and south from San Francisco were well accounted for, as were the seacoast counties in the main.

Up to a late hour today few of Sierra County's sixteen precincts had been heard from, and twenty-six of another mountain district, Tuolumne County, were likewise missing. Lack of telephone communication was largely responsible for the delay. These same districts elected James D. Phelan, Democrat, to the United States Senate two years ago, after ex-Congressman Joseph R. Noland had been in the lead more than twenty-four hours on urban returns.

Efforts are being continued tonight to bring in the few remaining isolated precincts. These are two or three to the county in most instances.

One precinct on the border of Lake Tahoe might be missing for days, it was said. The telephone was broken, and all efforts to communicate from Placerville, forty miles away, were fruitless.

The concession of the State to Wilson on the face of the returns altered in no way the determination of both parties to keep a sharp watch on the semi-official count by County Clerks and the final official count by the Secretary of State.

With a plurality of not less than 3,000

MINNESOTA.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 9.—Three nights of unofficial canvassing have failed to take Minnesota from the doubtful column of the Presidential race.

Charles E. Hughes maintained a slight lead over President Wilson throughout today; the standing continued so close that politicians of both parties declared tonight that only the official count would settle the contest.

Errors in the transmission of returns from several precincts in Minnesota were discovered late tonight, changing the standing somewhat in the Presidential contest. In 2,939 precincts out of 3,024 in the State the corrected figures gave Hughes 176,545 and Wilson 175,511, a lead of 1,034 for Hughes.

Most of the remaining precincts to be heard from are in counties where Wilson has a plurality. Wilson's rate of gain, however, is not likely to cut his opponent's plurality down to below 500.

Except for President, Minnesota delivered its customary big Republican majority, as shown in the pluralities of Governor Burnquist and Frank B. Kellogg, candidate for the United States Senate. Republicans also were uniformly successful on the rest of the State ticket.

Hughes's lead in the State was threatened several times today by returns from the northern part of the State, but always some other section added the necessary votes to the Republican candidate's column to keep him ahead.

The closeness of the vote attracted intense interest throughout the State, which normally has questioned only the size of the plurality of the Republican candidates. Bulletin boards in all the larger cities held throngs all day.

Several prominent politicians expressed the belief that the vote cast by the Minnesota guardsmen at the Mexican border would be the deciding factor in the Presidential contest.

The State Canvassing Board is to meet next Tuesday to check the tabulation sheets sent in by local officials to county auditors, and by the county auditors to the Secretary of State, who takes charge of them. At that time the result of the guardsmen's vote will be known.

So far as can be learned no extraordinary precautions have been taken to guard ballot boxes in any precinct. State officials well acquainted with gathering of returns in Minnesota advance various reasons for the delay in hearing from some of the district. In some of the counties the distances are great. One precinct in Cook County is forty miles from the county seat, with poor means of transportation.

Returns from a village on The Lake of the Woods must be brought across Canadian territory to the county seat of Beltram County. Some of the election officials in small towns mailed their tabulation sheets without notifying the County Auditors of the result. Some, more interested in local fights and figuring that Minnesota would give its usual Republican majority for the national ticket, delayed counting the Presidential returns.

Some of the country election judges apparently locked up their ballot boxes without counting the votes. Several counties reported that returns "from certain precincts were unavailable, as the boxes had been sealed and sent to the depot for shipment to St. Paul."

Fred P. Lynch, Democratic National Committeeman from Minnesota, telegraphed President Wilson this afternoon that Minnesota would give him a plurality of 1,000. Later he said what he had said before, that Wilson would carry Minnesota "by from 500 to 1,000," but that the vote of the State's National Guardsmen on the Mexican border would be necessary to decide the contest. Of these 3,600 guardsmen 2,136 voted, and the Commissioners taking the vote are reported as saying two-thirds of them voted for Hughes. These ballots will not be counted until next Tuesday.

Federal authorities today began an investigation of alleged election frauds in Minnesota. Accompanied by a large staff of special agents, Hinton G. Clabaugh of Chicago, Chief of the Western Division of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, arrived in St. Paul early in the day. After a conference with officials at the United States District Attorney's office he went to Minneapolis to "nose around a little," it was said.

The Federal authorities are said to have received numerous complaints of fraudulent voting, stuffing of ballot boxes, and irregularities in counting the votes. One small lumber camp near Duluth is said to have turned in over 3,000 votes.

"The charges must be pretty serious, or the investigators would not come here at this time," said Alfred Jaques, District Attorney, who conferred with Mr. Clabaugh this morning. "I understand Mr. Clabaugh will distribute his agents throughout St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Duluth in order to keep a close tab on the situation."

On instructions from Democratic Headquarters in New York, Fred B. Lynch, Democratic National Committeeman, has instructed all the Democratic County Chairmen in Minnesota to employ legal aid in the election fight.

"The grave importance of Minnesota's vote," said Mr. Lynch, "and the fact that the fate of the nation for the next four years may depend on what Minnesota does, brought about this action. We don't want any suspicion to attach to the counting of the votes. The election will be conducted legally and honestly if we can have it so."

Republicans discredit the charges of fraud and are following a policy of watchfulness.

Claims Minnesota for Wilson.

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 9.—Hughes leads Wilson in Minnesota 700 votes at this time, with 120 precincts to be heard from. These are mainly in the northern part of the State, in the woods, and are remote from railroads. Ordinarily these precincts are Republican, but this year, so far as reported, these people have been voting for the President. They are mostly foreigners and but few Germans are among them. When these precincts are in Hughes will have about 300 plurality in this State, subject to minor errors in the returns, which should about balance.

To offset this our report claims that the Minnesota troops on the border will give the President 600 majority, and the so-called absentee vote of this State will give the President about 300 more. Under one of our laws a voter temporarily absent from his pecinct may send his vote in by mail and have it counted where he lives. Here this applies principally to railroad employes absent on their runs and traveling men. Twelve hundred of these votes are registeed, and we think 900 of them will be voted. From returns already in they vote two to one for the president.

I think I am safe in claiming this State for Wilson by 500.

F. B. LYNCH,
Democratic National Committeeman from Minnesota.

NORTH DAKOTA.

FARGO, N. D., Nov. 9.—North Dakota's five votes in the Electoral College were conceded to President Wilson late tonight by William Lemke, Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, when returns from all but thirty-three precincts in the State gave the President a plurality of 1,560 over Hughes.

Later returns received up to the time when the tabulators ceased labor for the night, reduced the missing precincts to twenty-eight. The totals in the 1,831 precincts available at that time were: Wilson, 54,449; Hughes, 52,831. The President's lead thus being 1,618.

Forty per cent. of the unreported precincts are in counties that have been giving Wilson majorities, about 30 per cent. are in counties in which Hughes has been leading, and the remaining precincts are districts that have favored neither candidate decisively.

While Mr. Lemke estimated Wilson's plurality in the State at less than 900, Fred McLean, Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, asserted that the President's vote would exceed that of Hughes by 1,400.

Returns from several precincts will not be available for the official canvass, as the ballot boxes in these districts have been sealed up by the election officials and will not be opened until the official canvassing boards meet next week.

When Wilson's plurality in the State mounted to 1,500 this afternoon, several leading Republican newspapers conceded that he had carried the State. Returns from 1,745 precincts out of 1,859 in the State gave Wilson 53,125 and Hughes 51,586.

Charges that attempts were being made to tamper with the ballot boxes in a number of precincts in the western part of the State were laid before United States District Attorney Hildreth this afternoon by United States Mar-

Minor Parties May Have Balance of Power—Senate Is Safely Democratic.

Woodrow Wilson and Thomas R. Marshall have been again elected President and Vice President. Soon after 11 o'clock last night all the doubtful States, except New Hampshire and Minnesota, had given Wilson such a steady lead that his election was no longer in doubt. When, at 11:25, the news came that Chester H. Rowell, the Republican State Chairman in California, had conceded the State to the Democrats, the disputed election of 1916 was no longer in dispute.

Wilson's indicated vote in the Electoral College is 272, that of Hughes being 259. With 272 votes in sight, President Wilson has six to spare for a possible split of Electors in California, or a sudden reversal in New Mexico.

Yesterday morning the States in doubt were California and North Dakota, in which Wilson was leading by small pluralities; Minnesota and New Mexico, in which Hughes was leading by still smaller ones. Later in the day New Hampshire, which had been given to Hughes, became doubtful, and New Mexico swung over to the Wilson column.

After that the only hope of the Republicans was in California, which Hughes must carry, in addition to Minnesota. But the California returns, as they kept on coming in, only served to strengthen Wilson's assurance of the State. He did not gain much, but he did not lose, and with every new return the hope of hearing from some Hughes stronghold which would overturn the Wilson plurality became fainter. When the southern part of the State was nearly all on record, and had failed to cut Wilson down any further, while the northern part confirmed his plurality, it became certain that California had given the Democrats the victory in the nation.

All the news of the day was Wilson news. The back settlements of New Mexico, which were so long coming in, reversed Hughes's apparent lead when they did come, and turned the State over to Wilson by what, for that sparsely settled State, is a large majority. Hughes lost nothing in Minnesota, but the hope of a change in North Dakota was not realized, and the dwindling of his plurality in New Hampshire until the Democrats were claiming the State was the finishing blow.

San Francisco Did It.

California, however, was the pivot on which the election of 1916 swung. The big vote for Wilson in San Francisco was what gave Wilson his first lead. But that was not decisive, and Republican hopes turned to Los Angeles, which responded with a Hughes majority that was slightly in excess of San Francisco's Democratic majority. It all depended then on the northern and southern parts of the State, and there the Progressive vote failed Hughes and gave the State to Wilson. But without the City of San Francisco Woodrow Wilson would have had to quit the White House on March 4 next.

It is San Francisco which has elected Wilson. His lead in California up to date is about 3,000, and San Francisco went for him by 15,000. The women and the Progressives did the trick; the women in San Francisco voted for Wilson three to one. They paid no attention whatever to the attempt of the Women's Party to solidify them as a sex and vote them against Wilson in conformity with its wishes. As for the Progressives, when Mr. Hughes was in California he was in the same hotel with Governor Johnson, but did not call on him or send for him, and the fact was bruited over the State; and Johnson carried San Francisco, and Hughes lost it. That lost handshake changed history and made a Democrat President of the United States, results never before achieved by any handshake given or withheld.

The results in the pivotal States will be decided by majorities so small that a recount may be necessary and is almost sure to be demanded. In California Wilson is 3,131 ahead, in North Dakota, where it is alleged many valid Republican votes have been thrown out, by 1,560 in New Mexico by 1,750. In New Hampshire Hughes is ahead by only 131, and in Minnesota by 1,034. The Republicans last night announced their intention to contest all the close States, and the courts will have the last word on the Presidency.

The Democrats have demanded a recount in Los Angeles. In San Francisco neither party has taken any steps to safeguard the count, which is proceeding under the surveillance of United States Deputy Marshals.

The Republicans may demand a recount in North Dakota, where it is charged many Republican ballots were thrown out because the voters marked a cross opposite the name of Hughes as well as opposite the names of the electoral candidates.

As soon as it became evident that New Hampshire was in doubt, the Secretary of State announced that he would declare none but certified returns, and thereafter proceeded with extreme caution. At the close of the afternoon he suspended the count and announced that it would not be resumed until today. At that time, with twenty-five precincts unreported out of 294, the certified returns gave a plurality of 131 for Hughes.

Federal investigators from the Department of Justice have already invaded Minnesota and begun to examine charges of fraud in that State. The investigation began yesterday under the direction of Hinton G. Clabaugh of Chicago, chief of the Western Division of the Bureau of Investigation. It is alleged that one small lumber camp near Duluth turned in 3,000 votes.

Possibility of Split Votes.

The possibility of split electoral votes is looming up, and citizens who thought it would make no difference in the general result if they scratched some Elector whom they did not like are becoming factors in the situation. In California one of the Republican candidates for Elector, J. W. Wallace, was a prominent Prohibitionist, and voters who did not like his principles are said to have scratched him.

Secretary of State Jordan considers a split vote so likely that he has invited both parties to have representatives present when he makes the official count. However, a split vote is considered less probable in California than in some other States because in that State a square is placed on the ballot in which the voter places his mark for the electoral ticket as a whole.

In Washington, which went for Wilson by 12,000, he may lose an elector, and it will take the official count to determine whether he has or not. Stream, a Democratic candidate for elector, died, and in some of the counties there was not time to place on the ballot the name of his substitute, Connor.

In West Virginia, too, a Republican elector, Dawson, resigned, and the name of his substitute, Scott, failed to get on the ballot in several counties. West Virginia is so close that this probably means the loss of one vote to Hughes.

Indiana was not so well disposed toward Hughes as toward her local candidates. His majority is about 6,000, but Watson and New, the Senatorial candidates on the Republican ticket, carried the State by 12,000.

The irony of nomenclature is to be found in the fact that Roosevelt County, New Mexico, went for Wilson by 425. The worst of it is that the name is not an accident; the Roosevelt after whom the county was named was Theodore Roosevelt.

The Congress Situation.

President Wilson will have trouble in dealing with the Sixty-fifth Congress. The returns indicate that, while his party will control the Senate by a majority of 12, it will not control the House. There are 435 seats, and it will take 218 to control that body. The Democrats appear to have elected 211 and the Republicans 216. Three seats are in doubt, and there is 1 Socialist, 1 Prohibitionist, 1 Independent, 1 Progressive, and 1 "Protectionist."

The Republicans, on the face of the returns, have a plurality and can elect a Speaker unless the representatives of the minor parties combine with the Democrats. A fight for the Speakership between the two parties is assured. It will be the first time such a thing has happened since before the civil war.

WIRELESS GIVES WILSON THE RESULT

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Nov. 9.—The President and Mrs. Wilson left here late this afternoon in a motor car to board the Mayflower at Atlantic Highlands, travel by water to Rhinecliff, N. Y., and there at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning take train for Williamstown, Mass., to attend the christening of Mr. Wilson's grandchild, the offspring of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bowe Sayre. The President will arrive in Washington at 9:15 o'clock Sunday night.

A wireless message flashed to the Mayflower, at 11:30 o'clock tonight, carried to the President the assurance that he had been re-elected. The message was sent by Secretary Tumulty after he had been in communication with Democratic Headquarters in New York and had been told that there was no longer any doubt of the result.

Mr. Wilson had left word that he was to be notified by wireless as soon as the result might be known, but he had insisted that no returns not definite and conclusive were to be sent to him. Secretary Tumulty had obeyed, and the notice of his success was the first word the President received after boarding the Mayflower.

Mr. Wilson spent today playing golf and motoring with Mrs. Wilson in the morning and working in his study in the afternoon. He displayed the same calm which has characterized his attitude in the trying time of the last two days, and those who saw him found him smiling and apparently undisturbed.

Accompanying the President and Mrs. Wilson to Williamstown are Miss Margaret Wilson, Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, and Dr. Cary T. Grayson, the White House physician.

Attaches Not So Calm.

Though confidence in the Executive offices remained undimmed early this evening, the strain caused by the uncertainty was manifest in the faces of all the officials here. They remained smiling outwardly, but the real feeling of all of them was voiced by Secretary Tumulty when in reply to a question as to how the President was taking the situation, he replied, "Calmly as can be. A great deal better than I can."

Telegrams of congratulation have been pouring in at the offices all day, most of them regarding the President's election as assured.

Miss Margaret Wilson, who is stopping at Shadow Lawn with her father, showed particular interest in the returns. Before the President was up Miss Wilson called the Executive offices. The early reports showing Mr. Wilson leading in California, North Dakota, and New Hampshire, three of the doubtful States, were carried by her to the President.

Told He Wins California.

"I have the honor to inform you that California has decided to cast her thirteen votes for the man who stands for the rights of men, women, and children first, and secondly, for the rights of property—Woodrow Wilson. California feels that her thirteen votes are a lucky number for humanity, progress, and the nation."

President Wilson was informed at 10:25 o'clock this morning in a telegram from Senator Hollis of New Hampshire of the change in the New Hampshire returns giving Mr. Wilson a lead of ninety-three votes, Senator Hollis declaring that Mr. Wilson had carried the State by that plurality.

"Congratulations," the telegram concluded.

VIEWS OF CITY PRESS ON WILSON'S ELECTION

From the New York World.

Woodrow Wilson is re-elected President of the United States by the votes of the American people.

But again the Republicans are making preparations to defeat in the Electoral College a President whom the American people have elected at the polls.

Again the American people have received an impressive warning that the Electoral College is a menace to the political stability of the United States.

Even more important at this time than the meaning and the lesson of President Wilson's re-election is the danger to American peace and safety which is involved in the conflict that is again created by the existence of an Electoral College.

Twice has this crude and clumsy piece of mechanism thrown the election of a President into the House of Representatives. Once it brought the country to the verge of another civil war. This year it has produced a situation in which the election of a President could be turned by a handful of votes in a handful of States.

The returns from forty-eight States show that President Wilson is re-elected. A majority of the qualified voters of the country at the polls have so determined. But a trifling error of tabulation might change the legal result.

The disqualification of a Presidential elector here or there might change the result. A trifling technicality of the election law in one State or another might change the result. What is worse, a contest of this kind, narrowing down to a question of a few votes in three or four States that are almost evenly balanced, is a temptation to fraud and corruption which should never be tolerated.

A Triumph for Mr. Wilson.

From The New York Tribune.

On election night, when the returns from those States which have hitherto been regarded as pivotal in national campaigns indicated a large majority for Mr. Hughes, The Tribune editorially wrote of the result that it was a repudiation of Mr. Wilson and an answer to his declarations of policy and purpose. The returns which have subsequently been received have demonstrated clearly that The Tribune was mistaken in its conclusions and that, far from a repudiation of Mr. Wilson, the returns that are now at hand constitute the most remarkable personal indorsement that has come to a Democratic President since the days of Andrew Jackson.

It is relatively a minor thing whether the few hundred votes that will decide the electoral votes of California and Minnesota fall to Mr. Wilson or to Mr. Hughes. The very fact that these great Republican States have been in doubt to this moment indicates the extent of the failure of the Republican candidate and his party and not less clearly the amazing triumph of Mr. Wilson.

It is possible to debate the question as to whether the larger part of the result was due to Mr. Hughes's personal failure as a candidate and his resolute refusal to meet the great questions of the campaign fairly and bravely, or to a general enthusiasm for Mr. Wilson and for his policies. But such a discussion is in the main academic. However much importance one may attach to Mr. Hughes's failure, only deliberate and intentional injustice could obscure the extent of the personal triumph of Mr. Wilson.

Wants Votes for All Women.

From the New York Herald.

A startling possibility of the Presidential contest has been that the result might be determined by the representation in the Electoral College of a State which made no provision to enable its citizen soldiery, sent to the Mexican border on national duty, to vote, although the votes of these soldier citizens might have turned the scale. Other States provided against the enforced disfranchisement of their soldiers, but New Hampshire did not.

Here another deplorable inequality in our election system reveals itself to shock the American spirit of fairness, the American love of fair play.

While the fact cannot be determined with accuracy until there is an analysis of the official vote, the present indication is that the result in California will have been decided by the votes of women. The same situation may be disclosed by analysis of the results in some other far Western States. We do not know. But we do know that it is little short of national scandal that women should be allowed to vote in some States and not in others—that the selection of a President and a national administration should be committed into the hands of women voters in one State or group of States when women of other States are denied the voting privilege.

OUR ELECTION NEWS MYSTIFIES PARIS

ODD ERRORS BY THE PRESS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—"Coup de théâtre" is the expression used by most of the newspapers today to explain the unexpected turn of the election tide after announcing a victory for Hughes. It is also generally remarked that whichever candidate finally is elected the result can hardly be viewed as a real victory or defeat for either party.

The election news has been the leading feature of the press during the last twenty-four hours, and interest continues very keen. The significance of the present electoral crisis is pointed out by L'Echo de Paris, which remarks: "Despite all wise calculations, despite so many excellent intentions, the United States is passing through a crisis worth watching. To be sure, it will emerge without harm, and no American will have the impression of having run the least danger, but why—because the Allies are holding Germany encircled. It is owing to our submitting to the necessities of war that we make it possible for our American friends to enjoy with impunity the liberty of an election. Probably nobody on the other side of the Atlantic will think of this, but we do well to remember.

"There are institutions which enfeeble nations; others which strengthen. The day for a choice will come. On that day let us remember the experiences of others as well as our own.

Temps Chides United States.

The Temps again devotes an editorial to the election, and begins by gravely reproving the precipitation of its transatlantic colleagues in announcing as a certainty what still hung in the balance. It maintains the opinions expressed yesterday when Hughes's election apparently was assured, and remarks:

"The verdict of the United States has a right to our deference. This deference will be shown, but we reserve the liberty of judging those who refuse to judge us."

Referring to the support of American intellectual spheres to the Allies, the writer continues: "American idealism is with the Allies and sooner or later it will win the day. It would have pleased us to see its victory affirmed by an act. A drawn result, or what practically amounts to that, of which the official conclusion now awaits, shows that the complexity of material interests, of race atavism, and political combinations still considerably obscure the vision of the situation. This matters little. When one is in the right, victory is only a question of time. America, so often insulted by the German press, will remain for the Entente Powers the friendly neutral she has been so far, for nothing on our side will modify the relations defined by our moderation and uprightness."

The erroneous news that Myron T. Herrick had been elected caused widespread satisfaction among the American colony, among whom his record of services rendered to his countrymen during the crisis of the early war days will never be forgotten.

"Lord Hughes as Ambassador."

Despite the sincere interest shown by Parisians in the American election, it is evident that hazy notions still prevail with the man in the street regarding the land of unlimited possibilities.

"Is it true that Lord Hughes is appointed American Ambassador to France?" was a question put to me today by a worthy citizen.

This question, after all, is not so surprising in view of the fact that a number of the leading papers announced that "Sir Whitman has been appointed Governor of New York."

By The Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—The American election is being followed with the deepest interest, the news having the place of honor in most morning papers. The commentators, mindful of the dramatic surprise of yesterday when the supposedly certain Hughes victory was turned into a possible defeat, are reluctant to commit themselves.

The majority of the comments is similar to that of Stephen Pichon, in The Petit Journal, who expresses the belief that the victory of either candidate will have little effect on American policy as far as the big questions interesting France are concerned. It is also pointed out that the present Administration will remain, in any event, in power until March 4, and that many things may happen between now and then.

The Matin remarks that while a victory for Mr. Hughes might mean a more vigorous international policy it would also mean a protectionist regime. The Matin comments that this change, while unimportant in time of war, might be awkward for French business interests on the return of peace.

MARSHALL TO WILSON.

Quotes From Shakespeare in Extending His Congratulations.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 9.—A quotation from "Romeo and Juliet" was incorporated in Vice President Marshall's telegram of congratulation to President Wilson tonight. The telegram follows:

"'Tis not so deep as a well nor so wide as a church door: but 'tis enough and 'twill serve.'

GERMANS WORRIED; HEAR HUGHES WINS

TURN TO PRAISE OF WILSON

Press Expresses Fear of Roosevelt's Influence—Still in the Dark as to Returns.

The following dispatch from THE TIMES staff correspondent in Berlin was written on the first news of the result of the election, when Germany was convinced that Mr. Hughes had been elected:

From a Staff Correspondent.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 8, (via Sayville.)—The first bulletin of Hughes's election, received here this morning, came as a shock of surprise and puzzled Germans, from high official circles down to the man in the street, particularly as to the possible effect on future German-American relations.

The press is featuring every available scrap of election news and the biography of the President-elect, but editorial comment is as yet restrained, because the press, like the public, is hopelessly at sea regarding the larger significance of Hughes's triumph over Wilson, for whom a decidedly more friendly spirit has sprung up here lately.

I was able to sound opinion in diplomatic and official circles today, and found a conflict of two ideas, of hopes and fears. First, a tendency to hope and believe in the truth of the characterization of Hughes as a man of unswerving, uninfluenceable justness and high integrity; second, an uneasy feeling as to the rôle Roosevelt may play in the new Administration. The consensus of opinion, however, is that the election, after all, was purely America's private affair, and that there was, after all, nothing to do but wait and see what influence, if any, Mr. Hughes's election would have on America's policy regarding relations with Germany. German optimism is slowly inclining the people to hope for the best.

A German statesman said to me: "After all, Mr. Hughes's election is in reality purely a domestic affair of America's. To us Hughes is still a sealed volume."

An official of the Foreign Office remarked: "We haven't been able to make much of the often-conflicting extracts from the campaign speeches. Mr. Hughes is an unwritten page. One must quietly await developments."

Among all sorts of people there is lively interest and speculation as to whether Colonel Roosevelt will have a seat in the Cabinet, while in diplomatic circles interest centres chiefly in speculation as to whether or not Hughes will take sharper action against England in the blockade, blacklist, and mail interference questions and whether his policy will be unfriendly toward Germany. The last reports of Mr. Hughes's speeches made a generally unfriendly impression here. Certain it is that Hughes's election was not unadulterated joy to thinking Germans, and I heard many expressions of opinion today tinged with regret. In some quarters I also heard the hope expressed that Hughes's election would not mean the passing of Ambassador Gerard, whose hard and good work in helping to maintain peaceful German-American relations has come to be more and more appreciated here since his departure.

The Tageblatt says: "It is improbable that the main cause of Wilson's defeat is to be sought in questions of foreign policy. Hughes's criticism of Wilson's attitude toward Germany was cautious and did not go so far as to attack Wilson's peaceable tendencies. Like Wilson, Hughes placed Americans' rights under international law in the foreground, arriving at conclusions which, however, do not justify us in believing that in these pending controversial questions Hughes would come nearer to the German standpoint than Wilson. But he also said nothing which could be interpreted as not sharing his predecessor's efforts to maintain peace and, if possible, to have a share in bringing about peace. On this point we must regard Hughes as still a blank page and we would not like to take the snap judgment of identifying him with Roosevelt's tendencies. Only in the event that it became apparent that Hughes was inclined to pay heed to Roosevelt's claims on him would we be justified in drawing certain conclusions.

"The return of the Republicans to power will naturally mean a change in the great transatlantic Commonwealth to imperialistic and militaristic policy, but a vote of confidence in warlike tendencies should not be interpreted from yesterday's election, but rather, absurd as it sounds, as a notice to Republicans to continue the Democratic program of peace and prosperity.

"Wilson will remain in office four months and then we must patiently wait and see whether Hughes in calm, clearsighted, cautious suggestions will not continue Wilson's work of guiding the destinies of his country in obedience to the currents of public opinion."

The Lokal-Anzeiger says: "Examining Hughes's campaign speeches, without prejudice, one cannot assert that his attitude toward foreign policy differs markedly from Wilson's. Like Wilson, Hughes announces his intention of observing the strictest neutrality and with all emphasis to champion American rights.

"We believe that yesterday's election will make little difference in America's attitude toward Germany. If the German-Americans voted for Hughes, they did it less from enthusiasm for him than hatred against Wilson. Hughes's election is of advantage to us only in so far as it will prevent Wilson, until his departure from office, from making any decisive step which would tie the hands of his successor. In other words, that it is a certain guarantee that in the next four months America will continue neutral."

Germania says: "For the present America's foreign policy will continue in the old groove, but even after Hughes comes to the helm, a great overturn is hardly to be expected. Wilson's re-election might, however, have been the more unfavorable result, since he would have concluded from his re-election that the nation approved his policy, which one might almost call a war policy."

GETS ELECTION FIGURES IN SHELL-SWEPT VAUX

Correspondent's News Creates Intense Interest Among the Defenders of the Fort.

FORT VAUX, on the Verdun Front, Nov. 8, (via Paris.)—News of the Presidential election in the United States was communicated by wireless telegraph to the correspondent of The Associated Press in Fort Vaux today and created intense interest amid the activities of defense preparations and under a very severe German bombardment.

The French were engaged in restoring the fort to its original condition and strength. Lieutenant Diot related to the correspondent how he had entered the works while they were still supposed to be occupied by the Germans. He approached a machine gun embrasure under cover of darkness and inserted his head. He saw nobody and proceeded to search further. He then found that the entire garrison had departed. The French were able to occupy the fort without a shot.

Evidence was discovered in the shape of a program drafted by the German commander, von Engelbrechten, dated Oct. 21, for strengthening the position so as to permit the Germans to prepare for a further attack on Verdun. The details comprised the erection of barricades in the interior, in order to permit of its defense in sections; also the construction of a new exit and galleries, the erection of barbed-wire entanglements, and the excavation of a tunnel, forty feet of which had been completed.

The French have already advanced their lines well to the front of the fort, thus opposing any attempt at a counterattack by the Germans, who would be obliged to seek a position in marshy ground, where it would be impossible to dig trenches. Vaux was the sole strong point occupied by the Germans, from which it would be possible to execute a counterattack with any probability of success, and they are constantly showing their vexation over its loss by throwing thousands of shells into it; but these have not affected the stability of the position.

UNION LEAGUERS ARE LOTH TO ADMIT DEFEAT

Within the ancient precincts of the Union League Club, some 500 rock-ribbed Republicans celebrated last night the election of Charles E. Hughes to the Presidency. Sturdily, almost stubbornly, a little group of them in which former Senator Elihu Root, President of the club, was a conspicuous figure, assured a reporter of THE NEW YORK TIMES that there must be something wrong with the election figures.

The club members were buoyed up by a report from Republican National Headquarters that, with only a few precincts uncounted, Mr. Hughes was leading in California. They looked with skepticism upon later figures received in the newspaper offices. Some of the more elderly decided not long after 10 o'clock that there was no use staying up so late. So they called their cars and went home with cheery declarations that it would be just as well to get up and read the news of victory in the morning. Henry C. Quinby, Secretary of the organization, said:

"There are no tears and no regrets here. There is not a member of this club who has lost his faith in the American people; not one of us who does not believe that in the end the American people will have been found to have understood and to have done what was right."

A dozen club members, prominent in the city, studied eagerly the latest returns scribbled on a telegraph blank for their perusal, and seized upon every chance or hope. Even after a survey of the figures seemed to have removed the last grounds for their optimism, some of them suggested that the vote of the guardsmen on the border might turn the tide.

The New Mexico figures particularly perplexed the gray-haired men in evening clothes, who wandered back and forth between the bulletin board in the lounge and the very unpleasant statistics on the telegraph blank. That a State so close to the Mexican turmoil, so incensed at the Wilson policy in that country as all border States were supposed to be, could possibly have cast a majority of its ballots for the re-election of the President caused more than one hand to shake with bewilderment.

Senator Root laughed heartily when he was told that Roosevelt County, N. M., had gone for President Wilson by a majority of 435. A few moments later, still hopeful, he left the club.

At a business session of the club last night General Anson G. McCook was made an honorary member—an honor seldom conferred upon others than former Presidents of the United States. The distinction was conferred upon General McCook because of his services in the civil war and in celebration of his forty years' membership in the club.

GUARDSMEN MAY TURN MINNESOTA

LEAD OF 200 PROBABLE

Special to The New York Times.

McALLEN, Texas, Nov. 9.—If the margin of votes between the totals of Mr. Hughes' and Mr. Wilson in Minnesota is smaller than 600, the 2,136 ballots cast by the four regiments of National Guardsmen, now on the border, under a special act passed by the Legislature only a week before election may swing the State to the Democratic column.

From a straw vote taken in the First Minnesota Infantry and from conversation with Minnesota men, from commanding Generals to recruits, a reporter for THE NEW YORK TIMES has formed the opinion that Mr. Wilson will lead in the count of the border ballots by at least 200 votes.

Of the ballots cast the First Regiment had 506. In the straw vote 872 votes were cast, despite the desire that only qualified voters participate. Mr. Wilson received 590, Mr. Hughes 282. Colonel Earle D. Luce believes that the Wilson votes among the total of 506 will run at least two to one, perhaps three to one, and that the same proportion will hold in the 360 cast by the First Minnesota Artillery, a regiment composed of the same class of men from Minneapolis and St. Paul that the infantry unit has in its personnel, a class of soldiers that corresponds closely to the Seventh New York Infantry and the First New York Cavalry.

Asserting that his regiment was normally Republican, Colonel George E. Leech of the Artillery refused to accept the prediction of Colonel Luce. He said he believed the number of Republican votes would at least equal that of the Democratic. Most of the officers of the regiment are Republican.

In the Third Minnesota only two of the fifty officers are not Republicans. But the opinion that the Wilson votes will outnumber those of Hughes at least two to one is shared by Brig. Gen. E. M. Lewis, in command of the camp at Llano Grande, and his Chief of Staff, Major W. C. Babcock, as well as by Brig. Gen. F. E. Reache, commanding the Minnesota troops, and many other officers, who have heard of the straw votes taken in many companies in the Minnesota regiments.

General Reache readily gave permission to THE TIMES reporter to take a straw vote of the regiments of the Minnesota Brigade, but the plan was balked by Colonel H. V. Eva of the Third Minnesota. He conferred with his officers and explained that it was the unanimous opinion that a straw vote should not be allowed. It was his belief, as well as that of all his officers, Colonel Eva said, that the 661 votes in the command would go for Hughes at least two to one. General Reache, who was promoted recently from the Colonelcy of the Third Regiment, said he was sure the unit, normally Republican, would throw the majority of its votes to Wilson.

Because a terrific rainstorm had made the roads almost impassable for automobiles and because of lack of time it was not possible to take a straw vote of the Second Minnesota or make any sort of canvass of the sentiment of the unit. Its official vote is 473. Soldiers who extricated THE TIMES automobile from the heavy gumbo mud several times were about evenly divided in their support of the candidates.

Neither was it possible to take a straw vote in the artillery, because the reporter reached the camp of the regiment late tonight after making a circuit of 150 miles over heavy roads in order to visit the four scattered camps of the regiments which are now on a four-day hike. Colonel Leech promised to give every aid in taking a vote, but it will be impossible to make a canvass of the regiments tomorrow, for their hike will take them still further apart and still further from any telegraph line.

Both Sides Claim Border Lead.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 9.—How Minnesota's vote will be cast in the Electoral College probably will not be determined until next week, when the 2,136 votes of her National Guardsmen on the border are counted.

Democrats say the Guardsmen's vote will turn the tide to Wilson. The Republican leaders say it will increase Hughes's total vote.

It is reported from Llano Grande, Tex, where the Minnesota troops are stationed, that the First Regiment, members of which came from St Paul and Minneapolis, gave Wilson a majority of 400. This is unofficial and can not be verified, because every ballot cast is required to be sealed and kept secret until counted

It is doubtful if the artillery regiment will be friendly toward Wilson, because their trip to the border was delayed several months and much feeling was engendered against the Administration during their enforced stay in the mobilization camp. The two other infantry regiments are from sections of the State which have given Hughes slight pluralities.

Another factor which may have a slight effect on the final result is the vote of absentees. The Minnesota law provides that absent citizens may vote in any precinct in Minnesota in which they happen to be on Election Day if they have a certificate showing they are eligible to vote from their home precincts. These votes are sealed and forwarded to the Auditors of the counties in which they absentee voters reside, and are counted when the official canvass is made. As a rule only commercial travelers take advantage of this law, and the number voting in this way Tuesday is estimated at about 500. It is predicted this vote, when counted next week, will be found to be about evenly divided, or in favor of Hughes.

Minnesota Alone Affected.

Possibility of the result of the national election being affected by the votes of National Guardsmen mobilized along the Mexican border disappeared yesterday in all but one State—Minnesota, which has about 3,600 soldiers at the front, with 2,136 voting. The vote of the North Dakota guardsmen at the border was counted with the other ballots Tuesday. The State troops, voting under the law giving the same privilege to all legal voters absent from the State, made out their ballots several days before Election Day and they were forwarded to the proper precincts and tabulated with the other returns.

New Hampshire's 1,375 men on the border appear to have lost the suffrage after a wrangle which has excited the State for weeks. At Republican headquarters yesterday afternoon it was said that a message had been received from Concord that the New Hampshire soldiers had voted and that their votes were being sent North, but this could not be confirmed.

California had only 400 men at the front, and these were mustered out in time to vote. Those of the 1,100 New Mexicans in active service who happened to live in the border county in which they were stationed cast their ballots, but not the others. West Virginia's 1,658 were not allowed to vote. New York's 11,000 men at the front, whose votes will not be counted until Dec. 19, of course will make no appreciable difference in the enormous majorities piled up in this State.

HUGHES HURT IN CALIFORNIA

Failure to Meet Governor Johnson There Resented by Progressives.

In connection with the Democratic victory in California, which left Charles E. Hughes with little or no chance of election, some political observers last night recalled the trouble which occurred there when Mr. Hughes toured the State in August. The personal management of the California campaign while the candidate was there was taken over by the Old Guard leaders and bitter factional feeling was stirred up between Republicans and Progressives, the latter under the leadership of Governor Hiram W. Johnson.

Mr. Hughes was in California from Aug. 19 to Aug. 23 and during that time he did not meet Governor Johnson, although the two were at the same hotel in Long Beach near Los Angeles on Aug. 20 at the same hour. It was reported then that Mr. Hughes did not know Governor Johnson was in the hotel. At any rate his tour was so managed that they did not meet.

The presence at all times, wherever Mr. Hughes went, of William H. Crocker and Frank V. Keesling, National Committeeman and State Chairman, some observers felt widened the breach which has always been bitter between the followers of Johnson and the old-line Republicans. Chester Rowell, the present State Chairman, who go the position when Governor Johnson swept the primaries later on, said at the time that he felt the manner in which the Hughes tour of California had been managed might have a serious effect on the Progressive vote.

New Mexico, he added, also was safe. Senator Walsh in Chicago, he said, received a telegram from the New Mexico State Chairman that the President would have a safe plurality. West Virginia, Chairman McCormick admitted, was close, but he said he would not concede it to the Republicans, but would fight to the end. Mr. McCormick also put North Dakota in the Democratic column. Late advices, he said, showed that the President was cutting down the Hughes plurality. At noon the Chairman received this telegram from H. Hildreth of Fargo, N. D., National Democratic Committeeman: "Practically complete returns give Wilson 50,345 and Hughes 49,057. Wilson's plurality at 3 A. M. was 1,248. The State is for Wilson."

No matter which way New Hampshire goes the Democrats will insist upon a recount, Chairman McCormick said. The latest reports, he said, showed that the President would win by a small margin. Senator Hollis of New Hampshire wired during the morning that complete returns filed at the State House in Concord gave to the President a plurality of 93, and that a recount would increase this figure. At 3:45 P. M. Mr. McCormick announced that he had been told over the telephone by State Chairman Ferrand that with all the ballots counted Wilson had carried the State by 115 votes.

Henry Morgenthau, Treasurer of the National Committee, said a recount would be demanded in New Hampshire in spite of the fact that the figures showed President Wilson was in the lead. Instructions to the Democratic State Committee there to demand the recount had already gone forward, he said. A committee of lawyers in New Hampshire, it was announced, had been formed to watch the vote-counting and to protect the interests of the Democrats.

WON'T CONCEDE WITHOUT RECOUNT

full approval of Chairman Willcox. He said yesterday that practically the only means of putting the quietus on the Democratic cries of fraud was by a recount in the so-called doubtful States.

Say Democrats Cried Fraud First.

"The Democrats began crying fraud before election," said Mr. Willcox. "In view of the history of their party, it ill becomes them to raise a cry of this kind. We have not brought in the United States Attorney General nor the United States District Attorneys to help count the vote in any State, realizing that that is a function with which the State authorities alone should deal. We are quite willing to stand by the verdict of every vote properly cast and counted. We want no vote that has not been so cast, and we shall take steps to see that our opponents claim no other."

Former United States Attorney General George W. Wickersham, who, it is expected, will take an active part in mapping out the recount program in doubtful States, said last night that there was little likelihood that the contest would come before the House of Representatives for final arbitrament in this instance, as it did in the Hayes-Tilden contest in 1876. The present House, which would be the arbiter, has a Democratic majority.

Mr. Wickersham asserted that the legislation enacted by Congress in 1887, very largely as a result of developments in that historic contest, made the States sovereign in pronouncing judgment in a recount on the Presidential vote and that only in the case of a tie that might result from the death or retirement or the refusal to vote on the part of Electors, or in case a State should return two sets of Electors, as might be possible as a result of factional fights, would the House be called on to give a decision.

"In such a case the House of Representatives would have the right to reject the returns from a State, but it cannot go behind the returns and investigate any irregularities that might be charged," said Mr. Wickersham. "In case an election is thrown into the House the vote is cast by States, each delegation meeting separately and deciding on a choice. In the meantime the Vice President, who would be selected by the Senate, would become the de facto President."

The big assembly room at headquarters of the Republican National Committee, with its huge blackboard on which returns were chalked up as they came in, was again thronged throughout the day by a crowd eagerly and some somberly watching the incoming reports. It was late in the afternoon before these were of a nature at all cheering to the crowd.

In the mob that surged in and out a very large proportion had come to lay eleventh-hour bets on the election. It was noticed also that there was a heavy sprinkling of professional gamblers and agents for bookmakers in the crowd. Whenever new returns came in these men would rush to the dozen or more telephones in the adjoining newspaper room, to which they had free access, and telephone the new returns to the headquarters of their employers as a basis for new betting odds. There was some betting in the crowd, too. Two young men who were caught in the act of making a bet and actually putting up the money were speedily ejected.

Hoped for Split on Electors.

Early in the day, while it was still expected that Mr. Hughes would carry North Dakota, the Republicans were hoping strongly that even if President Wilson should carry California, the State might send a split delegation to the Electoral College, as it did four years ago, and that this might save the Republican candidate from defeat.

The campaign managers figured on two combinations which might help Mr. Hughes win. One was a split delegation from California with three Electors for Hughes, one Republican Elector from Washington whose election is looked for as a result of the death of one of the Democratic Electors, New Mexico's three, North Dakota's five, and Minnesota's twelve. This added to the 247 electoral votes of which Mr. Hughes seemed assured would have given him the exact necessary majority of 266 in the Electoral College. This combination left New Hampshire out of the Hughes column. With New Hampshire back in line the leaders figured that Mr. Hughes could win without North Dakota, which seemed in doubt.

Chairman Willcox returned to Republican Headquarters at 11 o'clock last night and went into conference with several of the leaders. Afterward he issued the following statement:

"We are still waiting for complete returns from the close States, but up to the present moment, as far as results are concerned, there is no change from last night."

An hour earlier a notice had been posted on the bulletin board saying "No more bulletins." Most of the crowd left then, but a few minutes later a dispatch headed "Western Union" was posted saying that Hughes was leading by 1,095 votes in California. That cheered the crowd up, and there was great applause, but only a few minutes later it was announced that the bulletin was not correct.

Among those who visited the headquarters were Elihu Root, Frank A. Munsey, Henry L. Stimson, Frank L. Hitchcock, and George W. Perkins.

As he was leaving, Mr. Root was asked if the Republicans conceded Wilson's election. He replied: "I don't know," and would say nothing further. The others were equally reticent.

STATES CERTIFY ELECTORS.

Power of Congress Over Disputed Returns Is Limited.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Government officials here were deeply interested in and not a little concerned over today's announcements from Democratic and Republican campaign leaders that contests might be expected, with a possibility of legal proceedings, over the votes for Presidential electors in several of the close States.

Examination of the decisions of the Supreme Court and of the Revised Statutes discloses that Electors are plainly regarded as State officers, under State jurisdiction. The Revised Statutes provide that the Electors shall meet in each State and "give their votes" on the second Monday in January following election, at places to be designated by the State Legislatures. In the ordinary course of proceedings, where the right of the Electors to sit is uncontested, the votes of all States would be counted in the House on the second Wednesday in February, and this would be the legal end of the election.

The Statutes further provide that where a State shall have laws made prior to the election determining methods by which controversies or contests over Electors shall be settled, whether by judicial proceedings or otherwise, these laws "shall be binding and shall govern in counting the electoral vote." Officials here were under the impression that it would be found that all the States that may be involved in contests have laws of this character.

When Congress meets to receive the votes it is still possible for a majority to reverse the certified results from any State in certain cases. As the votes are read to the joint session, the statutes give the right to any member of either House to object, the objection to be considered in separate session. Where only one return has been made from a State, Congress cannot overturn the certified result, except the two houses concurrently may reject any vote where it appears not to have been given by the properly chosen Electors.

Where more than one certificate for a State has been sent the vote of those Electors who the two houses shall concurrently decide have been supported in a contest by the proper State authorities shall be received and accredited. Where there has been no determination of a contest by State authorities and there is more than one certificate returned, the choice as to those properly selected is with the two houses. If the two houses disagree, the certificate signed by the Executive of the State concerned shall be binding and the votes so certified counted.

Should contests and recounts over Tuesday's elections, before State canvassing boards or in State courts, consume such time that the Governors would be unable to certify the final result by the time Congress meets in February, it was believed by legal experts here that the final canvass could be held open until March 4.

INQUIRY IN CONNECTICUT.

Republicans' Alleged Use of Money to be Investigated.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 9.—Homer S. Cummings, State's Attorney for Fairfield County, today announced that he would cause an investigation to be made of reports of alleged excessive use of money and excessive employment of election workers in the county in Tuesday's election. He was the Democratic candidate for United States Senator.

Mr. Cummings said he was not prepared at present to name any individual in his charges, nor would he say what form the investigation would take. He had evidence, he said, to support charges that money had been used lavishly by Republicans especially in Bridgeport, and especial attention would be given to conditions in that city.

Connecticut gave a little less than 6,000 plurality for Hughes, about 4,000 of which came from Fairfield County, which contains about one-fifth of the State's population, and is a large industrial community, in which Democratic leaders had predicted a Wilson plurality.

It is alleged by the Democrats that throughout the county a large number of persons were illegally employed to work at the polls, and in other ways in connection with the election, and large sums of money were received and expended in the interest of Republican candidates.

CALIFORNIA FOR WILSON BY 3,100

in more than 900,000 votes, a difference of one vote in each precinct might change the whole result.

Leaders of both parties affirmed their intention of protecting the recount to the limit. The Democratic Chairman, Mr. Cushing, said tonight:

"United States marshals are watching the count. We are going to see that we get the vote that was cast for us. We are not going to be crowded out in Los Angeles County as we were four years ago."

Chairman Rowell of the Republicans telegraphed all county Chairmen to arrange for the best legal talent to watch the official count.

Possibilities of a split in the electoral vote of the State were the theme of discussion all day, especially because of the fact that California had divided its allegiance in this four times within recent times, the latest being in 1912.

California's present system of voting for all thirteen electors by stamping in a square, designated for that purpose, precludes the probability of splitting the vote unless the tally on the head of the ticket is extremely close. If Wilson carries the State by 2,500 or more it is not believed that any of his electors will fail of election and that there will be only slight difference in the vote for the individual electors.

Should Hughes carry California, however, there is a possibility of Wilson taking one vote from the State to the Electoral College. This will be because of the scratching of A. J. Wallace, a Republican Presidential Elector, by the radical "wets," because Wallace is one of the foremost "drys."

Mr. Cushing, Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, said today that there was no possibility of a split in the State, but Secretary of State Jordan at Sacramento today predicted there would be a split. He said he was so confident of this that he had already decided to ask both parties to delegate representatives to be present when the official count is made.

The count will probably start about next Thursday, after the semi-official count of votes has been made by the County Boards of Supervisors.

Party Leaders Vigilant.

Demands for representation at a recount of voting returns were made today in Los Angeles by Democratic leaders upon Thomas C. McAlear, Registrar of Votes, and a representative from Republican and one from Democratic headquarters were authorized to watch the count. The ballots were transferred to a vault in the presence of Albert Schoonover, United States District Attorney.

John W. Preston, United States District Attorney at San Francisco, received orders today from Washington to be prepared to handle any election fraud cases in California which might be brought to his attention. No complaints were made to him today.

Oakland members of the Democratic State Central Committee established a guard today at the local Court House where Alameda County's ballots were being tabulated.

Complete returns for San Francisco on the Presidential vote give Wilson 78,451; Hughes, 63,357, a majority for the President of 15,094.

Allegations of election frauds in the wet and dry fight here were made today by Franklin Hichborn, publicity manager for the Anti-Saloon League. If the charges were substantiated, Hichborn asserted, not only would the entire "wet," and "dry" vote of the State be jeopardized, but the national election also. These charges were denied by G. M. McDowell, executive officer for the Associated California Industries, which managed the fight for the "wets," and by Chief of Police White.

MINOR PARTIES HOLD BALANCE IN HOUSE

Neither Democrats Nor Republicans Likely to Have a Majority Over All.

SPEAKERSHIP IS IN DOUBT

Either of the Major Parties May Need Independents' Support to Organize.

Complete returns from all States which elected Senators on Tuesday make no change in the political complexion of the next Senate as given in THE TIMES yesterday morning. The next Senate will stand:

Democrats	54
Republicans	42
Total membership of Senate	96
Democratic majority	12

Whether the Democrats or the Republicans will have a greater number of members in the next House of Representatives is uncertain. From all appearances neither side will have a majority over the combined opposition, which will include a Socialist, a Progressive, an Independent, a Protectionist, and a Prohibitionist. Practically complete returns from 432 of the 435 Congressional districts, with the results in three districts doubtful, indicate that the next House will stand:

Republicans	216
Progressive	1
Prohibitionist	1
Protectionist	1
Independent	1
Socialist	1
Doubtful	3

Minor Parties Hold Balance.

With three doubtful districts it is evident that at this time it cannot be told with certainty whether more Democrats than Republicans or more Republicans than Democrats have been elected to the next House. The five Representatives of minor parties or independent movements will certainly hold the balance of power. The Prohibitionist was indorsed by Democrats, Republicans, and Progressives, and defeated a candidate who ran as an independent. In the last Congress this Prohibitionist sided on most questions with the Democrats. The Protectionist is from Louisiana, and will vote with the Republicans on questions affecting the tariff.

The Socialist will probably vote with the Democrats on questions affecting the organization of the house. The Independent defeated a Republican, but is credited with Republican leanings himself. The Progressive is expected to be on the side of the Republicans on most party questions. It probably will be necessary for the major party which has elected most members to obtain the aid of some of the representatives of minor movements to elect a Speaker and effect the organization of the House.

Two of the doubtful districts are in Pennsylvania and one in North Carolina. Representative W. H. Coleman, Republican, has apparently been elected in the Thirtieth Pennsylvania District over C. H. Arnold, Democrat, by 20 votes. Guy E. Campbell, Democrat, has apparently been elected over Representative A. J. Barchfeld, Republican, in the Thirty-second Pennsylvania District by 19 votes. Pennsylvania State troops now on the Mexican border voted on Tuesday, and the result of the elections in the Thirtieth and Thirty-second Districts of the Keystone State will remain in doubt until the soldier ballots have been received and officially canvassed.

Britt Has a Chance.

The result of the election in the Tenth North Carolina District is now in doubt. This district is represented by Congressman James J. Britt, Republican, who had previously been reported defeated by Zeb Weaver, Democrat. Returns up to an early hour this morning show that it is not certain whether Britt or Weaver won.

While the indications are that Miss Jeannette Rankin, Republican candidate for Congress in Montana, has been defeated by H. B. Mitchell, Democrat, her election is claimed by the Montana Republican State Committee, and an official count may be necessary to determine the outcome.

The latest returns indicate that in the next House the Republicans may have a majority of five, but this lead could be balanced by a combination of Democrats, Prohibitionist, Protectionist, Independent, Progressive, and Socialist. Should the outcome in the three doubtful districts be in favor of the sitting members, the Republicans will have 219 representatives, as against 211 for the Democrats. Two of the three doubtful districts, however, may go to the Democrats, which would leave the standing of the two major parties in the next House as follows:

Speakership in Question.

It would be necessary in these circumstances for one of the major parties to make an arrangement with members of the minor parties in order to give the major party control of the House organization. As matters stand now it is uncertain whether Champ Clark of Missouri, Democrat, or James R. Mann of Illinois, Republican, will be the Speaker of the next House. In the circumstances it may be possible for the representatives of minor parties to insist upon the Speakership going to some other Democrat than Clark or some other Republican than Mann.

The greatest surprise of the Congressional election was the defeat of Representative Ernest W. Roberts of Massachusetts, Republican, one of the oldest members of the House in point of service, by A. J. Fuller, Independent. Mr. Roberts has been in Congress since March 4, 1899, and is serving his ninth consecutive term.

Representative C. H. Randall of Los Angeles, Cal., who was elected to the House two years ago as a Prohibitionist, has been re-elected as a Prohibitionist-Democrat-Republican-Progressive. He is frequently classified as a Democrat, but in the Congressional Directory for the present Congress calls himself a Prohibitionist.

Representative W. P. Martin of Louisiana, who was elected to the present Congress as a Progressive-Protectionist, and who changed his political designation to Protectionist, has been re-elected under that designation. His opponent, was W. O. Martin, Democrat. Congressman Martin was the first non-Democrat elected to Congress from Louisiana in twenty-five years.

Representative Thomas V. Schall, who is totally blind, has been re-elected as a Progressive from the Tenth Minnesota district. He had a Republican and a Democratic candidate against him.

No doubt remains that Representative Meyer London has been re-elected to the Twelfth New York District on the Socialist ticket. He defeated Louis M. Block, Republican; Leon Sanders, Democrat, and Solomon Suffrin, National-Progressive.

VOTERS IGNORE BLACKLIST.

Nearly All Candidates Proscribed by Staats-Zeitung Are Re-Elected.

Study of the make-up of the New York City delegation to the next Congress as shown in the complete election returns seems to demonstrate that, instead of being a handicap, the blacklist placed by the New Yorker Staats-Zeitung upon the members of the last Congress who voted to table the McLemore resolution aimed at warning American citizens from traveling in allied merchantmen, was a help to those candidates.

Of the fourteen representatives designated by the Staats as "Congressmen who do not deserve our support," all but three were re-elected Tuesday, and in almost every case by a materially increased vote. In the Sixth District, (Kings,) for instance, Frederick W. Rowe polled 28,800 votes, as compared with 22,262 in 1914. In several other districts the gain of the candidates picked out for the targets of "German blows" was proportionately as large, while the three men who were defeated, Michael F. Farley, Fourteenth; Thomas G. Patten, Eighteenth, and Woodson R. Oglesby, Twenty-fourth, lost by comparatively small pluralities.

The eight Congressmen listed as fair by the Staats because they had voted for the McLemore resolution were all re-elected, except William S. Bennet of the Twenty-third District, (Manhattan).

Dist.
2—Charles Pope Caldwell, Dem.
5—James P. Maher, Dem.
10—Reuben L. Haskell, Rep.
15—Michael F. Conry, Dem.
17—John F. Carew, Dem.
18—Thomas G. Patten, Dem.
21—G. Murray Hulbert, Dem.
24—Woodson R. Oglesby, Dem.

Those who were listed as worthy of German-American support were:

Dist.
4—Harry Howard Dale, Dem.
7—John J. Fitzgerald, Dem.

CLAIM 350,000 HANLY VOTES.

Prohibition Chairman Says Hughes Could Have Got Many.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 9.—Oliver W. Stewart, Chairman of the Prohibition National Campaign Committee, today issued a statement in which he said the Prohibition vote would reach 350,000 and that had the Republican Party and its nominee said anything against the liquor traffic enough Prohibitionists would have voted the Republican ticket to have assured Mr. Hughes's election in earlier returns. Mr. Stewart said:

"Returns from our vote are slow in coming in, but we have heard enough to justify us in expecting the final total of votes polled for Mr. Hanly, the Prohibition candidate for President, to reach 350,000. Mr. Chafin, our candidate four years ago, polled 208,000 votes.

"So close was the race between Hughes and Wilson that the increased vote which Hanly received in several States, if given to the loser, would have changed the result. Many Progressives who believe in Prohibition turned to Hanly rather than Hughes because of the silence of the latter on the issue in which they are interested."

Stutz Co. Must Pay for Dead Driver

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 9.—The Supreme Court today sustained an award made under the Employers' Liability act in this State to William P. The car was owned by the President of the Stutz Company, but Morgan was proved to have been in the employ of the company; thus the company is held responsible for compensation to his widow.

HUGHES SILENTLY RETIRES FOR NIGHT

Returns from Theatre, Hears Wilson Has Won, and Says Nothing.

LEADERS IN CONFERENCE

Presence of G. W. Wickersham Taken to Indicate That Republicans Are Preparing a Legal Fight.

Charles E. Hughes had started for bed in his apartment in the Hotel Astor when The Associated Press bulletin was received at 11:20 o'clock last night containing the news that President Wilson had carried California and so had won the election. Word was carried to him at once, but he did not emerge from his room and declined to make any comment.

With Mrs. Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hughes, Jr., the Republican candidate had spent the evening at the Long Acre Theatre, where William Collier is playing. They had walked to the theatre, and Mr. Hughes was recognized and cheered by many persons in the streets.

The Hughes party occupied a box and, in the course of the performance, Collier, replying to the request of a girl character that he take $10,000 of her money and double it in two days, remarked:

"I believe I've found a way."

"Is it safe?" demanded the girl, and Collier, glancing toward Mr. Hughes, exclaimed:

"I don't know. I'm not willing to say until I get the result from California."

Mr. Hughes and the others laughed appreciatively and the audience applauded.

No one at Mr. Hughes's headquarters would comment on the result after Mr. Hughes had declined to do so, but it was felt that contests were likely in several of the doubtful States.

Mr. Hughes held a series of conferences at his rooms in the Hotel Astor yesterday with a few of the men who have managed his campaign. It proved a day of varying emotions for the candidate and his followers. Mr. Hughes refused to comment upon the situation. The others would not give up the fight, and National Chairman William R. Willcox and George W. Perkins, coming out of the conference rooms late in the afternoon, persisted in their predictions of victory.

Mr. Hughes received both favorable and unfavorable bulletins with apparent calmness. At 11 o'clock in the morning he tossed aside a bundle of dispatches and went for an automobile ride with Mrs. Hughes. He returned at 1 o'clock and spent the afternoon in going over the situation with Mr. Willcox and other leaders. In the evening he attended the performance of the comedy, "Nothing But the Truth," in which William Collier is starring at the Longacre Theatre.

There was a flurry of excitement at the hotel at 8:45 o'clock when former Attorney General George W. Wickersham appeared and went into conference with Mr. Hughes, Mr. Willcox, Travis H. Whitney, and ex-State Senator Everett Colby, Progressive leader of New Jersey. This gathering was taken as an indication that the Republican managers were preparing for a legal fight, involving recounts in the close States, which might continue for months.

Mr. Wickersham smiled, and announced that he was "a volunteer." He would not discuss his presence at the conference. Mr. Willcox, on leaving the Astor, said that there probably would be contests in several of the States and that steps were being taken to guard the interests of Mr. Hughes. At that time he predicted Mr. Hughes's election.

A few minutes before 6 o'clock George W. Perkins hurried into the hotel. He said Mr. Hughes would win. He had just received word by long distance telephone from Chester Rowell, Republican State Chairman of California, that the State would go for Hughes by a small margin. It was understood that California might split its electoral vote, giving two or three to President Wilson, it was said

While these optimistic statements were being given out the telegraph wires brought messages indicating that President Wilson was gaining in California and that the State probably would go to him by a small plurality. No comment was obtained from the leaders about these conflicting reports.

Late in the afternoon the dispatches received seemed to indicate that the result might hinge on the California vote, and the messages from the coast were awaited with impatience. At one time the lead of President Wilson was cut down to 500 in these private dispatches, and there was a feeling of optimism. Then, as districts in the northern section were received, the President's lead climbed steadily. These reports left the leaders collected in the rooms torn between hope and fear. It was a situation which tested the nerves of every one severely.

Mr. Hughes remained in his rooms and did not see anyone except the few leaders. When Mr. Willcox and Mr. Wickersham left Mr. Hughes appeared for a moment at the door to say good-bye. He was smiling then and showed no trace of worry in his words or actions. Then he went back to have supper with Mrs. Hughes.

There was no letup to the excitement at the suite of rooms on the eighth floor of the Astor. The telegraph wires and private telephones were busy, with practically no interruption. Messengers ran back and forth carrying the dispatches and those who were not admitted to the room where Mr. Hughes sat figuring out percentages in the adjoining rooms.

The men who were with Mr. Hughes were practically all old-time friends. They included Mr. Willcox, Mr. Whitney, and Robert H. Fuller, his Secretary when he was Governor. They endeavored to keep up the spirit of optimism even when the reports were unfavorable.

By evening the strain began to tell upon all and the first period of comparative calm came when Mr. and Mrs. Hughes left for the theatre. He smiled at the little crowd of faithful friends who were in the hallway, but made no comment.

'DRY' MEN JUBILANT OVER ELECTION GAIN

CLASS PREJUDICE CHARGED

Counsel for Brewers Points to Michigan as Example of Coercion of Poor.

Anti-saloon propagandists in New York are jubilant over the showing State-wide prohibition made in the election. Returns to leaders here showed that four States—Michigan, Nebraska, Montana, and South Dakota—had been added to the "dry" column. In addition to this the anti-liquor interests claim the election of "dry" Governors in Utah and Florida, in both of which prohibitive legislation has been passed and vetoed by former Governors.

Representatives of the liquor interests conceded the gains made by the temperance movement, but professed not to be alarmed by it. They were somewhat surprised by the report of the vote in Michigan against them, variously estimated at from 50,000 to 80,000.

It was confidently predicted by the anti-saloon interests that the question of national prohibition would come before Congress and be acted on before another Presidential election, and that favorable legislation was assured in New York State. The liquor interests' representatives here disputed this.

William H. Anderson, Secretary of the State Anti-Saloon League, said that the only way in which the political parties could avoid making the liquor question a national issue at the next election would be for Congress to put the question before the States previous to that time.

"The question is one of morals and not of partisan politics," said he. "It should not be made an issue in a general election, but I believe that it will be unless Congress acts."

Will Carry Fight into New York.

Speaking of the situation in this State, Mr. Anderson said: "The Anti-Saloon League considers that the passage of progressive legislation on the liquor question is assured in this State."

He said that he believed that Florida, Utah and Ohio would go "dry" within the year. No prohibition fight had been made in Ohio this year, he said, because of the fight which was being waged in Michigan.

In Maryland the "dry" advocates claimed a gain of three counties and were satisfied with this showing.

Secretary Hugh F. Fox of the United States Brewers' Association said that until the full returns were in, and he had an opportunity to analyze them, he did not care to express any opinion on the question. "When I express an opinion," he said, "I want it to be an intelligent one."

William H. Hirsh, counsel for the State Brewers' Association, was not so reticent. He said he believed that the indications were entirely against the question of national prohibition coming up before Congress in the near future.

Confident State Will Stay "Wet."

"The States which have voted 'dry,'" he said, "have done so because of local conditions. They have shown by this action their ability to deal with the question in their own way, and I see no reason to believe that they will be willing to surrender their right to decide this question for themselves. By doing so they would give to others the right to tell them that they must be 'wet' as well as to tell them that they must be 'dry.'

"So far as New York is concerned," [illegible] in the only State in which [illegible] for the [illegible] of this question. The law is good. There are violations of it, but they can be corrected and punished as [illegible] as in any State in the Union."

HUGHES LEAD GROWS IN MINNESOTA

shal S. J. Doyle. Mr. Hildreth said he would begin an investigation immediately.

It is known that some Republican ballots were thrown out, but just how many or why only investigation will show.

North Dakota's militia vote is already in. Under the absent voters' law these ballots must be in the election officials' hands by the day of election. There is no probability of North Dakota's electoral vote being split.

Frauds Known, Says Republicans.

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BISMARCK, N. D., Nov. 9.—Instances known where Republican ballots properly marked were thrown out. In several districts Democrats had absolute control of election board. Large Democratic majorities in some counties too large on basis of registered vote. Recount would probably show State Republican.

W. J. PRATER,
Chairman Republican State Committee.

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BISMARCK, N. D., Nov. 9.—With all but about seventy small scattering precincts in, The Bismarck Tribune, the Republican State organ, concedes that Wilson has carried North Dakota by 1,000 majority.

There can be no split. All electors in this State are chosen collectively. All three Republican representatives are re-elected and McCumber, Republican, is re-elected Senator by over 15,000 majority.

F. O. HELLSTROM,

NEW MEXICO.

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 9.—After a series of bewildering changes, President Wilson late tonight had a substantial lead over Charles E. Hughes in the New Mexico returns.

Returns from 533 of the 638 precincts in New Mexico give Hughes 30,405; Wilson, 32,155; making the President's lead 1,750, a slight reduction from previous figures.

New Mexico made no provision for the vote of National Guardsmen at the border, and only those who were able to go home on furlough could vote. Several hundred guardsmen at Columbus, N. M., registered, giving Columbus as their residence, but these votes were challenged and not counted. This vote was practically a tie.

There is little chance that the electoral vote of this State will be split, as the number of ballots scratched on electors is negligible.

At the instance of District Attorney Summers Burkhart, special agents of the Department of Justice, have been sent to New Mexico and are watching closely for any evidences of election frauds. Canvassing of the vote at Santa Fe will begin next week.

The day began with Hughes slightly in the lead, the Republican candidate having taken first place away from Wilson late in the night. Soon, however, the advantage shifted to Wilson again, returns from 411 of the 638 precincts giving him 22,448 and Hughes 22,363, a lead of 85. Then in a short time Hughes regained first place, 452 of the 638 precincts giving him 23,488 and Wilson 22,702, a plurality of 781. At the next development Wilson took a material lead.

For United States Senator, 336 of the 638 precincts give Hubbell, Republican, 18,489; Jones, Democrat, 19,095. For Congress these precincts give: Hernandez, Republican, 19,441; Walton, Democrat, 18,551; for Governor, Bursum, Republican, 19,203; De Baca, Democrat, 18,138.

The Democrats late today asserted that practically complete returns from twelve of the twenty-six counties of New Mexico gave Wilson 19,775 and Hughes 13,175. They said that several of the counties yet to be compiled were strongly Republican and would materially reduce Wilson's lead, but that there were also some strongly Democratic counties to report. At that time they claimed New Mexico safe for Wilson by not less than 1,500.

ALBUQUERQUE, Nov. 9.—Returns from fifteen out of twenty-six counties in New Mexico, many complete, give Jones, Democrat, 20,972; Hubbell, Republican, 16,696, for the United States Senate.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 9.—After a day of shifting from one side to the other, the vote of New Hampshire for Presidential electors remained in doubt tonight. Certified returns to Secretary of State Bean from 269 precincts out of a total of 294 give Hughes a lead of 131.

During the day Secretary Bean added unofficial newspaper figures to the 240 precincts that he then had in hand, and the State then completed showed a lead for Wilson of 117. Later the Secretary decided that he would make no more totals in this way and would announce only the certified tabulations from time to time.

It is unofficially reported that the figures of the Secretary of State's office, with press reports from the twenty-five precincts not yet officially accounted for, give Hughes a plurality of only seven in the State.

The totals for the 269 districts officially returned are: Hughes, 40,339; Wilson, 40,207. The Secretary stopped counting when these totals were made, and upon giving them out announced that all certified returns received had been counted, and tabulation would not be resumed until tomorrow.

All day errors in the original count were being discovered as official returns came in.

"One clerk in Ward Eight, Concord, reported the vote of that place as 'Hughes, 225; Wilson, 88,'" said Mr. Bean. "Our knowledge of local conditions made us doubt this result. Investigation showed that it should have been: 'Wilson, 225; Hughes, 88.' We are scanning the returns very closely, realizing that the slightest error may change the result not only in the State, but in the nation."

The returns are being delivered to the Secretary of State by special delivery mail on the official blanks. No matter what the result as finally announced, a recount is inevitable. The Democrats have made no formal demand for this, and are not expected to, if Wilson gets a plurality. Today, however, George A Fairbanks of Newport, Republican candidate for Presidential elector, began proceedings for a recount.

Philip H. Faulkner, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, issued a statement saying in part:

"The claim that New Hampshire has gone for Wilson is unsubstantiated by any returns in our possession.

"Fully 40 per cent. of the town clerks throughout the State have rendered no official return of the vote in their communities on Tuesday, but such nuofficial figures as we have, verified in every quarter of the State, indicate that Mr. Hughes has carried New Hampshire by something less than 100 plurality.

"We have well fortified information of irregularities in the counting of votes in many quarters and we have today instituted proceedings for an inspection of all the votes cast in the State on Tuesday, as our law provides."

The ballot boxes will be brought to the Capitol and placed in the State vaults, pending the opening of the official inspection. According to the usual legal procedure, the count would not be begun for fifteen days, but it said tonight that some other way might be found to expedite it.

It was learned today that John Howard, a special agent of the Department of Justice, has been put in charge of Government agents here with a view to watching the tabulation of votes. He is acting under the direction of George W. Anderson, Federal District Attorney at Boston, who said tonight that he had received instructions to watch the situation in New Hampshire closely.

Twelve hundred New Hampshire National Guardsmen who are on duty at the Mexican border, were unable to vote in Tuesday's election because of a lack of legislative provision to this end. The expediency of calling the Legislature in special session to authorize ballotng by New Hampshire soldiers serving outside the State was considered, but was decided negatively.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 9.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Complete returns at State House show Wilson carries New Hampshire by 93 votes. Recount will increase plurality.

HENRY F. HOLLIS,
United States Senator.

Claims State for President.

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE TIMES.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 9.—President Wilson will carry New Hampshire by more than 100 votes. The official figures, with 25 towns and wards missing, give Hughes 40,338 and Wilson 40,333.

Unofficial figures from the remaining 25 precincts will bear out the tabulations announced by Secretary of State Bean today, which give Wilson a lead of 121, with the vote of the State complete.

So far, in the official count, President Wilson has shown a gain over Mr. Hughes, this gain being more than that claimed by the Democratic State Committee. Several of the precincts in which the official returns are still lacking went strongly for President Wilson.

The official figures are almost identical with those compiled at Democratic Headquarters, all changes discovered in the official tabulation being favorable to the President. There is absolutely no doubt regarding New Hampshire. At no time have the Democrats made any extravagant claims, their totals being based on returns from the most reliable sources.

The 1,700 soldiers on the Mexican border will not vote, the Governor and Legislature having made no provision whereby they could cast their ballots for President. Republican newspapers in their evening editions concede the State to Wilson.

Every precaution has been taken to protect the ballots. Attorneys and special agents are in touch with all towns and cities to see that the ballot boxes are properly sealed and certified. The majority of the ballot boxes are now on their way to the office of the Secretary of State.

No charges of fraud are being made nor have they been made. The Democratic State Committee have taken only the necessary measures to safeguard the ballots. The Democrats will not demand a recount in face of the favorable returns for Wilson.

The final official result will coincide with the combination of official and unofficial returns which give New Hampshire to President Wilson.

(Signed.) GEORGE E. FARRAND,
Chairman Democratic State Committee.

WEST VIRGINIA.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov 9.—Hughes was leading Wilson in West Virginia by 3,096 votes tonight, with 99 precincts to be heard from, the total vote was: Hughes, 135,266; Wilson, 132,176. During the last twenty-four hours Hughes continued to maintain a lead in the neighborhood of 2,000, and early tonight when remote districts began to come in the vote for him was increased.

Practically all the districts now missing are in the mountain districts, where communication is difficult. In many instances there are no telephones, and in several no railroads, trolleys, telephone, or telegraph. These precincts are taken to the county seats in automobiles where it is possible to travel the roads, and in not a few instances, over the mountains on muleback. It is expected that the complete vote for the State cannot be obtained for several days.

Returns from 1,610 precincts out of 1,713 for Governor gave Robinson, (Rep.,) 133,194; Cornwell, (Dem.,) 134,740. Returns from 1,591 precincts for United States Senator gave Sutherland, (Rep.,) 133,892; Chilton, (Dem.,) 128,873.

When the complete vote of Grant and Preston Counties were received tonight they showed gains for Mr. Hughes larger than in any similar instance since the vote began to be counted. The Hughes total was increased by more than 1,900 votes from these two counties. These counties are in the lumber and coal regions of the State, and are sparsely settled.

One Democrat and one Republican have been elected to Congress—Neeley from the First District and Woodyard from the Fourth. Both won by a small margin, Neeley having but 731 votes more than his opponent, while Woodyard was only 331 ahead.

The Second, Third, and Sixth Districts are to be completed. In the Sixth Littlepage (Dem.) is leading. In the Second Bowers (Rep.) is leading Woods (Dem.) by 1,406 votes, with fifty-six precincts to hear from, while in the Third Reed, (Rep.,) with seventeen precincts missing, is leading Alderson (Dem.) by 632. In the Fifth District Cooper (Rep.) is ahead of Wiles (Dem.) by 397 votes, with 111 precincts missing.

The Democratic State Committee tonight alleged that attempts had been made in several places to tamper with ballot boxes. The committee issued instructions to every county in West Virginia to guard the boxes with the greatest care.

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE TIMES.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Nov. 9.—In reply to your telegram for a statement from State Chairman Shaver on the situation, would say it is not advisable to make a statement at this time. The result on President will be extremely close. In case Hughes carries the State he will likely get but seven electoral votes, as the name of one Republican elector was left off the ticket in several counties. This situation was brought about by the resignation of Republican Elector J. W. Dawson, and S. A. Scott, who took his place, failed in several counties to get his name on the ballot.

WEST VIRGINIA DEMOCRATIC STATE HEADQUARTERS.

WASHINGTON.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 9.—President Wilson's plurality in Washington jumped above the 10,000 mark today when returns were received from counties which previously had been meagerly reported and which went strongly for the President.

With 290 precincts to be reported, all widely scattered, President Wilson was leading Mr. Hughes by a margin of 10,563 votes. Returns from 2,095 precincts of the 2,385 in the State gave Hughes 141,570, and Wilson 152,133.

One of Washington's electoral votes may go to Mr. Hughes because of the sudden death of A. T. Stream, one of the Democratic Presidential electors. The name of E. M. Connor was substituted on some of the ballots, but not enough, it is believed, to insure his election.

Governor Lister, Democrat, apparently will defeat Henry McBride, Republican, for Governor by more than 10,000 votes.

Senator Miles Poindexter, Republican, who was re-elected, will have the largest plurality on any ticket.

FLORIDA.

Special to The New York Times.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 9.—Sidney J. Catts, the Independent Democratic candidate, has been elected Governor of Florida by a majority of over 10,000 over W. V. Knott, the regular Democratic nominee.

MISSOURI.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9.—Both Republican and Democratic State Committees tonight were claiming the election of their candidate for Governor of Missouri.

Returns from all but 272 of the 3,450 precincts give Gardner, Democrat, 359,740; Lamm, Republican, 355,788, making Gardner's plurality on precincts received 3,962.

No returns had been received from Barry, Bollinger, Dade, Ozark, St. Clair and Taney Counties. These counties are difficult of access.

The Republican State Committee claimed Lamm's election by about 900 votes and the Democratic Committee insisted that returns from missing precincts would not reduce Gardner's lead to less than 3,000.

INDIANA.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 9.—With only 139 scattering precincts out of 3,143 in Indiana not reported, Hughes was leading Wilson by more than 6,500 late tonight. It was generally believed that the President would be unable to overcome the margin. The vote—320,191 for Wilson and 326,743 for Hughes—was said to be one of the largest ever cast in the State, and the combined vote of the two candidates when all returns were in was expected to total approximately 700,000.

James P. Goodrich, (Rep.,) for Governor, with fewer than 100 precincts remaining to be tabulated, was leading in his contest with Representative John A. M. Adair, (Dem.,) by almost 14,000 votes. The race for the two Indiana seats in the United States Senate was closer than that for Governor, but James E. Watson, (Rep.,) was leading Senator Taggart, (Dem.,) by 11,548, and Harry S. New, (Rep.,) had a lead over Senator Kern, (Dem.,) of 11,923.

Complete returns in the contests for the thirteen places in the National House of Representatives were slow in arriving, and the few reported in the night did not change the relative standing of the candidates.

NEBRASKA.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 9.—Fifty counties complete out of ninety-six in Nebraska give President Wilson a plurality of 22,904 over Hughes. The vote is: Wilson, 96,912; Hughes, 73,998. Earlier figures giving Wilson a plurality of 26,000 contained duplications. The counties not heard from are expected to increase the President's lead.

Sixty-five counties complete for United Staes Senator give Gilbert H. Hitchcock, Democrat, 115,772; John L. Kennedy, Republican, 105,191; Hitchcock's plurality, 10,581.

Three Democratic and three Republican Congressmen have been elected.

NEW JERSEY.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 9.—Latest complete unofficial returns in New Jersey increase the Republican pluralities and show that the party gained two members in the National House of Representatives. Unofficially, Hughes carried New Jersey by 52,525 plurality. Walter E. Edge was elected Governor over H. Otto Wittpenn by 58,728, and Joseph I. Frelinghuysen won the United States Senatorship from James E. Martine by 61,168.

The only Congressional districts in which the Democrats were successful were the Eleventh and the Twelfth. Hughes carried seventeen of the twenty-one counties, President Wilson winning in Hudson, Hunterdon, Sussex, and Warren. Edge won in eighteen counties, Hudson, Hunterdon, and Warren having gone for Wittpenn. Frelinghuysen carried seventeen counties, Martine taking Hudson, Hunterdon, Sussex, and Warren.

FEAR A SPLIT VOTE IN PICKING ELECTORS

Personal Preferences Govern Some Men in Selecting Those Who Name the President.

MAY AFFECT THREE STATES

As the steadily increasing returns from back districts bring the estimate of the vote in the various States down to a closer degree of accuracy, the chance grows that the election may turn on that least obtrusive feature of Presidential elections, the elector. While the news comes in of the wavering of the vote from one column to the other, there remains the possibility that the exercise of personal favor, or more often of personal disfavor, on the part of the voters, may result in the division of the electoral vote of one or more States between Hughes and Wilson.

This has happened eleven times in the last thirty-six years. California has done it four times, Maryland twice, Kentucky, Michigan, North Dakota, Ohio, and Oregon each once. This year it appears to be possible in California, Washington, and West Virginia; and while Californian political experts decry the likelihood of its occurring if one Presidential canddate—or rather his highest elector—gets a plurality of as much as 2,500, there is a case n record—Oregon, in 1892—where the high man on the Republican electoral ticket got more than 8,000 votes more than a Populist elector who was also chosen.

This, to be sure, happened in an election where there were three major parties, the Populists that year getting 22 electoral votes to the Democrats 277 and the Republicans 145. But in 1896, when the Populists and Democrats combined, one Democratic elector was chosen in California with a vote less by 2,070 than that of the highest Republican.

Presidential electors are usually chosen primarily for their absolute reliability, and the chance that a Republican elector would vote for a Democratic candidate, or vice versa, is practically nil. Yet even that has been talked of this year in California, where politics still retain a more temperamental and personal tinge than in most other parts of the country and party lines are in a state of constant flux.

Outside of California the chances for a split vote this year are two—West Virginia and Washington. A. Stream, a Democratic elector, in Washington, died so shortly before the election that there was no time to place the name of his substitute, E. M. Connor, on the printed ballot. Connor's name was printed on slips, given out all over the State, but many Democratic voters appear to have neglected to use these, and the latest returns indicate that seven Democratic electors were chosen in Washington, but that Connor was beaten and Hughes will get one vote.

In West Virginia, apparently carried by Hughes, Wilson may get this vote back. J. W. Dawson, nominated for elector by the Republican State Convention, resigned, and S. A. Scott was chosen in his place. Over most of the State Scott's name was duly printed on the ballots, but in some counties this was overlooked and there is a chance that he may have been beaten by the most popular Democratic elector.

California split its electoral vote in 1880, 1892, 1896, and 1912. At the last election the Roosevelt ticket, listed as regular Republican, elected eleven electors, and the Democrats got two. The highest vote for a Roosevelt elector was 283,610 and for a Wilson elector 283,436, so that the State was listed as giving Roosevelt 174 plurality. One of the Roosevelt electors, beaten at that time, was Lieutenant Governor Albert J. Wallace, who as Acting Governor has given offense to many citizens by commuting death sentences. He is a candidate for Republican elector again this year and is receiving much bitter opposition on account of his leadership of the Prohibition forces, as Wilson has an excellent chance to get one vote from California, even if the other twelve go for Hughes.

In 1896 McKinley got eight votes in California, his highest elector receiving 146,888, and Bryan got one, who polled 144,618 votes.

In 1892 California gave one elector to Benjamin Harrison, the Republican candidate, with 117,962 popular votes, and eight to Cleveland, the highest of whose electors got 118,174. In 1880 James A. Garfield got one vote from California, with 80,348 popular votes, and the other five went to Hancock, the highest popular vote for a Democrat being 80,426. One of the Democratic electors on this occasion was Judge Terry, who still had many bitter personal enemies on account of his political quarrels in the early days of the State, in one of which he shot Senator Broderick in a duel; and he was generally knifed by the Democrats.

Maryland split its electoral vote in 1904 and again in 1908. In the latter year Taft took two votes, with the highest vote for an Elector on his ticket reaching 116,513, and Bryan got the other six. But his highest Elector polled only 115,908, so technically the State gave a plurality of 605 for Taft, though Bryan got three-fourths of the electoral vote. In 1904 Roosevelt got one Elector in Maryland, who received 109,497 votes, and Parker seven. The highest of these received only 109,446, so that the Republicans nominally carried Maryland by 51.

In 1896 McKinley won twelve votes and Bryan one in Kentucky. The respective highest popular votes were 218,171 and 217,890.

The year 1892 was the big one for split electoral votes, due to the Populist third ticket, which won a good deal of favor. Besides California, already mentioned, four other States split their representation in the Electoral College that year. Michigan gave Harrison nine votes and Cleveland five. In this State the Populists combined with the Democrats, forsaking their own candidates, Weaver and Field. The highest Democrat-Populist Elector got 222,227 votes and the highest Republican 222,708.

In North Dakota each of the three parties, Republican, Democrat, and Populist, got one elector. The Democrats and Populists were combined, voting 17,700 for their high man against 17,506 for the Republican elector.

Ohio gave twenty-two votes to Harrison, the highest popular vote being 405,187, to one for Cleveland with 404,115.

Oregon gave Harrison three electors, the highest of them getting 35,002 votes. Many Democrats voted for one of the Populist electors, who was elected with 26,965 votes. The highest Democrat received only 14,243.

In the multiple-ticket election of 1860, just before the civil war, New Jersey divided her electors between Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas. The Republicans elected four, with a highest total of 58,224 votes, while Douglas got three electors, the highest of whom received 62,801. Here was an instance where nearly 4,600 voters split the electoral ticket, showing that California may yet turn in a divided delegation.

A PROTEST, SAYS PARKER

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—John M. Parker, who was the nominee of the Progressives for Vice President, issued this statement tonight:

"President Wilson's re-election is an emphatic protest of the West and the South, particularly of the West, against the domination of the Old Guard Republicans. It is a new declaration of political independence, which means much for the future prosperity and welfare of the nation."

TAMMANY LOYAL, HE SAYS.

Rep. Hulbert Declares Organization Has Proved Its "Regularity."

Representative Murray Hulbert, who was re-elected from the Twenty-first New York District, said yesterday that the charge that Tammany had been disloyal to President Wilson in Tuesday's voting was unfair.

"The suggestion that the President was not loyally supported by the Democratic organization in New York County is an insult to the intelligence of any one who can read or understand the English language," he said. "The vote given to Woodrow Wilson in comparison to that given to Frank L. Dowling, as editorially reviewed in today's NEW YORK TIMES, gives the lie most convincingly to those who hope to continue to gain political prestige by attempting to renew the strife between Tammany Hall and the Wilson Administration.

"Tammany Hall has been without patronage practically for seven years. This year it got little help of any kind from the National Administration, and yet its followers, because of their loyalty to the organization and its leader, Charles F. Murphy, were 'regular' as always."

JAPAN WILL GIVE UP ISLANDS IN SOUTH SEA

TOKIO, Oct. 14. (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The Associated Press learns that Japan has agreed not to make a part of her demands in the peace conference which will follow the war the right to hold permanently the South Sea islands which were wrested from Germany at the outbreak of the war. Several of these islands, which belong to the Caroline and Marianne groups, lie not far from the American island of Guam, the American terminus of the Pacific cable. It is understood the United States has informally expressed a desire that these islands should not become the permanent property of the Japanese Empire.

Inasmuch as they were captured through the joint operations of the British and Japanese fleets, it is understood the United States first took up the question with Great Britain and that a joint suggestion was made, by Great Britain and the United States that Japan should not insist upon the permanent maintenance of the islands.

In view of Japan's promise to accede to the joint request, it is believed likely that Japan at the peace conference will seek compensation in some other direction, perhaps in the affirmation of her rights in the Chinese peninsula of Shantung, of which Kiao-Chau is the great naval base.

WOMAN VOTERS FAIL TO FOLLOW LEADERS

VOTED AS THE MEN DID

Chicago, Which Separates Returns, Shows Men and Women Voting Same Sentiments.

Leaders of the cause of woman suffrage in this city believed yesterday that the votes of women in the West had reelected President Wilson, although the conclusion forced the admission, as Alice Chittenden Hill, President of the New York State Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, charged that the women's vote could not be delivered by its leaders. Miss Hill last night issued this statement:

In all the uncertainty which surrounds the final outcome of the Presidential election one point stands out clearly, which is, that woman suffrage, indorsed by the two large political parties in their national platforms, merely on the ground of political expediency, did not prove to be an issue in the campaign.

The Republican leaders who made a special effort to capture the woman vote must be greatly chagrined at their failure to swing the woman suffrage States to their candidate. The Republican candidate for President made the highest possible bid for the support of the women voters through his personal indorsement of the Federal amendment—and lost it.

Illinois, where the women voted for President for the first time, is a normal Republican State, which swung to Wilson in 1912, but is now back in the Republican column. The State would have gone for Mr. Hughes without the women's votes.

Montana, which went for Roosevelt in 1904 and Taft in 1908, gave its votes for Wilson in 1912, and did not swing back to the Republican column through the woman vote.

Nevada, which voted for Roosevelt in 1904, is usually found in the Democratic column and still remains there.

Utah, the great Mormon woman suffrage State, is unexpectedly found in the Democratic column this year, since it is usually regarded as a Republican stronghold.

Wyoming, in the Republican column in 1904 and 1908, turned to Wilson in 1912 and also gave its electoral votes to him on Tuesday.

Washington, Republican in 1904 and 1908 and Progressive in 1912, now swings to Wilson.

Colorado, Arizona, and Idaho are all Democratic, as they were four years ago, while California still hangs in the balance.

Let us hope that as a result of this election, future candidates for any political office will not be terrorized by the threat that the woman vote can be "delivered" against them unless they indorse woman suffrage.

The effort to turn the woman vote to Charles E. Hughes resulted from his indorsement of a Federal suffrage amendment to which President Wilson declined to pledge himself. The Congressional Union adopted resolutions pledging itself to work for the defeat of all Democratic candidates. The organization has its greatest strength in the Western States, and it conducted a vigorous campaign for Hughes, but, apparently, was able to hold the women in line only in Oregon.

Inability to count the women's vote separately prevented suffrage leaders from determining with finality whether or not Hughes might have carried other of the suffrage States had it not been for the woman vote, but as matters stood last night Wilson seemed to have garnered 44 of the 91 electoral votes of suffrage States, and Hughes 34, with California's 13 votes still in doubt.

The vote in Chicago, the only place where women vote separately and are counted separately, seemed to bear out the anti-suffragist theory that the woman vote merely duplicates that of the men. Hughes carried both the man vote and the woman vote in Chicago by slight pluralities. Both sexes divided their vote between Hughes and Wilson in about the same percentage. But the Chicago woman vote did not show that the women exactly followed the men. A study of the precinct returns indicated that, where Wilson sentiment was strong, the women gave him a slightly greater percentage of votes than the men did, and that, where Hughes was strong, the women outdid the men in voting for him. The total woman vote of Chicago was cast thus between the two Presidential candidates: Hughes, 135,160; Wilson, 130,061.

There was nothing to indicate that the women in Chicago responded more readily to pacifist arguments than the men did, and no evidence that any special plea to the women in favor of any candidate was effective. A few days before election Dr. Anna Howard Shaw predicted that the argument that President Wilson had kept the country at peace would be shown by the returns to have been very strong with the women of Chicago. Most of the suffrage leaders of the East, though officially neutral, were strongly for President Wilson.

They did not approve the Congressional Union's campaign against Democrats because they thought that women could get the vote by Federal amendment only if they had the friendship and co-operation of both political parties, and that, if Hughes were elected and pushed a Federal amendment through to the vote, it would be killed by the Democrats who had been estranged. Regret that the vote had swerved from the course laid down consequently was not as keen here as elsewhere.

Ohe thing apparently demonstrated by the election was that it is not difficult to bring women to the polls at a general election. Reports from all suffrage States are that the women polled a surprisingly large vote. In Chicago 270,201 women voted on Tuesday, against 154,750 who voted at the primaries in 1915. A big woman vote was reported in Utah in spite of snowstorms.

Woman suffrage leaders in this city looked forward with enthusiasm yesterday to the seating of "the lady from Montana" in the House of Representatives. This is Miss Jeannette Rankin of Missoula, Mont., who, if elected, will be the first woman who has ever sat in Congress. Reports yesterday indicated that she had perhaps an even chance of election, although Miss Rankin had wired to THE NEW YORK TIMES claiming her election. At any rate, Miss Rankin made a close run on the Republican ticket in a State which went heavily Democratic.

If elected, Miss Rankin, who has great oratorical power and a striking presence, with the advantages of good looks and brilliant red hair, is likely to make a figure at Washington.

The suffragist leaders of this city were enthusiastic yesterday over the prospect that South Dakota would become the thirteenth State to adopt suffrage. The defeat of suffrage in West Virginia by a considerable margin was anticipated because of the fight being made in that State by the "wets" to get back into power.

LANSING INQUIRES INTO U-BOAT ACTIVITY

Awaits Replies to Questions Concerning Attacks on Vessels That Carried Americans.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Secretary of State Lansing admitted this afternoon that he was awaiting a reply from Germany to an inquiry regarding the character of the campaign of the German naval submarine U-53, which sank five steamers off the New England coast several weeks ago, after having put in at Newport, R. I., for two hours. Mr. Lansing said the inquiry was dispatched to Germany shortly after the U-53 had completed her work of destruction off Nantucket Shoals.

Indications are that the State Department is closely watching the submarine activity now going on in the waters of the war zone. The department is still waiting to hear from the German Government in reply to the inquiry regarding the sinking of the British horse ship Marina and the British steamer Rowanmore, both of which carried Americans among the crews.

Mr. Lansing said he had received additional advices from London regarding the sinking of the Marina, but that the evidence was still too inconclusive and incomplete to present the case to the German Government. It was learned authoritatively that the German Admiralty has not yet received any report on the sinking of the Marina, but is confident that Germany's Sussex pledge has not been violated.

It is probable that the department will shortly forward an inquiry to Germany regarding the sinking of the steamer Lanao off the coast of Portugal several days ago, which was flying an American flag at the time of attack. The question of the registry of the vessel at the time of sinking is still in doubt.

WHITMAN ATTENDS BAZAAR.

Attended by Guardsmen, He Rides in Procession to 69th Armory.

Governor Whitman was the guest of honor last night at the Sixty-ninth Regiment Relief Bazaar at the Armory, Twenty-sixth Street and Lexington Avenue. Preceded by the officers and men of the Depot Unit of the regiment, in command of Major Philip E. Riville, the Governor, riding in an automobile, was escorted down Fifth Avenue to the Armory.

Large crowds followed the procession down the avenue, many people thinking that the presence of the soldiers in uniform indicated that President Wilson, and not the Governor, was in the procession. Governor Whitman was recognized by few people in the streets, but acknowledged the occasional cheers by raising his hat.

In the Armory, moving pictures were taken of the Governor and a battalion of the Women's League for Self Defense, while a military band played selections from the "Chocolate Soldier." All posts of the G. A. R. and the allied and auxiliary bodies and the Spanish War Veterans were represented.

GERMAN GUN FIRE VIOLENT AT VERDUN

FRENCH REPEL AN ATTACK

Drive Germans Back at Sailly-Saillisel—British Use Gas Near Armentieres.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—There was a violent German bombardment in the Douaumont-Vaux sector of the Verdun front today, but no action of importance on the Somme, according to the French War Office night report.

A German attack on Sailly-Saillisel, on the Somme front, last night was repulsed after a brief hand-to-hand encounter. There was great activity of the artillery during the night.

The text of the French night report reads:

On the Somme front there were no important operations. There were artillery duels and minor infantry engagements near Sailly-Saillisel and south of Pressoire, in which we cleared several positions and captured prisoners. Prisoners confirm reports that the enemy suffered heavy losses at Saillisel.

The enemy artillery violently bombarded the Douaumont-Vaux sector. Our artillery replied. On the remainder of the front nothing occurred.

Following is the French afternoon communiqué:

On the Somme there was great reciprocal artillery activity. Nervous German infantry asked for a large number of curtains of fire. In the evening the enemy attacked our line at Sailly-Saillisel and was driven back after brief hand-to-hand fighting.

The night was calm on the remainder of the front.

The British official statement issued tonight says:

This morning we discharged gas east of Armentières and bombed the enemy's trench line. Elsewhere there was nothing to report.

BERLIN, Nov. 9, (by Wireless to Sayville).—German artillery yesterday defeated several efforts of the French and British to make advances on the Somme front, the War Office announced today. The text of the statement follows:

Army group of Crown Prince Rupprecht: British and French attempts to attack between Le Sars and Bouchavesnes, as well as to the south of the Somme near Pressoire, were almost without exception stifled by our curtain of fire at their inception.

LORD LUCAS MISSING.

Captured or Killed by Germans While Reconnoitring in Airplane.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Baron Lucas of Crudwell, a member of the Royal Flying Corps, and formerly Parliamentary Under Secretary of State for War, has either been captured by the Germans or killed on the French battlefield, according to The Evening Star.

Lord Lucas was reconnoitring over the German lines in France in an aeroplane, the newspaper says, and was obliged to descend behind the German lines owing to a gale.

Lord Lucas was born in 1876, and succeeded as Fifth Baron Dingwall and Eighth Baron Lucas of Crudwell in 1905. He also was a co-heir to the Barony of Butler. The Baron was a Captain of the Hampshire Yeomanry, a flying officer in the military wing of the Royal Flying Corps, and for some time was Honorary Colonel of the Hampshire Royal Garrison Artillery.

From 1905 to April, 1908, Lord Lucas was Private Secretary to the then Secretary for War Haldane, and in 1908-11 was Parliamentary Under Secretary of State for War and a member of the Army Council. He was appointed Under Secretary of State for the Colonies in 1911 and Parliamentary Secretary of the Board of Agriculture and Fisheries in October, 1911, becoming President of that board in 1914.

BAVARIAN PRINCE SLAIN.

Henry, Nephew of King Louis, Falls in Battle on French Front.

BERLIN, Nov. 9, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—Prince Henry of Bavaria, nephew of King Louis and commander of a battalion of the King's Own Infantry, has been killed in battle. The Prince's mother has gone to the front to bring back the body of her only child.

Prince Henry was 32 years old, a Major in the Bavarian Guards, and unmarried. He was reported to have been wounded on the battlefield last June.

GERMANY FAVORS LEAGUE OF PEACE

for annexation, to which must be added Alsace and Lorraine, while I have never designated the annexation of Belgium as our intention when I spoke about the aims of the war.

No More "Aggressive Coalitions."

"The first condition for the evaluation of international relations by way of arbitration and peaceful compromise of conflicting interests ought to be that no more aggressive coalitions be formed," the Chancellor continued, "Germany is at all times ready to enter a league of peace which will restrain the disturber of peace.

"The history of international relations before the war stands clear before the eyes of all the world. What made France join with Russia? Alsace and Lorraine. What did Russia want? Constantinople. Why did England join them? Because Germany had become too strong for her, by peaceful toil. And what did we want? Lord Grey says that Germany with her first offer of Belgian and French integrity wanted to purchase from England permission to take of the French colonies whatever she pleased. Even to the most insane person in Germany it never occurred to assault France in order to rob her of her colonies. It was not this which was Europe's doom, but the fact that the British Government favored French and Russian plans of conquest, which could not be obtained without a European war."

Says England Encouraged France.

The Chancellor stated that Lord Grey by giving his explanations to the foreign newspapermen showed that he now held the same opinion as Germany always had in regard to the importance of the origin of the war. For both these reasons, he said, it was necessary once more to discuss the question of the origin of the war.

He referred to the situation on July 30, 1914, two days before Germany declared war on Russia. The German Ambassador at Vienna had been instructed to request Austria-Hungary most urgently to reach an understanding with Russia, making it clear that Germany did not desire to be drawn into a world-war in consequence of disregard of her advice. Austria-Hungary agreed to Germany's suggestion, he said.

"With this," the Chancellor continued, "compare the following steps taken by Lord Grey, (British Foreign Secretary): On July 2, 1914, the Russian Ambassador at London said that German and Austro-Hungarian circles were under the impression that England would remain quiet. Lord Grey replied: 'This impression is removed by the orders which we gave to the main fleet.' On July 29 he informed the French Ambassador of a confidential warning which had been given to our Ambassador in London that Germany ought to be prepared for quick decisions of England, which meant England's participation in the war. Could Lord Grey suppose that such a disclosure made to the French Ambassador would be of service to the cause of peace? Was not the French representative obliged to consider this disclosure as a promise of armed assistance in case of war? Must not France have been encouraged by this to give to Russia a promise of the unconditional fellowship in war asked for so urgently for days? And must Russia not have been strengthened to the utmost by this certainty of a British and French alliance in her intentions to wage war?

"The Russian answer to the morning conversation of Lord Grey, indeed, came as quickly as was expected. On the evening of the same day, July 29, M. Sazonoff (Russian Foreign Minister) instructed the Russian Ambassador at Paris to express to the French Government sincere thanks for the declaration given to him by the French Ambassador that Russia could count completely upon the assistance of France.

Says Viscount Grey Ignores Facts.

"Thus on the night of July 30 Russia was faced by the following situation: Austria-Hungary yielded under German influence, which cleared the road toward peace. At the same time Lord Grey's disclosure to Paul Cambon, (French Ambassador at London,) assured Russia of the armed assistance of England and France, by which only the possibility of war was given to Russia. Russia decided upon mobilization and war. Who has been guilty of this decision, full of fate?"

The Chancellor said that Lord Grey had not mentioned all these facts, but directed the attention of his audience to unessential details.

"The Hague Arbitration Tribunal offered by the Russian Emperor," continued the Chancellor, "no doubt sounds very serious, but the offer was made when Russian troops were already sent to move against us.

"As to Lord Grey's own suggestion of the conference he himself had substituted for our mediation, this has been repeatedly explained in the Reichstag. And the Belgian question—before a single German soldier had set foot on Belgian soil Lord Grey had already told the French Ambassador, as related in his report: 'If the German Navy should enter the Channel or pass the North Sea with the intention of attacking the French coast or French Navy and harass the French merchant marine, (gentlemen, "harass") then the British Navy would act in order to protect the French Navy in such a fashion that from that moment England and Germany would be in a state of war.'

"Can the same man who proclaimed that the sailing of our navy would be a casus belli, can that very same man still asseverate sincerely that only the violation of Belgian neutrality had forced England against her will into war?"

The Chancellor then took up the question of Lord Grey's statement that Germany had asked England to condone the violation of Belgian neutrality.

"I challenge Lord Grey," he said, "to examine the fact in his own Blue Book and in his records."

Russian Mobilization "Fateful."

"The action which made the war unavoidable," he said, "was the Russian mobilization, ordered on the night of July 30-31, (1914.) Russia, England, France, the whole world, knew that this step made it impossible for us to wait any longer, and that this step was synonymous with a declaration of war. The whole world—even England, too—now begins to comprehend the fateful importance of the Russian mobilization. Truth makes headway. An English scholar of world fame recently said: 'Many people would think differently about the end of the war if they were better informed about its origin, especially about the facts of Russian mobilization.' It is no wonder, therefore, if Lord Grey could not leave the Russian mobilization unmentioned."

Lokal-Anzeiger's False Report.

The Chancellor recalled the fact that on Thursday, July 30, 1914, the Lokal-Anzeiger early in the afternoon issued a special edition with the untrue report that the German Emperor had ordered mobilization. The Chancellor added that every one in the Reichstag committee knew that the sale of this special edition was prohibited immediately by the police, and that the Secretary for Foreign Affairs immediately informed the Russian Ambassador by telephone that this news was untrue.

"I may state further," said the Chancellor, "that the Russian Ambassador, indeed, had sent a cipher telegram to St. Petersburg as soon as the special edition was issued, and that the telegram, according to the Russian Orange Book, read: 'I understand that an order for mobilization of the German Army and the German Navy has been proclaimed at this moment.' After the explanation given by Secretary von Jagow over the telephone, this telegram was followed by a second telegram not in cipher: 'I beg you to consider my last telegram as null and void. Explanation follows.'

"A few minutes later the Russian Ambassador sent a third telegram in cipher which, according to the Russian Orange Book, stated that the Foreign Minister at that moment had telephoned that the news of the mobilization of the army and navy was untrue, and that the special edition had been confiscated. The quick action of Secretary von Jagow, which is confirmed by the official Russian Orange Book, giving Ambassador Sverbeew's telegram, set right the wrong news and in itself refutes Lord Grey's assertion that we intentionally desired to deceive Russia in order to cause her to mobilize."

The Chancellor added that the German Postal Administration had made certain that, judging from the times at which they were dispatched, the three telegrams of the Russian Ambassador must have reached St. Petersburg at about the same time. He continued:

"At all events, the incorrect report had been set right before the Russian Government ordered a general mobilization.

The Chancellor then recalled that the Russian Emperor's reference to Austro-Hungarian mobilization could be no excuse for a general Russian mobilization, since Austria-Hungary then had mobilized only eight army corps against Serbia, to which Russia on July 29 already had replied by mobilizing thirteen army corps. Only after the general Russian mobilization did Austria-Hungary, on the morning of July 31, order a general mobilization.

Germany the Third to Mobilize.

As to Germany, after the news of the general Russian mobilization, it did not mobilize at once, but at first only proclaimed a state of threatened danger of war, which was by no means mobilization. This was communicated to the Russian Government, and it was added that mobilization must follow if Russia did not stop all war measures against Germany and Austria-Hungary within twelve hours and if it did not inform Germany in clear fashion that this had been done. Thus Russia once more received time, even when, as a result of Russia's guilt, war already seemed unavoidable. Likewise, Russia's allies and friends had the possibility of still using their influence with Russia, in the same direction as Germany with her ally, Austria-Hungary.

Russia, said the Chancellor, gave no answer. England remained silent to Russia. France, through her Prime Minister, on the evening of July 31, merely declared to the German Ambassador that Russia had not mobilized, and ordered her own mobilization some hours before Germany did. The Chancellor continued:

"As to the so called defensive character of the Russian general mobilization, I may state here, in the most explicit fashion, that at the outbreak of the war in 1914 there was still valid a general order of the Russian Government, issued in the year 1912, in which was the following paragraph verbatim: 'From the highest place it is ordered that a proclamation of mobilization is at the same time a proclamation of war against Germany.' Against Germany, gentlemen, against Germany!"

Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg continued: "Russia never would have decided upon this fateful step if it had not been encouraged to do so from the Thames by actions and by failures to take action."

WHAT VISCOUNT GREY SAID.

Asserted That Russia's Mobilization Followed a Report of Germany's.

In his speech delivered as the guest of the Foreign Press Association at the Hotel Cecil in London on Oct. 23 Viscount Grey said:

"In July, 1914, no one thought of attacking Germany. It is said that Russia was the first to mobilize. That, I understand is what is represented in Germany as the justification for the statement that the war was not an aggressive war on Germany's part, but was forced upon her. Russia never made the mobilization of which Germany complained until after Germany had refused a conference, and never made it until after a report had appeared in Germany [the Lokal-Anzeiger report referred to by the Imperial Chancellor] that Germany had ordered mobilization, and that report had been telegraphed [uncensored] to Petrograd. As a matter of fact, it was the story of 1870 over again. [References to the Ems dispatch forged by Bismarck.] * * *

"Never at any time was there a suggestion that a French or an English soldier should enter Belgium unless it was to prevent the violation of her neutrality, which had been undertaken by Germany. We pointed out that all efforts to avoid war in 1914 failed because you cannot have peace without good will and because in Germany there was a will to war and not the will to peace. * * *

"What was their policy and plan? It was to be a short and successful war. The war was all thought out in Berlin. There was a time table. So long to get to Paris, so long to defeat France, and so long to defeat Russia.

"And England? The plan was that England was to keep out of the war. But if we did enter into the war, it was not thought that our expeditionary force would be sufficient to upset the enemy's plan."

According to the German White Paper, on July 30, 1914, the German Ambassador at Vienna had instructed Austria to reach an understanding with Russia. According to this White Paper and to the Austrian Red Book, Austria had agreed; but, according to the White Paper, the difficulty of Austria's proceeding in the matter was due to Russia's mobilization.

On July 31 Russia presented the formula to London which the German Ambassador there deemed too late. It was:

"If Austria consents to stay the march of her armies upon Serbian territory, and if, recognising that the Austro-Serbian conflict has assumed the character of a question of European interest, she admits that the great powers examine the reparation which Serbia could accord to the Government of Austria-Hungary without injury to her rights as a sovereign State and to her independence, Russia undertakes to maintain her expectant attitude."

There is no published record of the fact that Austria ever received the foregoing, and on Aug. 1 Germany sent her twelve-hour ultimatum to Russia to demobilize not only in regard to Germany, but also in regard to Austria.

In his speech in the House of Commons Aug. 3, Viscount, then Sir Edward, Grey, explained how Germany had attempted to "bribe" England to stay neutral, but that England could not remain inactive if Belgium was invaded, and that the British fleet must take precautionary measures to prevent hostile operations against the North Sea coast of France, and had so informed the French Government.

DRIVE MACKENSEN OVER 12 MILES

BURNING TOWNS AS HE GOES

FIERCE FIGHTING IN NORTH

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The transference of the famous Russian General Sakharoff from Galicia to the Dobrudja front in command of the Russo-Rumanian army has been followed by the swift rolling back of the entire line thrown across the province by Field Marshal von Mackensen, with his mixed Bulgar-Turk-German forces. How rapid is the retreat of the latter is gathered from the official announcement by Bucharest that the invaders have been driven not only from Hirsova on the Danube, where the army was aided by a gunboat flotilla, but from Topal, twelve miles south of that town, and only thirteen miles north of the Cernavoda-Constanza Railroad.

Heavy fighting is in progress along the Transylvania border.

A semi-official statement from the Rumanian capital says that German claims of captures from the Rumanians between Oct. 1 and Oct. 21 were exaggerated. In comparison it is claimed that the exact figures of Austro-Germans taken by the Rumanians in the same period were 5.822. The Rumanians also captured 25 cannon and 88 machine guns, as well as much booty.

Following is the text of the Bucharest official report:

> Northern and Northwestern Fronts—In the Trotus Valley an enemy attack four miles north of Goloasa was repulsed.
> At Table Butzi, Bratocea and Predelus and in the Prahovo Valley fighting continues.
> In the region of Dragosavele an enemy attack on the left bank of the Alt was repulsed. The combat continues south of Titesti and Racovitza. On the remainder of the front there was nothing to report.
> Southern Front—There was great enemy artillery activity, especially along the Danube River.
> Dobrudja—Hirsova has been reoccupied with the assistance of Danube naval forces. Before retiring the enemy set fire to Hirsova and also to the village of Topal.

A bulletin issued by the Petrograd War Office reads:

> On the Danube front our troops, after driving back the enemy's advanced detachments, progressed southward. The village of Hirsova on the Danube has been set afire.
> Transylvania—East of the Buzeu Valley the Rumanians pushed back the Germans, capturing one machine gun and 100 prisoners.
> In the Jiul Valley enemy attacks were repulsed.

BERLIN, Nov. 9, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—Russian troops which have invaded Hungary on the northern Transylvanian front, in the Georgeny Mountains, were repulsed yesterday, the War Office announces. In Rumania, near Rothenthurm Pass, the Austro-German forces captured hill positions and also the town of Surdolu, sixteen miles from the border. In Dobrudja advanced forces of Field Marshal von Mackensen's army retired. The announcement follows:

> Front of Archduke Charles Francis—In the northern Georgeny Mountains Russian attacks were repulsed. Near Belbor and in the Tulghes sector the Germans by spirited attacks repulsed Russians who had advanced. Southeast of Rothenthurm Pass our attacks continue. The Baiesti sector has been crossed, and Surdolu, with the heights adjoining on both sides, has been captured. We took about 150 prisoners and also captured two cannon. Rumanian counterattacks in this region were as fruitless as in the Predeal sector and in the Vulcan Mountains.

RUSSIAN FRONT ACTIVE.

Artillery Fire Increasing in Intensity on Zuckzow-Tarnopol Railroad.

PETROGRAD, Nov. 9.—An official statement issued today by the Russian War Department regarding operations on the western front says:

> South of Dorna Watra and Belbor fighting continues. South of the village of Hojis the Austrians counterattacked.

BERLIN, Nov. 9, (by Wireless to Sayville.)—The German official statement dealing with operations on the eastern front, says:

> Front of Prince Leopold of Bavaria: On both sides of the Zuckzow-Tarnopol railroad the artillery engagement was considerably increased in intensity.

The War Situation

BY THE MILITARY EXPERT OF THE NEW YORK TIMES.

For a number of days reports have reached us daily to the effect that Mackensen was being driven back in Dobrudja. The rate of this retrogression was not given. Details were lacking; only in rare instances were the names of towns mentioned. Just where the troops were fighting, just what the location of the battle line was unknown. Yesterday's report, however, did much to clear the air, although some clouds were still left. We find the right wing of the Rumanian Army at Topal, twelve miles south of Hirsova. The location of the left wing is unknown, but from the nature of the fighting in this section it is probably not far behind.

The Dobrudja campaign has been a campaign of changing tactics. In its earlier days, Mackensen concentrated his efforts along the Danube against the Rumanian right flank. The Rumanian counterattack was delivered along the Black Sea against Mackensen's right. Neither was particularly successful for a while, and the campaign lapsed into what appeared to be a siege operation. Then Mackensen struck another blow, this time along the sea. The point of this attack was probably dictated by the fact that it was regarded as the weaker of the two wings. Mackensen had found the going hard along the Danube, but nevertheless his activities had probably drawn heavily on the other sections of the Rumanian line in order that the right might be reinforced. When the blow came against their left, the Rumanians were found to be in no condition to repel it, and before any help could be sent, Mackensen had literally crashed his way through to Constanza. Holding this terminus of the railroad, it was relatively a simple matter to advance along the road to Cernavoda, and so gain possession of the entire railroad as far as the river.

Apparently there seemed to be a chance of delivering a staggering blow if the pursuit of the defeated army were pushed. Accordingly, Mackensen drove his army northward at a truly amazing rate of speed, the Rumanians retreating as rapidly. There seemed to be no chance for them to escape. Hemmed in as they were by the almost impassable Danube, with no bridges across which their men and guns could be taken, literally pinched between the sea on the one side and the river on the other, it appeared that they were caught in a trap and that Mackensen would eliminate Rumania at one stroke. Critics of the war already saw Mackensen on his way to Odessa, the entire Russian army now in Galicia taken in flank by a movement through Bessarabia, the retirement of the entire Russian line from Riga to the Carpathians and an entire change brought about in the theatre of the war in the east.

And then something happened. Mackensen was first halted, trembled a short time in his new positions, (some fifteen miles north of Hirsova, as near as we can estimate his extreme northern advance,) and then began to fall back. We now find him about twenty-five miles south of his greatest advance and still falling back. The Rumanian attack has apparently been delivered against his left flank instead of, as before, against his right, and has been up to the present just as successful as was Mackensen's attack along the sea. Mackensen's left has apparently been badly defeated, and the Rumanians have advanced as far south as Topal, on the Danube, twelve miles north of Cernavoda.

This shows what has happened so far as territorial considerations are concerned. But these are of the least importance. We are still a long way from knowing what has really occurred. It would do much to solve the problem if we knew whether the same Meckensen strength which drove the Rumanians back from the Cernavoda bridge was defeated by the Rumanions in this latter fighting, or whether it was an army weakened by withdrawals and consequently forced to fall back in order that its line might be shortened. Remember that Dobrudja is an hour glass, and its narrowest point is the line joining Constanza and Cernavoda. Therefore, as Mackenson retreated from the north, his line was constantly contracting, and it will continue to contract until it reaches the railroad. When this is passed, if it is passed, the line will again lengthen out until it reaches its maximum along the southern Dobrudja boundary.

Either one of three things, aside from territorial considerations, has happened: The Rumanians have administered a not inconsiderable defeat to Mackensen's full force, Mackensen has voluntarily retired to shorten his line of communications as well as the battle line itself, or he has weakened his forces to send aid to von Falkenhayn in Transylvania with the purpose of enabling the latter to overcome the Rumanian resistance and link up with Mackensen by cutting across Rumania. Let us consider the latter theory first.

Rumania realizes as we do in this country, that because of the extreme difficulty, not to say the impossibility, of forcing a crossing of the lower Danube, Dobrudja, aside from the railroad at Cernavoda, is of little value to Germany or any one else. Rumania also knows the situation in Transylvania, has a keen appreciation of the dangers of a successful invasion from this quarter and knows, approximately at least, the strength of von Falkenhayn's army and the power of her own resistance. In the case of Transylvania she must play the game absolutely safe; she cannot afford to take the slightest chance. With these facts in her possession could she afford to expend her energies in fighting for what is admittedly not worth while since it is without military value, if the Transylvania situation were not perfectly satisfactory? If in the opinion of the Rumanian, French and Russian strategists who are in control, there were danger in Transylvania would Rumania not have drawn from her forces in Dobrudja to the point where they were able to defend the passage of the Danube and nothing more in order that her full strength might be exerted at the point of greatest danger?

It is therefore improbable that Mackensen has been weakened to aid the Germans in Hungary. Large forces cannot be transferred from one active front to another without the other side being made aware of the fact. As to the other possibilities of the present situation we are not in a position to say much as we know but little. It is a fact which has been frequently stated in this column that that section of Dobrudja north of the railroad is without value. It would therefore be entirely reasonable for Mackensen to fall back even though the Rumanian pressure were not sufficient to force him back. We may possibly find the answer to the puzzle in future happenings on the Transylvania front.

BELGIUM DENOUNCES LABOR DEPORTATION

DRAFTING ABLE-BODIED MEN

Baron Beyens Says They Are Exiled by the Thousands to Free Germans for Fighting.

HAVRE, Nov. 9.—Charges that the German Government is rounding up and sending to unknown destinations practically all the able-bodied men in occupied Belgium are made by Baron Beyens, Belgian Foreign Minister, in a statement issued by him today. Baron Beyens says:

"The German Government is rounding up in large numbers in the towns and villages of occupied Belgium, such as Alost, Ghent, Bruges, Courtrai, and Mons, to name only the first to be victims of the measure—all men fit to bear arms, rich and poor, irrespective of class, whether employed or unemployed. Hunchbacks, cripples, and one-armed men alone are excepted. These men are torn in thousands from their families; 15,000 from Flanders alone are sent God knows where. Whole trainloads are seen going east and south.

"The German authorities seek to justify these deportations by pretending that it is the duty of the occupying power to make, in accordance with The Hague Convention, the necessary regulations to establish public order and public life. They affirm that the unemployed must not fall a charge upon public charities, and that work whereon they are employed has nothing to do with the war. Those who are really responsible for the stagnation and decay of Belgian industry are, according to the Germans, workmen who prefer to live on charity rather than on the proceeds of their labor, and England, who prohibited the importation of raw materials into Belgium.

"Is it necessary to answer that there would be no lack of work in Belgium if the Germans had not made a clean sweep of raw materials, copper and oil, in the factories, as they will perhaps make a clean sweep tomorrow of all leather belting, which must now be declared in detail; if they had not requisitioned in masses machinery, parts of machinery, and machine tools? If, finally, they had not placed prohibitive duties on metal goods exported to Holland, in order to keep them out of the market—the only one remaining open as a competitor for German industry? Is it necessary to add that industries cited by the Germans as having no connection with the war, such as quarries and limekilns, furnish the German Army with materials for concrete wherewith to fortify and consolidate trenches?

"If they desired to use the arms of our workmen to repair and maintain roads, would it be necessary to deport them like cattle, instead of employing them in the neighborhood of their homes and families? The truth is that Germany, by these corrallings of Belgians, intends to liberate an equal number of German workmen to fill the gaps in the regiments of their armies.

PRESIDENT PRO TEM. SUNDAY, MARCH 4?

Inauguration Day Question Is Causing Official Discussion in Washington.

NO LAW COVERS THE POINT

But Hayes and Jackson, in Similar Situation, Took the Oath Saturday, March 3.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The fact that March 4, Inauguration Day, falls in 1917 on Sunday is causing more or less academic discussion. The matter has been considered informally by many officials and by members of the Cabinet, Senators, and Congressmen who stand close to President Wilson. No one has reached a definite conclusion as to the precise legal solution.

The outgoing President usually holds office until noon of the day of the inauguration of his successor. Probably a law or State paper signed by him on March 4 before noon would be held by the courts or by Congress to be legal and of full force and effect. Likewise, any similar action by the new President in the afternoon of that day would be of full legal force. Secretary Lansing, on whom would fall the responsibility of acting as President ad interim, according to the view of some authorites, has acknowledged that he has reached no conclusions regarding the technicality and knows of none reached by others. He also feels quite sure that no situation will arise nor will any necessity be likely which will impose on him the brief authority of a Chief Magistrate.

Attorney General Gregory is another member of the Cabinet whose attention has been drawn to the perplexing question of who would be President in the Sunday interval. His view is that no precedent exists under which to formulate a legal opinion as to the necessity for any intermediate holding of the office.

Little light is afforded by examination of the law provided by Congress to meet the contingency of the failure for any cause whatever of a President to perform the duties of his office. This law was drawn by the late Senator Hoar of Massachusetts and went into effect in 1886. It provides that in case of "the removal, death, resignation, or inability of both the President and Vice President of the United States, the Secretary of State shall act as President until the disability of the President or Vice President is removed or a President elected."

In case there should be no Secretary of State, or he should be unable to act, then the Secretary of the Treasury should act, and so on in turn, if each member of the Cabinet according to priority of the office should be unable to act, the one next lower should be President pro tem. This law, however, was not enacted to meet what will happen March 4, 1917, which is not regarded as a legal official or legislative day.

This is not, either, the first time March 4 has rolled around on Sunday. The first inauguration of Andrew Jackson fell on the day of rest. So did Rutherford B. Hayes's inauguration. In those cases the oath of office was taken on March 3, the Saturday before the actual beginning of the term of office, and the new President moved into the White House on Monday, the 5th, which, of course, avoided all criticism from good people who did not believe in moving into a new house on Sunday.

In short, the legal view of induction into office seems to depend on the qualification of the principal rather than the time or place of inauguration. Andrew Johnson took the oath of office as President at the Kirkwood House within an hour after the death of President Lincoln, and later repeated it before the United States Senate. Congress has fixed the time when a term of office begins, and if the President-elect has taken the oath of office in the proper and legal manner any time before his term begins he is regarded as qualified to enter on his duties whether they begin on Sunday or any other day.

If Mr. Hughes were elected President and should take the oath of office on Saturday, March 3, 1917, he would ipso facto be President of the United States according to law and precedents at the stroke of high noon March 4, even if he should happen to be listening to the benediction from Dr. Greene in Calvary Church, or himself singing the doxology.

TWO SOCIALISTS IN ASSEMBLY.

J. A. Whitehorn Elected in Brooklyn, as Well as A. I. Shiplacoff.

Brooklyn politicians were surprised yesterday when it was found that Kings County had elected another Socialist to the Assembly. The tabulated returns from the Twenty-first District showed that Joseph A. Whitehorn, the candidate of the Socialist Party, had won with a plurality of 40 votes. Abraham I. Shiplacoff, Socialist, was re-elected Assemblyman in the Twenty-third District. He and Whitehorn will be the only Socialist members of the Legislature.

The Twenty-first was regarded as a Democratic district, and Assemblyman Isaac Mendelsohn, Democrat, was confident of re-election. It was thought that he had won until the Socialist vote was counted. Whitehorn received 1,739 votes and Mendelsohn 1,699. The vote for Richard Nessler, Republican, was 1,594.

Not the least surprised of the politicians was Assemblyman-elect Whitehorn himself. He said yesterday that, while he hoped to finish second, he had not expected to be elected. Whitehorn is 37 years old, and a native of Rumania. He came to this country in boyhood, and for several years supported himself by selling newspapers on the streets. While in the employ of a clothing firm in this city he studied law in the evening classes at New York University and was admitted to the bar in 1904. He lives at 235A Vernon Avenue.

WHITMAN SPENT $1,000.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Nov. 9.—Governor Whitman was the first candidate to file his election expense account with the Secretary of State. It set forth that he received nothing "except as reported by the Whitman Campaign Committee," and that he contributed on Oct. 10 $1,000 to Otis H. Cutter, Treasurer of the Republican State Committee.

The second certificate was filed by Theodore Douglas Robinson, the Republican and Progressive candidate for State Senator in the Thirty-second District. He received nothing and contributed $650 to the Republican Committees of Fulton, Lewis, and Herkimer Counties.

Attorney General Egburt E. Woodbury states that he received nothing and contributed $1,147, all but $2 for postage going to political organizations, including $1,000 to the Republican State Committee.

COLONEL HAS NOT GIVEN UP.

"I'll Stick It Out Till the Last," He Says Grimly.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Colonel Roosevelt early this evening had by no means given up hope that Hughes might come out ahead.

"I'll stick it out till the last," he said grimly.

He would make no further comment. The Colonel remained close to his telephone all day. He had few visitors.

opinion in favor of a separate peace, Mr. Asquith said:

"I desire to declare without hesitation or reserve that the Allies are fighting in a common cause; that for the purposes of war their interests are identical, and that a victory securing those interests is, in our judgment, the only condition of a lasting peace."

Continuing, Mr. Asquith said he desired to mention that hitherto no German propagandist had ever suggested that Germany was prepared to concede anything to the demand of the Allies for the reconstruction and independence of Serbia.

Alluding to what he termed the propaganda conducted in Russia, to the effect that Great Britain's only desire to prolong the war and prevent any sort of peace was because she was making huge profits by exploiting her allies unscrupulously, the Premier said:

"For us, who know what terrible sacrifices we are paying in precious lives, in the unceasing, pitiless drain upon our reservoir of potential promise and vitality—who have greater reason than we to long and pray for peace? Peace, yes, but on one condition only—that the war with its vast waste, its sacrifices, its untold sufferings, its glorious and undying example of courage and unselfishness, shall not have been in vain.

No Question of Separate Peace.

"There can be no question of a separate peace, and peace, when it comes, be it soon or late—and I will not disguise from you for a moment my conviction that the struggle will tax all our resources and our whole stock of patience and resolve—the peace must be such as will build upon sure and stable foundations—the security of the weak, the liberties of Europe and a free future for the world."

Mr. Balfour briefly denied the statements that the British Navy had accepted a passive role in the war, saying the Germans had refused to allow their ships to meet the British. Referring to the recent raid by German torpedo craft in the English Channel, Mr. Balfour said:

"It did not disturb our transport services for a moment."

The First Lord of the Admiralty said he would not say that such a raid could not be repeated, but that if it were the Germans would not be able to get out of the Channel again without heavy losses.

SHIP MADAWASCA ASHORE.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 9.—The British steamship Madawasca is ashore at Corral Bay.

The Madawasca, 4,210 tons gross, is owned in London. She sailed from Calcutta Sept. 4 for Peru, touching at Newcastle, New South Wales, on Oct. 5.

MME. MIURA SINGS IRIS.

Excellently Portrays Mascagni's Heroine—New Tenor Appears.

It was made apparent last night, when the Boston-National Opera Company gave its first performance here of Mascagni's "Iris" at the Lexington Theatre, that within the year separating her first and her present appearance here, Mme. Tamaki Miura, the Japanese soprano of the company, has gone far in making herself an accomplished artist instead of merely a piquant personality. Her presentation of the pathetic heroine of Mascagni's opera was full of fine touches of characterization, deftly and surely carried out; an impersonation that made the fragile figure of Iris stand out as a consistent picture and a deeply moving one. It would be hard to imagine her work in the second act improved upon. From the musical standpoint, while admiration must be a little more tempered, it was noticeable, even more than at her first appearance in "Madama Butterfly" on Tuesday evening, that she had been studying diligently and had vastly improved her voice.

In last night's performance Tovia Kittay, a new tenor, appeared for the first time here as Osaka. He is something of a puzzle. While in his middle voice the quality perhaps inelegantly termed "bleating" for want of a better word was often in evidence, there were other times, especially in the high notes, when better "covering" of the tones produced an unusually fine and warm tone. Then, while he was novice enough to let his nervousness force him into singing half an air entirely wrong and sometimes a whole tone away from the key of the orchestra, bringing about utter disaster, there were other times when his spontaneous and easy phrasing were delightful for the moment. As he is probably one of the younger singers appearing in a principal operatic rôle, it seems possible that if he can wipe out his present serious faults of tone production his voice will be a valuable one.

José Mardones, as the blind father, and Thomas Chalmers, as the villain, Kyoto, did some excellent work. The development of Mr. Chalmers has been evident in its advancing stages from his appearances here since the days when he sang with the Century Opera Company. While he has perhaps not yet acquired all the technique of villainy that could have been used in his part, his acting nevertheless had a place of value in the ensemble. The conducting of Mr. Moranzoni, whose orchestral players seem to get less reliable with each succeeding performance, was excellent. A word is due the excellence of the stage settings and costuming, and there were times when the work of an intelligent stage direction was in evidence.

FEARS FOR RAPPAHANNOCK.

Halifax Anxious About Furness Liner, Twenty-three Days Out.

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 9.—Anxiety was expressed in shipping circles tonight for the safety of the Furness Line steamer Rappahannock, which sailed from here for London twenty-three days ago. Furness, Withy & Co., agents of the steamer, have received from London two cablegrams saying that no news of her has been received there and indicating that some apprehension is felt.

The theory that the steamer might have met disaster in the hurricane recently reported in the Atlantic was dismissed by the local agents as improbable. They pointed out that the Rappahannock was a notably good sea boat, and other steamers less seaworthy than she passed through the gale safely and reached their destination.

The steamer has [illegible] barrels of apples, besides a general cargo.

Big New Novel of

By REX BEACH

"A spirited tale worthy of the man who wrote 'The Spoilers' and 'The Silver Horde.'"—N. Y. World.

"Mr. Beach has written the best, the most illuminating novel of the Cuban struggle for independence which we remember having read. It is historical romance in the best sense of the words, reviving many a forgotten memory of American daring and enterprise in support of the cause."—N. Y. Tribune.

"Adventure and peril in Cuba—the Cuba of rebellion and reconcentrados—is the theme and inspiration of Rex Beach's latest novel—'Rainbow's End.' In the rude, rough life of a lawless tropical country this romancer seems quite as much at home as in the frozen regions of the far north."—Philadelphia North American.

MAYOR TESTIFIES IN ROFRANO CASE

LITTLETON BEGINS TO SUM UP

Attacks the District Attorney's Aids for Unfairness to His Client—Case May End on Saturday.

After calling Mayor Mitchel as a witness in the effort to disprove an alibi advanced by Michael A. Rofrano, on trial for complicity in the murder of Michael Galmari, the State rested its case in rebuttal in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court yesterday. Martin W. Littleton, counsel for the defense, announced that he had no additional witnesses to offer, and he was in the midst of summing up the evidence in the case when Justice Bartow S. Weeks adjourned court until this morning. It was obvious from the extended and oftentimes bitter address being made by Mr. Littleton that he did not expect to finish before noon today, and that it would be Saturday morning before the case went to the jury.

Mayor Mitchel's testimony related to a report alleged to have been made to him by Rofrano on Feb. 18, 1915, in a matter affecting the Street-Cleaning Department, of which at that time the defendant was a deputy. The date was important because, according to the defendant's accusers, Rofrano held a murder conference on the telephone on that day with one of the conspirators in the plot to kill Michael Galmari. The defendant had denied this, asserting that at the time specified he was in his law office at 198 Broadway dictating to his stenographer the report to Mayor Mitchel.

The Mayor testified that he was not able to fix the day he received the report. He said he thought it was some time between Feb. 17 and Feb. 23. Although he had made diligent search, he asserted, he could not find any record that might clear away the confusion. He said, on cross-examination, that he had had occasion at one time to investigate charges against Rofrano, but so far as he could then discover, the defendant's character was satisfactory.

Mr. Mitchel followed as a witness James Knox, the "disinterested" witness whom the State had held in reserve for many weeks. Knox, a chauffeur, testified that he drove Rofrano in an automobile to the neighborhood of Fourteenth Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street, Brooklyn, some time in the Winter of 1915. This is in the neighborhood of the home of Joseph Brundini, where some of the murder conferences were alleged to have been held.

The Assistant District Attorney questioned Knox in an effort to show that he took the defendant to Fourteenth Avenue some time in January, 1915, when the alleged murder conferences were held, but the chauffeur could not recall the date.

Mr. Littleton, in summing up, reiterated his attack on the District Attorney's staff for, as he alleged, having permitted itself to be used by Rofrano's enemies in the present case. The lawyer's obvious purpose was to explain why Rofrano, a shrewd lawyer and a political leader, had left the jurisdiction of the State authorities on the day before he was indicted.

"I cannot escape the conviction," Mr. Littleton said at one point, "that there is evidence here of desperate unfairness to this defendant. I leave it to you gentlemen of the jury if there has not been more zeal and hostility in this case than in almost any case that has come under your observation."

The lawyer for the defense contended that the office of the District Attorney was legitimately subject to criticism when, in a desire to obtain a conviction, it resorted to vindictive or unfair methods such as, according to Mr. Littleton's view, had marked the prosecution of Rofrano.

"I seek no personal quarrel with Mr. Brothers, the Assistant District Attorney in the case," said Mr. Littleton, "but I am not inclined at this moment to forgive John T. Dooling for capturing our witnesses and questioning them before they appeared here."

Mr. Littleton laid stress on the alleged absence of a motive inspiring Rofrano to encourage the murder of Galmari, and he commented savagely on the character of the gunmen who had testified against the defendant.

MACALUSOS LOSE WARD.

Little Girl Reared by Dancers Sent to Convent by Court.

Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Macaluso, dancers at Rector's and elsewhere, were directed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Cohalan to give up the custody of Elvira Martini, who is being reared as their own child, and is being cared for by a nurse and governess at the home of the Maclusos at 113 West Forty-seventh Street. The dancers have an income of $1,600 a week, they say, and are able to give the child every luxury.

The case came before Justice Cohalan on a habeas corpus proceeding brought by Mrs. Annie Martine, whose husband was a ragpicker, and who deserted her and her infant child when she came to America from Italy several years ago. Mrs. Martini said she entered the employment of the Macalusos, and that because of her inability to care for the child they took the little girl until she was able to provide for her. She asked for the child recently, and told the Court that she was threatened with imprisonment if she insisted on taking her daughter.

Agents of the Children's Society appeared in the case and produced evidence that the child should be taken from the Macalusos, and also that Mrs. Martini was not able to provide for the little girl properly now. The Court then directed that Elvira be placed in the Dominican Convent of Our Lady of Rosary until the mother is able to provide for the little girl. The Macalusos are to have the privilege of seeing her if they pay for her maintenance.

Evidence presented by the Children's Society agents was to the effect that the child's morals were not sufficiently protected by the Macalusos. Antonio Macaluso was indicted in 1909 in connection with charges made by a Philadelphia builder, at which time Carl Fischer Hansen, an attorney, since disbarred, was also involved. Macaluso fled the country and remained in France for five years. The indictment was dismissed later because of inability to get the necessary witnesses.

INDICT 7 FOR DYNAMITING.

One Accused in Plot of Street Car Men Not Yet Arrested.

The Grand Jury yesterday returned indictments against the six men who were arrested last Friday, charged with having placed the dynamite which exploded in the subway near the station at 110th Street and Lenox Avenue. The indicted men are William Herlihy, Benjamin Hamilton, Louis Kulla, James J. Murnaugh, George Pollack and Thomas J. McGuire. With the exception of McGuire all of the defendants are members of the carmen's union. The Grand Jury also indicted a seventh man who has not yet been arrested.

The Grand Jury inspected the books of the local of which the indicted men were members, but could not trace any payments of money to the defendants. In several of the confessions made to the authorities it was alleged that money had been forthcoming from the union with which to purchase the explosive.

BARES TRAFFIC HERE IN LOTTERY TICKETS

Evidence gathered by Surveyor of the Port Thomas E. Rush during the last week indicates that more than $500,000 a month is being paid by persons in this city for tickets entitling them to chances in the monthly lottery drawings in Hamburg, Germany. In June, 1912, the postal authorities discovered that the lotteries in Germany, Spain, Cuba, France, and Sweden were soliciting trade in this country. Efforts to stop the illegal traffic took the form of a fraud order on all such mails, and it was supposed that the attempt to get people here to gamble in the chances had been checked.

Mr. Rush has learned, however, that the only effect of the order was to change the form of plying the lottery business in this country. Discovery of the new method came about through the vigilance of Customs Officers J. J. Lynch, G. M. Barron, and H. Holtgrewe.

Just after nightfall on Nov. 1 they were loitering on the pier of the Scandinavian-American Line in Hoboken when they saw two sailors leave the steamship Oscar II., and walk stealthily up the pier toward the street. Thinking the men were seeking to smuggle goods ashore, they arrested them.

The prisoners were searched, and concealed in their clothes were several bundles of lottery tickets. When the sailors were arraigned before United States Commissioner Carpenter in Jersey City, they gave their names as Gustav Johansen and Johan Olsen. In default of $1,000 bail each, they were locked up. In each package of tickets were found the name and address of the person to whom it was to be delivered.

Mr. Rush investigated and soon had evidence enough to warrant drastic action against a number of the persons who dealt in lottery tickets.

Mr. Rush learned that two banks in this city handled all the money collected here, and after settling with the winners sent the balance to Hamburg. During his investigations Mr. Rush found that one of the lottery ticket dealers, who kept a cigar store, was also engaged in the business of selling unstamped cigars. The investigation also revealed that the biggest dealer of all in the lottery tickets was a woman. She is said to be an artful operator and in charge of a number of agencies. So far, all of the information gathered related only to the business of the Hamburg lottery.

The delivereies were made sometimes through the mails and sometimes by the messengers themselves, according to the exigencies of the occasion. The packages found on the prisoners were to have been delivered personally. Surveyor Rush declined to discuss the investigation he has been making further than to say:

"I have sufficient evidence on which to prosecute a number of the agents who have been selling the tickets in this city and in some of the cities in New Jersey. But I cannot talk about it until the Department of Justice has taken action. There will have to be co-operation between the United States Attorneys in three districts in order to round up all of the persons involved."

The estimate that $500,000 worth of lottery tickets was bought every month in this city was based on the value of the tickets taken from the two prisoners, but the impression is that the total amount exceeds this sum.

TO EXAMINE WOMAN WRITER.

Mrs. Burnett Townsend Must Answer Under an Order in a Libel Suit

Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett Townsend, author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and other books, was directed by Supreme Court Justice Pendleton yesterday to testify as to her standing as "a prominent and famous character in the literary world, a person of great influence and social standing, and of large wealth."

The order for Mrs. Townsend's examination was obtained by Mrs. Annie P. Fahnestock of Washington, D. C., her niece by marriage, in a suit for $50,000 damages for libel because, as the plaintiff alleged, Mrs. Townsend wrote a letter on Feb. 21, 1915, in which she described Mrs. Fahnestock as a "slanderous, ill-bred meddler, a shrew and brawler, and subject to brainstorms."

Mrs. Fahnestock said the letter was written to her sister, Mrs. Emma Prall Knorr. Mrs. Townsend admitted writing a certain letter, but said it was provoked by Mrs. Fahnestock's statements concerning her mother-in-law, Mrs. Edith Mary Jordan, sister of Mrs. Townsend.

JOHN HARVARD IS READY FOR TIGER

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 9.—The Harvard football team is now ready to go into the Princeton game Saturday. Today's drill was the last before the match, as tomorrow there will be just a little limbering up before the field is turned over to the Princeton team, which will arrive here in the afternoon.

The squad was out early today, the coaches putting the finishing touches on the position play, the kickers going through a long drill, and then the regulars and first substitutes lining up against each other for a short scrimmage in which the new plays planned for the Tigers were worked out to the general satisfaction of the coaches. Later the Stadium was opened to the undergraduates, who saw the team drill on plays for the first time except before a game.

There was a lot of enthusiasm, the students trooping to the field with their band, and all of the 'Varsity players being cheered to the echo. The 'Varsity ran through its offense as it did yesterday, with Murray still at quarter, Horween at half back, and Snow at right guard. Horween handled himself well, and his kicking is said to be as good as it was before he was hurt.

Snow, although he weighs 12 pounds less than Clark, is a 200-pounder, and as he has played with the team three years and is finding himself, he is expected to put up a stalwart game against the experienced Jersey line Saturday.

Robinson has a lame leg and cannot play this week, although hopes are entertained of his return in time to fit himself for the game against Yale two weeks hence.

After the 'Varsity had finished its work today the Freshmen and 'Varsity scrubs played a short match, and then the 'Varsity coaches made up a team and ran up and down the field, much to the amusement of the crowd. Harvard is very confident that it can win the Princeton game, although this year's team is not rated as nearly so good as last year's team, which had all it could do to beat Princeton 10 to 6. The reason for the Crimson's great confidence is apparently that the coaches consider the Tigers not so strong as they were in 1915, and also that the team made up of veterans will not be able to come up to top form quickly after a slump which has lasted about three weeks.

Harvard, however, while it feels sure it can stop the Tigers' attack, as shown in Princeton's games this year, believes that Rush will have something radical in the way of an attack. Also, the fact that Harvard's defense has had no test in the past month occasions some little misgivings.

CORNELL'S FINAL WORKOUT.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 9.—There will be no favorite in the betting on the Cornell-Michigan game this year judging from the early wagers laid. A small delegation of Michigan students arrived in town to-day ahead of the Michigan team, which went through a practice on the Hobart College campus in Geneva this afternoon. The Michigan squad will be brought here tomorrow by Coach Yost and will remain in retirement until it is time to go to the field Saturday afternoon.

Dr. Sharpe held the last Cornell practice this afternoon. The 'Varsity tried out all of the new plays with success against the scrubs, and the first eleven held the scrubs in attempts to use the Michigan formations. There was no change in the 'Varsity line.

In Captain Mueller's place at full back, Fischer, a sub who was recently taken from the line to the backfield, had his first real trial on the 'Varsity. His work was so good this afternoon that the coaches may decide to give him a chance against Michigan Saturday. Mueller has not been in scrimmage this week, owing to injuries, but will start the game Saturday.

The Red 'Varsity showed skill this afternoon in the use of the forward pass. The team may open the aerial attack against Michigan, but unless it becomes absolutely necessary, will for the most part stick to straight football.

Jack Moakley, the Cornell track coach, had the linemen in a long drill at getting a speedy start this afternoon. The men are still a bit slow in getting under their opposition.

SEND-OFF FOR WOLVERINES.

Great Enthusiasm Attends Departure for Cornell Game.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 9.—Amid a riot of enthusiasm not approached since the 1914 team left for the Harvard game, Michigan's football men left tonight for Ithaca, N. Y. Continuous cheers from more than 3,000 students and masses of Ann Arbor residents lasted until the Michigan Central train was out of sight. Besides the twenty-five 'Varsity men and Head Coach Yost, with assistants Pontius and Douglass, officials of the Michigan Athletic Association accompanied the team. Twenty-six scrubs and two special trains filled with rooters from the student body, and Detroit and Jackson alumni supporters will leave tomorrow. The team will hold light practice on the Hobart College gridiron tomorrow afternoon, and will arrive in Ithaca just before noon Saturday.

The coach stated today that Sharpe's injuries sustained last night will keep him out of Saturday's fray. This news has not kept down the confidence of the Wolverine rooters, however. Raymond will replace Sharpe and do part of the punting. Sparks will start the contest at quarter back.

SHIFT IN ARMY'S LINE.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 9.—The Army's workout today was of the heavy order, and lasted until darkness put a stop to it. All the big fellows were out except Captain McEwan and Butler. The absence of these two veterans necessitated a shakeup in the front line. Stokes displayed good form at centre, and Schlenker was sent in at Butler's tackle job.

The return of Redfield to right end after an absence from hard work for a month was another feature of the practice. Redfield's fast down-the-field work and hard tackling were sufficient to convince the coaches that he has not slowed up any during his enforced absence. Shrader, Lewis, Mullind, Ford, and Rundell were all used at intervals at the other wing position. Place, Oliphant, and Vidal carried the ball. A lengthy session for the second-string men on some new plays indicated that the coaches will probably start the reserves against Maine on Saturday, although no definite announcement to this effect has been made.

RUTGERS PRACTICES AGAIN.

Work Resumed After Long Rest to Offset Overtraining.

NEW BRUNSWICK, Nov. 9.—The first practice of the week by the Rutgers football team was held this afternoon, work having been called off previously by Coach Sanford in the belief that the men were overtrained. John Whitehall, who has been substituting in the back field since Kelly was injured, was hurt again yesterday when he sprained his ankle slightly. Wallace will take his place against West Virginia on Saturday. Sanford put the men through a short scrimmage, against a scrub team, which has been practicing West Virginia plays all this week. The 'Varsity defense was much stronger than it was a week ago and the coaches believe that they will have little difficulty with the Southerners.

YALE 'VARSITY IS RESTING.

No Work for First-String Players Until Next Week.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 9.—Until next week the Yale football coaches insist that the first-string players shall do nothing except rest, having no daily practice and staying on the side lines in the game scheduled with Brown on Saturday. Practically a substitute eleven will be sent against the Providence collegians.

Today only two regulars were in the 'Varsity line-up, Quarter Back Travers Smith and Half Back Harry Legore. Captain Black, Gates and Hutchinson may play part of Saturday's game, but they will be excused from practice till then. They did not report at the Bowl today. There is no chance that Charley Taft and Galt will play against the Brunonians.

Robert S. Bingham, veteran half back, who has been out of the game for two weeks on account of illness, will be unable to play any more this season. This was announced tonight by Dr. Greenway, the team's medical adviser. Bingham has an organic weakness and the physician told him that to play further would be dangerous to his health.

This afternoon the scrubs defeated the makeshift 'Varsity combination by two touchdowns to one. Howell van Nostrand, the former 'Varsity quarter back, ran the scrubs brilliantly and interfered cleverly for Half Back Effie Waite, the ground-gaining hero of the afternoon. Nearly all the long runs which paved the way for the scrubs' two touchdowns were made by Waite, and he went over the goal line for both scores on end runs of 20 and 15 yards respectively. After the scrubs had scored twice Travis Smith, acting captain of the 'Varsity, appealed to the regulars not to be whitewashed, and they braced and carried the ball the length of the field for a touchdown. Legore and Carey each registered a 15-yard gain, taking the ball to the scrubs' ten-yard line, whence Legore plunged across for a tally.

The visiting coaches included Carl Flanders, Pudge Heffelfinger, Paul Veeder and Foster Rockwell. Because of the death of his mother Heffelfinger has been called to his home in Minneapolis.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 9.—Brown held its last real practice in preparation for the Yale game this afternoon, and at its conclusion the coaches expressed satisfaction and were optimistic. Today the workout was devoted principally to signals, with four elevens running up and down the field, although for about ten minutes the second team, which has a game tomorrow, scrimmaged with the 'Varsity. One touchdown was made on a long run by Purdy, aided by splendid interference.

The second team, which had the ball in its possession most of the time, found difficulty in making consistent gains. Just what the Brown lineup will be Saturday is uncertain. Coach Robinson's chief hope is to bring his squad through without injury to any of the men counted upon for service in the Harvard game one week later. As a result, Captain Farnum and Purdy may be kept out of the Yale game. Jimmy Murphy, who will play quarter in case it is decided not to take chances with Purdy, ran the team brilliantly in the Rutgers game, and his work all season has been better than at any time since he first joined the squad, two years ago. There are several capable substitutes for Captain Farnum at guard, where the big fellow now seems to be a fixture. As a matter of fact, Brown was never so well off for substitute material this year and it would be difficult to say just who comprise the real 'Varsity eleven.

QUAKERS HAVE AN OUTING.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Fifteen members of Penn's 'Varsity eleven, in charge of Coach Bob Folwell, went to Wayne this afternoon, where they were put through a stiff drill on the field of St. Luke's School. The players will remain at Wayne until Saturday morning.

Special attention was paid by Folwell in today's workout to the kicking of Jimmy Bryant, the Red and Blue quarter back. This was done in an effort to counteract the work of Cannell, the Dartmouth quarter back, said to be one of the cleverest handlers of kicks in the East this season. After the kicking practice several new plays, which will be sprung on the Green team, were tried. Folwell said he was pleased with the ginger displayed by the men.

The fifteen men who went to Wayne are Captain Mathews, Little, Henning, Ertresvaag, Wray, Miller, Urquhart, Bryant, Derr, Williams, Light, Berry, Quigley, Bell, and Berg.

HOPES OF GREEN RISE.

Announcement That Regular Backfield Will Face Penn Encouraging.

Special to The New York Times.

The announcement bolsters up the hopes of Dartmouth followers. Thielscher will do the punting in the Penn game and this fact in itself will boost Dartmouth's chances of carrying off the honors.

In a short practice here today Coach Cavanaugh laid stress upon line defense when the opposing team drops into kicking formation. This work was done with a view toward hurrying the Pennsylvania punters and if possible blocking the ball. Dartmouth has had much success with this style of defensive play this year and it is very probable that it will cause Pennsylvania no little trouble Saturday.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Nov. 9.—The Wesleyan football squad resumed activities here in earnest this afternoon in preparation for the Columbia game in New York on Nov. 18. The practice opened with a strenuous workout for the linemen on tackling dummy. The back field men practiced in catching and running pack of punts. Special emphasis was placed upon the ends going down under kicks, and in their open field tackling.

'Varsity and second teams were then formed, and a snappy signal drill was engaged in. No new plays or formations were tried, and it is the plan of the coaches to perfect the plays on hand for Columbia.

It is quite probable that no changes will be made in the line-up for the final game of the season. Lawson at quarter back or at half back is fast rounding into shape, and will be worked considerably to determine his real ability.

Union Has No Fear of Amherst.

Special to The New York Times.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Union, confident of victory against Amherst Saturday, lined up today for a hard scrimmage with the second team. A long signal drill followed. Captain Rosenkrans's line plunging and open-field running was the feature as usual. Travis, who is improving steadily, will probably start the game on Saturday.

ALL PRINCETON IS ON THE SIDELINES

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 9.—Princeton's undergraduates and a host of former Tiger gridiron stars turned out this afternoon to view the Princeton eleven in its final practice for the Harvard game in the Stadium. Enthusiasm over Saturday's contest has reached great heights here, in spite of the unusual interest in the election, and about three-fourths of the college marched down to the field. Tonight a mass meeting was held in Alexander Hall to give the team a good send-off. Sam White, who brought Princeton a championship in 1911, Big Bill Edwards, Parke S. Davis, Howard Henry, Ross McClave, and many other stars of former days were among the favored ones allowed to watch the eleven in its secret drill in the early part of the afternoon.

The entire squad of coaches, players, trainers, and rubbers will leave Princeton tomorrow morning about 8 o'clock. Eddie Hart, captain of the 1911 championship team, and Hobey Baker, who was captain in 1913, will accompany the squad to Cambridge. Hart has remarkable power in instilling fighting spirit and determination into a team, and his appearance on the bench at Saturday's game may be of great help to the Tigers. A brief practice will probably be held for the entire squad late in the afternoon in the Harvard Stadium, so that the players can accustom themselves to the conditions there.

No scrimmage was allowed at today's practice, most of the time being spent in perfecting the offensive plays that will be used against Harvard. Moore, Brown, Driggs, and Eddy composed the backfield most of the time, and this will probably be the combination which will start against the Crimson. Toward the end of the practice the 'Varsity was sent against the scrubs for a short dummy scrimmage. Harvard formations, as far as they are known here, were used by the second-string men.

Although Coach Rush has been unwilling to announce his line-up, or even any probable one, some idea of how the Tigers will go on the field could be gathered from today's practice. McGraw was used at the one doubtful tackle and he will probably start Saturday. McGraw is heavy and fast, but so far he has shown a tendency to tackle high, which has counterbalanced his ability to cover punts and to break through the line when on the defensive. McLean will probably be at the other tackle, while Nourse, Gennert, and Captain Hogg will compose the centre trio.

Two sets of ends were used on the first team, Highley and Wilson receiving the first call, while Funk and Winn were sent in a little later. The first pair will probably start the contest and give way to the Funk and Winn combination later in the game. Highley and Wilson are both fast and aggressive, but they are rather light and wear out faster than the other pair.

Ames ran the second team through its signals today. There is hardly any probability that he will start at quarter back, but he will probably be sent in to relieve Eddy in case relief is necessary. Comey, another strong candidate, would probably go in at the positon if he was not handicapped so much by lack of weight and experience.

Princeton will seem like a deserted town tomorrow night, as most of the undergraduates are planning to see the game. The enthusiasm which exists throughout the college could hardly be called confidence, but there is hope. Rush and his assistants are, as usual, unwilling to commit themselves as to the probable outcome of the game.

ONLY EASY WORK FOR PITT.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Nov. 9.—Coach Warner let his men off with a light workout today, contenting himself with special lessons in the ways and means of attack and defense against the style that Sol Metzger has in training the Washington and Jefferson team. There is no doubt that the game Saturday will abound in speed and spectacular plays, as the Red and Black team is the most ancient rival of Pitt, and it is only in the last three years that Pitt has been able to hold the Washington boys back.

When the Pitt squad trotted out of the training house this afternoon Warner began at once on formations and signal work. The whole plan of team direction has been changed since the Pennsylvania and Allegheny games because of the presence of the W. & J. scouts, and after the scrubs had scrimmaged with the regulars today a secret practice followed. Pitt will present her full strength, except Soppitt, who is out altogether. Sies will be displaced by Stahl, the Bellefonte Academy boy. Sies will no doubt get in during the game, either in the line or backfield, where he worked today.

SWITCH GARNET FORWARDS.

SWATHMORE, Penn., Nov. 9.—The followers of the Garnet eleven were surprised today when Coach Billy Roper shifted McGovern from tackle to centre. The change was due to the difficulty of finding a man who could satisfactorily fill Fred Donnelly's shoes. Donnelly was injured in the Ursinus game. Clarke and Ridpath have each taken a try at the pivot position, but McGovern is an iron man at defense and Roper seems to think that a general shakeup in the line will improve matters. Ridpath has taken McGovern's place at left tackle.

Stowe is out on account of a painful bruise on his side, and the guard positions were held today by Clarke and Wilson. Captain Endicott was in togs, but did not take part in the scrimmage. Dr. Mercer spent several minutes in instructing the back field in a new system of forward passing. The line received a thirty-minute drill at charging and opening up holes. During the practice there was an open-air mass meeting on the sidelines, where the student body practiced cheers to encourage the team in Saturday's battle with Columbia.

LEHIGH BOLSTERS DEFENSE.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Penn., Nov. 9.—There will be no more hard work for the Lehigh eleven prior to the Penn State game, the last heavy work having been accomplished today, when Coach Keady spent most of his time in building up a defense calculated to meet the strong Penn State offensive.

The scrubs, which all week have been coached in Penn State's plays, in a scrimmage were allowed to demonstrate them against the 'Varsity. Honors were even. Frequently Coach Keady would call a halt and hold an impromptu session of field tactics, during which the men were quizzed on what they would do during certain critical periods if they should arise during a game.

Wesley Martin, than whom Lehigh has had few better punters, arrived today to help perfect Brunner's style. This lad is booting the ball consistently for averages of fifty yards and more, and, with additional individual coaching, it is believed he will be able to increase that distance. Brunner also devoted a great deal of time to drop kicking today, being singularly successful, in that he made fifty out of sixty attempts, the distances varying from thirty to forty-five yards. Quist and Maginnes are causing the coaches some worry, as they are not recovering from their injuries as fast as was hoped for, and they may not be able to start in Saturday's game.

YALE—PRINCETON.
Limited number of seats—public sale—Spalding stores—up and downtown—beginning Saturday, 9 a.m. —Advt.

VOLLMER TO PLAY TACKLE.

No relief for the weakened Columbia eleven was in sight at yesterday's long practice on South Field. Captain Jeff Healy was confined in bed with an injury to his left knee that is certain to keep him from games for the rest of the season, and the daily report from the physicians in charge of Howard Miller, quarter back, showed that Miller's condition is less favorable than was hoped. Instead of the possibility that he will play in at least the last game or two on the schedule, it is practically admitted that there is no hope that he will enter the N. Y. U. battle on Nov. 25.

Practice yesterday was centred on an endeavor to provide a dependable substitute for Captain Healy at left tackle in time for the Swarthmore game tomorrow. Head Coach Metcalf alternated practically the entire squad of line rushers at guard and tackle positions. There was no hard work, but until long after twilight the 'Varsity regulars charged against the second eleven in dummy scrimmaging.

After practice Metcalf announced he had selected Vollmer, the swimmer, to take Healy's berth. Vollmer himself was injured last week and was not expected to finish the season. Donaldson will continue as left guard and Brown will be returned to his place at centre. Cleveland will remain at right guard, and Goldberg or Raegener will start at right tackle tomorrow.

FORDHAM LOSES TWO MEN.

With several of its regulars absent, the Fordham University football team yesterday had its first workout since the Georgetown game on Tuesday. The X-ray examination of Lowe and O'Connell, which was made in the afternoon, confirmed the fears of the rooters, and it is believed that both of the Maroon stars are lost for the season.

O'Connell, who was hurt when Fordham held Georgetown on the 1-yard line, has three fractured ribs on his left side. Although in pain, he refused to remain in the infirmary, and surprised everybody by showing up at practice for a short while to get an idea of the new plays which are being prepared for Holy Cross.

Lowe's injury turned out to be a smashed collar bone. His loss will be a big setback to the Maroon, as he was the best lineman on the team. Hendrick, who was out with a case of blood poisoning for two weeks, was in his place yesterday.

Only one episode yesterday relieved the gloom that has settled over Fordham during the last few days, and that was the reappearance of Calnan in the line-up. Calnan was the regular quarter back in the Lafayette game, but was forced out with a fractured ankle. However, he appeared to be in good shape after his month's rest, and will probably get in against Holy Cross. The practice lasted only an hour.

N. Y. U. SCRUBS SHOW POWER

The scrubs gave the 'Varsity a hard rub yesterday at New York University. The playing of the regular line was poor, and time and again the scrubs broke through. Jordan and Goldberg, the guards, showed up so well that they threaten to displace the regulars. The 'Varsity back field consisted of Weinheimer at full back, Howard and Ted Cann at half back, and Mackenzie at quarter back.

Although Howard Cann's injured shoulder was strong enough to permit him to scrimmage yesterday, it is doubtful whether the coaches will put him in the Colby game. It is expected that he will be saved for the Columbia game, which is now only two weeks distant. Captain Bernstein did not put in an appearance yesterday, and it is probable that Coach Eustis will save him also for the Columbia contest. Brin, at centre, had a bad knee and he will not be in the line-up on Saturday. Tedd Cann will probably play against Colby.

STEVENS PILOT STILL SORE.

Musk Nor Hopkins Likely to be in Lineup Tomorrow.

The Stevens squad was put through its first workout since the game at Columbia on Tuesday. All the regulars were in uniform with the exception of Musk, the quarter back, and Hopkins, end. They are the lightest men on the Stevens squad and both were somewhat bruised in the Election Day game. Neither is expected to get in Saturday and in all probability Harter will run the team against the Aggies. Carlson will probably start at end. Rodgers moved the giant up from the third team today and the way he tore into the scrub plays was extremely pleasing to him. The scrubs sought to launch a general attack through his position, but after a few plays abandoned their plan.

AMATEUR BOXERS IN RING.

The amateur boxing season at the New York A. C. opened last night, when the preliminary trials in the club's opening tournament were decided. The bouts, staged in the spacious gymnasium, attracted a large gallery, and a larger entry of aspiring young amateur boxers, and the competition was interesting. The lighter classes attracted the greatest number of competitors, and the contests in these divisions were the liveliest. Several of the exhibitions ended abruptly before the prescribed distance had been traveled.

Leading competitors in the evening's entertainment were George Etcell, Union Settlement R. C., metropolitan champion at 115 pounds, and Bob Gleason, Dominican Lyceum, formerly metropolitan welterweight title holder. Both won their respective bouts in jig time, Etcell disposing of Tom Loughlin, Jersey City, in one round, while Gleason, competing in the middleweight division, registered a decisive victory over Abe Silverstein, Union Settlement A. C., in two rounds. The tournament will be concluded tomorrow night. The summaries:

MISKE KNOCKS OUT O'NEIL.

St. Paul Boxer Floors Chicagoan in the Sixth Round.

Billy Miske, the St. Paul light heavyweight who gave the local boxing enthusiasts a rude shock recently by earning the honors over Battling Levinsky in a ten-round bout, scored another surprising victory last night at the Clermont A. C. in Brooklyn when he knocked out Tim O'Neil of Chicago in the sixth round of their scheduled ten-round bout. O'Neil recently stood off Jack Dillon for ten rounds. He was outclassed from the first bell until his seconds threw in the sponge in the sixth session last night.

Jockey Club Handicap at Pimlico Track Is Captured by J. S. Tyree's Colt.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9.—With the Jockey Club Handicap as the attraction of the day, there was a large mid-week crowd at the Pimlico course this afternoon. The track conditions and admirable weather were favorable to first-class racing and the majority of the events furnished interesting contests.

The Jockey Club Handicap is for three-year-olds and upward, at seven furlongs. In a rousing good finish the honors went to J. S. Tyree's Celto, which nosed out L. Wood's Xylon, with Anita, from the Bedwell Stable, receiving the short end of the prize.

HERRMANN IS RESENTFUL.

Says Request of Fultz Anent Injury Clause Is Unwarranted.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 9.—August Herrmann, Chairman of the National Baseball Commission, today issued a statement replying to a request by David Fultz, President of the Baseball Players' Fraternity, that some players' contracts be changed to prevent players injured in the services of a club from being suspended without compensation during their illness. Mr. Herrmann's statement says, in part:

"This request on the part of Mr. Fultz, in my judgment, is wholly unwarranted and uncalled for and creates a false impression in the mind of the baseball public, to wit: That they may be given to understand that the practice now is that players injured in the service of a club, after a certain period, may be suspended without compensation. This is not a fact, and the commission has at all times ruled that a player must be compensated when injured in the service of a club, regardless of the length of the period of his injury, or else be given his release after a certain period."

MAHER, GREAT JOCKEY, DIES

American Rider Made Wonderful Record on British Turf.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Danny Maher, the American jockey, died at a nursing home in London early today after a lingering illness, which caused his retirement from the turf three years ago.

Danny Maher's record as a rider of thoroughbreds has never been surpassed. In England he was the star performer for the nine years prior to his retirement. In this time he rode three Derby winners, his mounts being Rock Sand, Cicero, and Spearmint. He also captured The Oaks in 1906 with Keystone II., the Doncaster St. Leger in 1903 with Rock Sand, and the same classic in 1909 with Bagardo.

Maher would never have attained the success that he did had he not gone to Europe. His unwillingness to take chances gained for him the reputation of being a timid rider, but he possessed an intuitive knowledge of pace that was well-nigh infallible.

The late Pierre Lorillard recognized Maher's remarkable gifts, and, purchasing his contract in the Autumn of 1900, sent him to Great Britain to ride for the English division of his own stable. From that moment Maher's success was assured, and he became the most popular jockey the British turf had known since Fred Archer's time.

Maher retired from the turf in 1914 with a fortune of nearly three-quarters of a million dollars, and until his death lived the life of a country gentleman on an estate which he had bought near Newmarket. Maher had only been in England two or three years when he won the regard of Lord Rosebery and Lord Derby, two of the most powerful of British sportsmen, and they have never tired in showing him marks of their favor.

REVIEWS GIRLS' SWIMMING.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The many recent comments in the New York press touching on the present and proposed status of women swimmers, and the frequent mention of the National Women's Life Saving League in connection therewith, seems to call for a statement of our position.

In your own article of about a week ago you credit the writer with the statement that two years ago the league would have been willing to undertake the handling of women's swimming matters in the United States, but no longer cared to do so. As a matter of fact, the league stands ready today, as it always has, to do anything and everything in its power to further swimming among women. However, the A. A. U.'s connection during the last two years has considerably changed the face of the situation. In the first place, we are known throughout the country (due largely to the excellent work of Miss Galligan) as a competing and not a governing body. It hardly seems probable that our recent competitors will be particularly anxious to come under our wing, so to speak, at this time.

Whether or not the A. A. U. relinquishes control, there is absolutely no doubt that eventually a women's organization will be formed to supervise the sport, but if we are left to our own resources now, totally unprepared to meet the situation, much harm could and probably would come to it. Surely, the A. A. U. is sufficiently interested not to desire that. On the other hand, if they retain control, and the officials in the various districts will secure the co-operation of competent women, interested in the game, practically relieving them of all work and responsibility in connection therewith, we will, in a comparatively short time, have a nucleus which would lead to just such an organization as that advocated by the A. A. U., without a dangerous, unprotected period intervening.

Chairman Athletic Branch National Women's Life Saving League.

YOAKUM IN RING TONIGHT.

Stanley Yoakum of Denver, who comes to this city with a reputation as a leading contender for the lightweight championship, will make his début before metropolitan boxing enthusiasts in a ten-round bout at the Harlem Sporting Club, 135th Street and Madison Avenue, tonight. Yoakum, a rugged type of boxer, will try conclusions with Benny Leonard, New York's leading lightweight. It will be Leonard's first local appearance since his knockout victory over Ever Hammer out West. Another ten-round bout will bring together Jimmy O'Hagen, the Albany middleweight, and Kid Alberts of Elizabeth, N. J.

Several improvements have been made in the construction of the Harlem Club, among them being the erection of an entire new set of iron boxes in place of the old wooden box seats. Also three entrances will be utilized tonight instead of one as heretofore. Other bouts arranged for tonight are:

The match last night marked the fourth night's play. Howison has won each night and tonight's match will be the concluding contest. The high runs were, Howison, 57 and 107. Average, 13 14-22. Gallagher, 25 and 41. Average, 10 4-21.

MAINE'S HARRIERS ARE NOT ENTERED

Champions Not Among Thirteen Teams Named for Intercollegiate Run.

The University of Maine has not entered a team to defend its title in the coming intercollegiate cross-country championship run over the Yale course on Saturday, Nov. 25, according to an announcement of the entry list by George B. Brown yesterday. According to Brown, the Maine officials have not, so far as he knows, entered a team, and the closing time was last Saturday. In 1914 Maine sent its entry list for the outdoor college championships two days after the closing date, and it had to be refused.

A total of thirteen teams will toe the starting line, making the greatest entry ever received for the run. Cornell, Yale, Massachusetts Tech and Dartmouth are the only institutions that have taken advantage of the rule which permits the naming of twenty starters.

With the Maine harriers out, it appears as if Cornell University will retrieve its lost honors, with Yale University as the only dangerous opponent. The Ithaca men count on Linus V. Windnagle and L. Ezra Wens to give Johnny Overton of Yale, the individual title holder, a bitter fight to hold his championship.

The entry list follows:

Columbia—M. W. Look, A. L. Mulsenbach, H. G. Larson, J. P. Knox, R. L. Hunt, A. Turner, R. F. Shepard, C. N. Sarlin, P. T. Ward, M. G. Loesch, F. M. Hopkins, R. M. Moss.

ROTH WINS COOPER CUP.

Beats Hall 5 and 4 in Final Tourney of Newspaper Golf Club.

Members of the Newspaper Golf Club closed their season over the Van Cortlandt Park links yesterday afternoon when the annual gymkhana was held. A two-ball foursome competition over twelve holes resulted in a tie between Colonel C. N. Amory and F. T. Pope, and D. Hall and his teammate, C. Murray. Both finished with net scores of 43. A net score of 47 gave Mrs. M. S. Da Costa and Mrs. Caroline Schwab the honors in the ladies' foursome. James Worthington's drive of 280 yards gave him the honors in the driving competition, and in the ladies' branch of this play Mrs. M. E. Fireman was returned the winner with a drive of 210 yards.

The tombstone competition for men resulted in a victory for J. W. Leeper, with a 28. In the ladies' play, Mrs. Jack Munro's 34 showed best. A. C. Murray and Fred Flaugh tied for the best low selected score of the season prize, each with a 63, but on the toss to break the tie Murray won the honors. The prize for the lowest average score for out-of-town tournaments during the season went to Albert Hedley, who had an 83. In the final match for the Cooper Cup, donated by George L. Cooper, A. P. Roth disposed of David Hall, 5 up and 4 to play.

The Coward Shoe
Quality Maintained
At this crisis in the shoe industry, when the cost of leather is steadily advancing, it requires character and stability on the part of the manufacturer to meet the situation without cheapening the quality and value of his product, or resorting to substitutes.
It has taken fifty years of hard, conscientious work to bring the Coward shoe up to its present high standard of quality and workmanship, and we do not intend to destroy the reputation gained in a lifetime by tampering with the well-known quality of our shoes.
We will not suffer the high standards which have made these shoes famous to be cheapened or lowered. Neither will we use imitations or substitutes for leather in our shoes.
Coward shoes in the future, as in the past, will be the best it is possible to produce, irrespective of cost to us.

"The Yellow Jacket" was augustly revived yesterday afternoon—the first of a series of ten perfumed matinées which will be distributed through November's calendar on all the week-day afternoons when "Upstairs and Down" is not preempting the stage of the Cort Theatre. Although this was the revival of a comparatively recent play which did not thrive on its first and only other visit to this city, it was an event of exceptional importance and significance. This quaint and memorably beautiful Chinese play withdrew somewhat disconsolately from the Fulton Theatre a little less than four years ago after a gallant but profitless engagement; in the interim, it has visited all the great cities of this country and Europe and it returns to us with an international prestige. Its return is an instance of that rare occurrence—a second attempt to make New York accept a play. Mr. and Mrs. Coburn had so abiding a faith in the charm of "The Yellow Jacket" that they decided to give it another try. Or rather to give New York another try. For it was New York that failed when, early in 1913, Hazelton and Benrimo's fantastic play had to be withdrawn.

"'The Yellow Jacket' is a wonderful play," Charles Frohman said, "and it will be seen all over the world." And he was right. For a while it toured with the original company, and then it was absorbed into the répertoire of the Coburns, and here and there in this country it has been played ever since. It ran at Mr. Frohman's theatre in London for 150 nights. Munich, Vienna, Budapest—these and all the provincial cities of the Central Empires received it after Reinhardt produced it at his little theatre in Berlin. Then came Moscow and Petrograd. Only last Spring it was presented in Madrid and received there with a sort of critical ecstasy.

So, having traveled further probably than any other play of American authorship, "The Yellow Jacket" returns to New York. It has always been felt that it was withdrawn just before its tide would have turned. Not many people went to see it at the Fulton, but those who did, went a dozen times each. Volunteer press agents took up the good cause. They felt that, coming into New York on the eve of an exciting election and rudely jostled by half a dozen more conspicuous new plays, it had never had a fair start. Columbia professors talked their heads off, and George M. Cohan observed chastely that it was "a whale of a play." Even with this last indorsement the wave of interest came too late, and "The Yellow Jacket" was withdrawn just when every one had about decided to go to see it. A number of tardy folk felt outraged at its abrupt departure, and probably some of them are represented among those who have virtually bought out the Cort for the first six of the ten matinées. Indeed, the interest is so vigorous that there is small doubt the play could run on and on if by December the entirely artificial shortage of theatres is sufficiently relieved to provide one for "The Yellow Jacket."

"The Yellow Jacket" is a story of mother-love, rake's progress, young romance, and retribution that is of universal appeal. It is a reworking of ancient Chinese materials and is presented in the ancient Chinese way—or in the ancient Chinese way liberally accented for the enlightenment and the diversion of the Occidental playgoer. Much has already been said and written about the curious complexity of its appeal to us. We are at once amused by its outlandish conventions and yet touched and delighted by its moments of beauty despite the alien idiom in which it is expressed. We love it for its quaintnesses and respond to its drama in spite of them. In particular we rejoice in "The Yellow Jacket" as a purely aesthetic adventure, an artistic tour de force of re-creation in an ancient other-world beauty. It is this that makes smiling in our hearts.

The present performance is augustly admirable. Original enthusiasts for "The Yellow Jacket" will learn with pleasure that two all-important members of that original cast remain—Arthur Shaw as the bored and intensely invisible property man, and Schuyler Ladd as the exquisite Daffodil. Mr. Coburn is honorably successful in Perugini's rôle of Chorus, and Mrs. Coburn acceptable as Chee Moo. Albert Bruning doubles successfully as the wicked father-in-law and the still wickeder Purveyor of Hearts—two rôles played originally by Reginald Barlow, who is now down at the Thirty-ninth Street in the title rôle of the charming "Old Lady 31." Howard Kyle is excellent as Wu Sin Yin, and Beatrice Prentice is particularly pleasing as Tso and as the celestially meretricious Autumn Cloud. Only George Gaul as Wu Hoo Git is disappointing. He is youthful and romantic enough, but he is also a trifle too bumptious, and he permits himself to appear augustly—not to say obviously—amused by the proceedings. That will never do.

The original décor remains. It all goes to make this Chinese play a thing of beauty. The authors, who doubtless wept enough tears to fill a crystal vase when their piece was shouldered out of New York, must have been honorably exalted by the warm welcome that met it yesterday afternoon. "The Yellow Jacket" has come back to town. May it be here this time for many moons!

MANAGERS TO FIGHT SUNDAY CLOSING LAW

A meeting of managers of the legitimate theatres of New York will be held next Tuesday at the Hotel Astor to consider the problem presented by New Year's Eve falling on Sunday night this year. New Year's Eve from time immemorial has been the biggest night in the year for the playhouses; on that festive occasion a special scale of increased prices is adopted and every seat is sold.

The Sunday closing law, which forbids the performance of plays on the Sabbath and restricts the kinds of acts that can be given at so-called "sacred concerts" in vaudeville theatres, music halls, and motion picture theatres, makes a general opening of theatres impossible that night without a special dispensation from the Police and License Departments.

For more than a month managers of the legitimate theatres which must remain idle every Sunday night, have been canvassing the proposition of ways and means of reaping the annual harvest of revellers' gold this year. At first the clever suggestion of having the public celebrate two New Year's Eve on Saturday and Monday nights, just as the Fourth of July comes in for a double observance once every seven years, was made, and then the realization came that there could be only one midnight separating 1916 and 1917.

The managers have been making suggestions about giving a special performance on the gala night in the hope that some one would step forward and wink official approval, but to date there has been not a wink. On the other hand, a feeling has got abroad that in the event of any attempt to abrogate the law the penalty, usually a cancellation of the offending theatre's license, will be enforced. The principal champion of a strict enforcement of the closing law is the Sabbath League, whose last interference with a proposed entertainment was in the case of Maud Allan, the dancer, who had announced a recital for a recent Sunday night at the Forty-fourth Street Theatre. The league put its foot down and would not allow Miss Allan to put her's down, and there was no recital.

One of the prime movers in the movement to open all theatres the night of Dec. 31 is William A. Brady. Mr. Brady has always been opposed to the Sunday closing law, particularly as it is now enforced. It is common knowledge that a Sunday night rarely passes that the law is not violated in one or more of the theatres which give "sacred concerts" regularly. Sometimes dancing acts are given, which is forbidden by the statute; often the players appear in costume and the curtain is raised and lowered and the settings changed, also against the law.

At their meeting Tuesday the managers will discuss the possibility of having a special ruling made, giving them the right to present dramatic and musical plays in costume on the holiday eve. As an alternative they will consider the proposition of giving "sacred concerts" in every theatre, demanding that the music halls, vaudeville and motion picture theatres, which openly violate the letter of the law, be made to keep within it or that they be given the same privilege.

Mr. Brady has already announced his intention of giving entertainments of some kind in his playhouses in case the regular attractions in them at the time cannot be presented. There is some feeling among a certain group of managers of making the present situation the occasion of breaking open the Sunday night proposition and having it settled in a way they say will be fairer to the dramatic managers.

The present arrangement, these managers aver, is distinctly discriminatory in that it diverts the whole volume of business on Sunday nights into a few theatres. These theatres, they assert, are enabled to earn large sums, in some instances sufficient to pay their annual rent, as a result of a discrimination which allows them to violate the law at certain periods while holding the other theatres to a strict accountability.

A TSCHAIKOWSKY PROGRAM.

The Philharmonic Society, with the assistance of Mr. Mischa Elman, aroused a widespread popular interest in the Tschaikowsky program given at its second concert last evening in Carnegie Hall. The hall was completely filled, and the sign "All seats sold" was conspicuously displayed. The program was made up of three pieces: the overture of "The Voyevode" and the fifth symphony for the orchestra, and the violin concerto, played by Mr. Elman. The overture rarely appears upon even "all Tschaikowsky" programs, and had something of the interest of novelty. The fifth symphony has been one of the Russian master's works most often played by the Philharmonic Society in recent years, and the performance of it was on familiar lines.

Mr. Elman has often played the concerto, also; but not in the mannered and erratic way in which he played it last evening. He did some strange things with its rhythms, sometimes to such a degree that Mr. Stransky, whose strong point is not at best the accompaniment of solo players, found it hard to keep the orchestra with him. Mr. Elman often did strange things, too, with the cantabile passages in producing exaggerated and lachrymose effects. Of course, there was the enormous brilliancy and technical certainty in his playing that the audience enjoyed and heartily applauded.

MR. HERSCHMANN'S RECITAL

A Program with Interesting Novelties for Baritone.

Arthur Herschmann, baritone, who has deserved and won commendation in recitals he has given in New York, offered a program last evening with several new and unfamiliar songs on it at Aeolian Hall. An air from Handel's "Belshazzar" and a cantata in the old meaning of the word—a composition for solo voice in several sections—by the same master, "Dalla Guerra Amorosa," were among the most important; there was a group of German songs by Hans Moser, Arthur Heyland, and Von Wolkowsky-Biedau, whose names are not household words, said to be given for the first time in America. There were songs in English, including the air "Spe Modo Vivitur" from Horatio Parker's "Hora Novissima," and in Italian.

Mr. Herschmann's voice was not in so good condition as when he was last heard here. It was not always under perfect control in its placing; and there was trouble with his upper tones, which were often deficient in beauty of quality. Mr. Herschmann's artistic intentions were in evidence, as well as his sympathy with a variety of styles, and his desire to introduce an element of novelty into his program. The cantata by Handel was sung in an arrangement made by Dr. Otto Kinkeldey for pianoforte and organ, as were the air from "Belshazzar" and Professor Parker's air.

The announcement is made that within a short time the company will be in control of one of the largest distributing organizations in the country. Its first releases will be seven pictures made by the McClure Company, featuring Nance O'Neill, H. B. Warner, Ann Murdock, Holbrook Blinn, Charlotte Walker, and other stars. The company will not confine its activities to any group of producers, but will distribute the films of various studios.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Adele Rowland has been added to the cast of "Her Soldier Boy," the musical play in which Clifton Crawford and Margaret Romaine will be seen here shortly.

The cast of "Such Is Life," the comedy by Harold Owen, in which Sam Sothern will be starred, will include Ferdinand Gottschalk, Cathleen Nesbitt, Ann Cleaver, Kate Serjeantson, Nancy Power, Edward Douglas, and Bradley Ward.

Emma Dunn will have as her guest at tomorrow afternoon's performance of "Old Lady 31" the woman who was the inspiration of the character of Angie Rose in Louise Forsslund's story of that title, from which the play was made.

At Ziegfeld's "Midnight Frolic" atop the New Amsterdam at 12:30 o'clock this morning Eddie Cantor interrupted his monologue to say that THE TIMES had announced the re-election of President Wilson. The orchestra immediately struck up "The Star-Spangled Banner" and the audience arose and cheered.

Dixie Girard and Joseph Parsons introduced a new song called "Honeymoon in a Motor Boat" in the Brighton Beach scene at the Hippodrome yesterday.

IF YOU LIVED as THE CAVE MAN LIVED

—lived the active open-air life of the savage, and ate the savage's food, you would have the savage's freedom from health worries.

Civilization, particularly for city people, means office work, not enough exercise, too concentrated food—and consequently more or less frequent trouble with constipation.

Nujol relieves constipation effectively and without disturbing the intestinal nerve centers. Laxative and aperient remedies tend to destroy the delicate nerve-muscle co-ordination of the lower bowel—hence are dangerously habit-forming.

Nujol is not a laxative. It acts in effect as an internal lubricant, preventing the contents of the intestines from becoming hard and in this way encouraging and facilitating normal movements.

All druggists carry Nujol which is manufactured only by the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey). Avoid substitutes. Write today for booklet "The Rational Treatment of Constipation."

THE TRIUMPH OF THE PEOPLE.

An electoral victory that counts its determining pluralities by hundreds gives no occasion for empty exulting and delivers to the victor no compelling mandate. When the decision taken by 16,000,000 American voters in the choice of their Chief Executive remains in doubt forty-eight hours after the balloting has ceased and the delicate balance during those hours of uncertainty is swayed this way and that by returns from small and remote precincts, the joy of the victorious party and its candidate must be sobered by the consideration that the result might have been changed by the working of the slightest forces or even by a belated campaign argument.

For President WILSON, however, since he appealed to the country upon his record of public achievement, the victory is veritably a vote of confidence, it is an express approval of his acts, his policies, his Administration. No issue was settled, because no issue was raised by Mr. HUGHES. From his own utterances the country reached the conclusion, it could reach no other, that in Mr. WILSON's place he would have adopted Mr. WILSON's policies, that if elected he would continue Mr. WILSON's policies. The voters had before them two candidates very much alike, both worthy of trust, both able, both distinguished. That goes far to explain the closeness of the vote and of the decision. The electorate chose Mr. WILSON because it knew him better, understood him better, because it was averse to a change.

It is only when we put out of view the slender majorities in the States so long in doubt, only when we cease to think of Mr. WILSON's triumph in terms of votes in the Electoral College and contemplate his plurality in the popular vote, that we reach a true measure of the pronounced indorsement he has received from the people. In 1912 Mr. TAFT and Mr. ROOSEVELT together had a plurality of 1,311,444 over Mr. WILSON. In this election Mr. WILSON has gained much more than a million votes from the forces that opposed him four years ago. In the face of that prodigious showing of gain in the confidence of the people, how petty and futile all the campaign attacks upon him now seem, how void of merit the criticism of his policies at home and abroad!

It was altogether and purely an American choice, made for American reasons, upon considerations that concern our own affairs only. There was much of the old-time party division, even. Republican New England, Republican New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Illinois spoke with a clear and strong voice for a Republican President. The South declared, as it always does, for a Democratic President. It was in the West and beyond the Rocky Mountains that reversals of established party form were registered. In those States, where the Republican forces were much shaken and disordered by the Roosevelt foray, by a doubtless growing inclination toward principles and practices more progressive than those of the Republican Party, and by a belief that popular Government should be in fact a Government for all the people and for all the States, not for the special protection of any interest or to give effect to the views prevailing in great States or any group of great States, there was an astonishing change, a transformation. The States of the West, in a new political alliance with the States of the South, decided the election. That is a geographical and political fact of which party managers will necessarily take notice.

The spirit of THOMAS JEFFERSON, could we imagine a spirit submitting to a newspaper interview, would express a deep and solemn joy at the outcome of this election. JEFFERSON believed that the party he founded and of which he has been for more than a century the tutelary saint, should be and should continue to be the party of the people. He believed in the soundness of the people's judgments, he trusted them, he was a popular chieftain, oftentimes supplementing his declarations of confidence in the people by extreme expressions of distrust in that other class of which the Federalist Party was so largely made up. The people triumphed on Tuesday and it was a Jeffersonian triumph. They turned away from the party hitherto in the majority, that is a lineal descendant of the Federalists, they gave their votes to a candidate who may be called the political heir of JEFFERSON. The South and the West united for a reaffirmation of JEFFERSON's political philosophy. It is fortunate for the country, it is of good augury for the Democratic Party, that this triumph was won, not with a leader like Mr. BRYAN, who was not only popular but Populist, that the popular plurality was given to no reckless radical, "ambitious, unsteady, unsafe," that the exponent today of the philosophy of JEFFERSON is WOODROW WILSON, wise, moderate, experienced, capable.

"HALF THE UNION DRY."

Two worthy Drys, former Governor HANLY of Indiana and Dr. LAMBRITH of Tennessee, have run or walked on that quadrennial Quixotism, the national Prohibition ticket. The wonder grows why the agitation for prohibition by a Federal amendment is kept up when State prohibition has made such remarkable conquests. According to the Anti-Saloon League, five more States, Michigan, Montana, Nebraska, South Dakota, Utah, voted in favor of prohibition amendments Tuesday. Eighteen States already dry were Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Georgia, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Mississippi, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, Washington, Virginia, West Virginia. Thus twenty-three States, almost "one-half of the Union," as the Anti-Saloon League boasts, are dry.

It is to be noted, however, that the tendency of some of the new prohibition enactments has been away from absolute prohibition. A certain moderate monthly allowance of liquor, beer, and wine is permitted. People who want to drink can do so in their homes; the public saloon, with its invitations and temptations to excess, is put out of the way. This compromise, this concession to private habit kept private, may not be satisfactory to extreme prohibitionists, but it may serve to lessen an acknowledged evil. Enforcement must depend, of course, on public sentiment, and juries are sometimes blind to the facts. But limited prohibition, in Alabama, for instance, is surely preferable to the rigid "Maine law" system, which, in Maine cities, is notoriously dishonored all or most of the time. On the other hand, in Kansas thirst is swallowed up, so to speak, in the general virtue of a community which is morally almost homogeneous. "Blind tigers," "speak-easies," "bootleggers," spring up, but enforcement is not difficult where prohibition is accepted as a sort of corollary of the moral law. The substitution of strong and vile drink for beers and wines, on account of the greater bulk of the latter, has often been cited as a typical result of prohibition. Presumably the "near" prohibition, the rum-quota, States avoid that.

It will be interesting to see how prohibition will work in a city of the size of Detroit. Meanwhile, in States where public restriction of private habit is not relished, prohibition, inhibition of immoderate drinking, is actively and generally practiced. Public opinion, the practice of society, the interest of self-preservation, social usage, and the zeal for business and professional success are immitigable reasons for sobriety; and voluntary prohibition by the will is growing more and more common. Elective prohibition rests on a sounder basis than prohibition by exterior will, by the law of a majority. Indeed, the old Adam is so strong in some abstainers that compulsory prohibition would probably send them scurrying for "the old familiar juice." Forbidden fruit is sweetest.

THE WOMEN WHO VOTED.

The effect of the votes of the women in the States where the privilege of voting has been accorded to them will be closely studied. The early returns, except those from Illinois, throw very little light on the drift of the feminine vote, but in Illinois the women, with few exceptions, must have voted as the men in their families voted. This was apparent the day after election. Late returns, however, illustrate the point more clearly. To be sure, while the women cast about 40 per cent. of the total vote in Chicago, they cast something less than 25 per cent. of the vote for the Socialist candidate and they cast nearly 50 per cent. of the vote for the Prohibitionist ticket. That proportion, in each case, is clearly understandable. For Mr. HUGHES and for President WILSON, however, the women's vote was just about 40 per cent. of the men's. There is in the Chicago returns no sort of proof of the assertion that the women supported Mr. HUGHES because he favored a suffrage amendment to the Constitution. There is, on the other hand, no proof that the women were inclined to vote for President WILSON because they believed that a Republican victory might precipitate war with Mexico. The women, it seems, voted as Democrats and Republicans according to the traditions of their domestic environment or the influences to which they were directly subjected.

In other words, they voted just like the men, increasing the number of ballots cast and the election expenses without benefiting their sex or the State in any way. To be sure, the whole subject is worthy of the closer study which can only be made in the woman suffrage States with the official returns to judge from. In Kansas it is declared that women voted for WILSON for the sake of national peace, but many men in Kansas voted for WILSON who had never before voted the Democratic ticket. The overturn in Kansas was not due to the women voters. It remains to be proved that their votes appreciably affected the general result.

The only States which voted on Tuesday on the question of suffrage extension were West Virginia and South Dakota. The majority against giving the women the right to vote in the former promises to be uncommonly large when the returns are all in. The 60,000 or so votes out of 90,000 against the proposed amendment to the State Constitution shown by the early returns cannot be overcome. In South Dakota returns from three-fourths of the State give the victory to the anti-suffragists. New York must vote again on this question next year. There is no doubt about the result.

THE OPEN-SHOP VOTE.

The further labor leaders go in appealing from the law to the people for the approval of their schemes for benevolence at the cost of others the worse they fare. The closed shop has been denounced as inhumane by law, but never until this election has it been submitted to an electorate. In San Francisco a ballot was taken upon an amendment to the charter forbidding picketing. San Francisco has suffered from labor troubles above most other cities, and the Law and Order Committee of the Chamber of Commerce raised a fund of $1,000,000 in support of an open-shop campaign. Almost complete returns show 66,743 for and 63,407 against the proposal to protect workingmen in the right to work without the license of those of their own class who assume to deny them that right.

As the dispatches read, the issue bears somewhat too much the complexion of a contest between men and money. Rich as the trade unions are, they have no such funds to spare as the Chamber of Commerce is said to have commanded. On the other hand, the unions have means of enforcing their will which money cannot buy, and should not be allowed to buy. A fair ballot on a labor question could not be held anywhere, least of all in San Francisco, unless the ballot were protected by other means than the law alone. Even after this first ballot in favor of the open shop it may be doubted that the decision will settle the point. There is likely to be need of expensive support of the mandate after its adoption, for trade unionism never surrenders any more than the Old Guard.

There have been countless decisions supporting injunctions and forbidding the boycott. Yet within a few days Mr. GOMPERS handed down a decision overruling the Supreme Court regarding injunctions, and asserting that Congress had repealed the law against boycotting. No doubt he knew of the conviction of the Boston agriculturists who had cited the Clayton law in their defense, asserting the likeness of their acts to the acts of unions, but that made no difference. San Francisco may have beaten the closed shop at the polls, but it will take more than that to enable non-union men to work if the unions dislike it. Considering the nature of the claim of the unions to shut shops against those wishing to work, the San Francisco election is none too favorable. A majority of 3,000 in a vote of 130,000 on an issue involving fundamental rights of citizens is rather cautionary than decisive.

THE VOTE FOR CURRAN.

Generally speaking, a candidate who is defeated is supposed to lose prestige. A little comparison of the vote by Assembly Districts for President of the Board of Aldermen will show that Mr. HENRY H. CURRAN has every reason to felicitate himself on having gained the support of many independent voters. The contest he was forced to make as a Republican candidate in a Democratic city in a year when national and State issues absorbed nearly all of the attention of the voters was not one in which a fair test could be made of the disposition to support a nonpartisan municipal government. But the recognition of Mr. CURRAN's fitness in some of the districts was significant.

In the Sixth Assembly District of Manhattan, for instance, where Mr. HUGHES's majority was 504 and Governor WHITMAN's 159, CURRAN ran 741 ahead of his opponent. In the Fifteenth Manhattan District, where HUGHES had a majority of 1,424 and WHITMAN one of 1,416, CURRAN's majority was 2,451. In the Seventeenth District CURRAN had 881 majority, against 251 for HUGHES and 233 for WHITMAN, and in the Twenty-seventh, where HUGHES had 1,352 and WHITMAN 1,400, CURRAN's majority was 1,775.

While the total vote for President in the Greater City was more than 666,000, the vote for President of the Board of Aldermen was only about 581,000. Mr. CURRAN had a majority of 5,615 in the Eighteenth Brooklyn District, which was carried by WHITMAN by 3,247, while in the Fifth Brooklyn District, which Mr. HUGHES carried by 1,438, CURRAN's majority was 2,000. These are illuminating figures. They show that in spite of the fact that the minds of the great body of voters were fixed so closely on the main issues, there were independent voters in many districts who had the municipal situation in mind. There is no encouragement for Tammany in the Curran-Dowling vote; there is ample encouragement in it for Mr. CURRAN. Recognition can scarcely be withheld from a man who made such a splendid showing as a candidate under the most disadvantageous conditions.

AN INQUIRY ABOUT PRICES.

An "immediate and thorough investigation of the high cost of living" is to be made in all parts of the country by order of the Department of Justice, whose local representatives and agents have already begun the work. Notice is given that wherever an increase of price "is found to have been due "to conspiracy or other unlawful "action," those responsible for it will be punished to the full extent of the law.

Such an inquiry should be made, although in all probability it will show that very few, if any, of the price advances have been caused by illegal conspiracy. In response to many complaints, the Department some time ago made an investigation concerning wheat, but found no unlawful combination. It is true, however, that a great many persons believe that conspirators or "trusts" are responsible for the upward movement. An official report showing the real causes will have a good effect upon public opinion.

It will show, for example, how crop shortage and the abnormal foreign war demand have raised the prices of wheat and flour. Owing to a small yield, the price of cotton is now 19½ cents a pound, and this advance has sharply affected the cost and selling prices of cotton goods. This year's crop of potatoes was only 288,000,000 bushels, against last year's 359,000,000 and a recent average of 360,000,000. Explaining price changes, the Massachusetts Board of Agriculture points to this reduction and to recent large purchases by foreign Governments in Maine and elsewhere. Foreign demand has increased the prices of all manufactured goods composed of or containing metals, with copper at 30 cents a pound and many steel products showing an advance of about 100 per cent. Exports and a declining home supply have increased the price of meat. The effect of a foreign demand for leather and shoes is seen in our market. It may be that unlawful acts will be disclosed in the coal trade, but indications at present are that the additions to prices have been due mainly to lack of labor at the mines, forced reduction of output in recent months, and insufficient shipping facilities. It is noticeable that charges of conspiracy are also made in Canada, where a special committee is considering complaints that price advances really due to the war have been caused by "combines."

In pursuing and completing the investigation ordered by the Attorney General there should be no delay that can be avoided. An official statement is needed to satisfy complainants and to dispose of beliefs or suspicions that may be unwarranted.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Delay of Returns Unnecessary. It is far easier to find explanations than to find excuses for the slowness with which too many States have collected and announced their vote this year. In all of these dilatory States there are, of course, many small communities more or less remote from any railway, and not a few where there is no telegraph office, and in each of these sequestered hamlets there is presumably a feeling that the few votes cast by their citizens will not make enough difference in the totals to create any very strong obligation to hurry off the returns in troublesome or expensive ways. The not unnatural inclination, therefore, on the part of the responsible officials is to take their time about the performance of their duties. In other words, they do not drive to town just to carry their part of the vote, but wait till they have some other errand to take them there.

The harm thus done in any one instance is microscopic, but it is the aggregate of such delays that creates such a period of uncertainty as has existed for the past two days—an uncertainty that is not only an annoyance to the whole country but involves some really serious dangers. It is in such periods that bitterness of feeling is aroused, and fierce accusations are exchanged—not without reason, either, for the delays do provide opportunities for fraudulent manipulation of the missing votes, and, whether those opportunities are utilized or not, there is the appearance of evil.

Now, as a matter of fact, the prompt making of returns is well within the realm of possibility for so nearly every city, town, and village in the country that the exceptions are not worth counting. There is always a telephone not very far away in these days, and over it the vote can be sent in with quite enough of authenticity to serve all immediate purposes, for a telephone message can be identified as to origin to a high degree of probability, and though the official documents may not come till later, they will still be in time for that final and formal count to which, in most cases, nobody except those who make it pays any attention.

The way to insure promptness in making election returns is to penalize delay when it extends beyond a reasonable point, and the limit, especially in States like California, Minnesota, and New Hampshire, need not extend beyond a single day at most.

Nobody Mentioned Cowards. A National Guardsman who, in a letter printed on this page yesterday, undertook to refute criticism of the 800 and odd guard officers who have resigned since their regiments were sent to the Mexican border, wrote not a little that was true in their defense, but he ignored the one real count in the indictment that has been found against them. More than that, with some heat he denied, on their behalf, the charge of cowardice—a charge which nobody has made or thought of making, a fault of which they have never been suspected.

They went to what they thought to be "the front" with as little thought, everybody knows, of the immediate and prospective dangers as could be expected of any soldiers in the world, and everybody knows, too, that they have resigned, not because they are afraid of getting shot, but because they are weary of making heavy sacrifices of personal interests in a form of service which they are unable to see as a national emergency of a kind sufficiently grave to warrant the demand for such sacrifices from them.

All this is obvious enough, but what our correspondent forgot is that these officers not only assumed, quite voluntarily, the task of performing any military task the Government might need or demand, but they—or some of them, with the rest consenting—prevented the creation of just such a force as their defender says, correctly enough, should now be guarding the border from bandit forays. That they do not like the work they undertook to perform is not a good reason for abandoning it, and this is a late day for discovering that there are other things for an army to do than to risk or lose lives in battle.

Their dissatisfaction with the conditions in which they find themselves is perfectly comprehensible; but the work they were doing somebody must do, and it was they who took good care that there should be nobody else to do it. That is the whole case against them, and it is not at all lightened by irrelevant references to folk who stay at home and write about the resignations.

Illinois Law Peculiar. As reason for releasing certain wretches arrested out in Illinois for selling their votes to other wretches as yet unnamed, it is announced that there is no law under which they could be held! This is in effect a declaration that while it is a crime in Illinois to buy votes, it is not a crime there to sell them—a distinction hard to base on any of the accepted definitions of bribery.

Certainly it was not recognized some years ago in Ohio, when something like a majority of the voters in one county of that State confessed—under strong pressure of indubitable evidence against them—that they had been taking money for their votes. Every one of them submissively accepted the penalty imposed by a stern Judge—the penalty presumably provided by Ohio law—and it is hard to believe that Illinois is without a like protection against corrupt practices.

It is a fact, of course, that the bribe-taker is not quite as bad as the bribe-giver, but he is a decidedly miserable specimen of humanity, and he ought to be taught better behavior in what is probably the only way he would understand.

The Service of the Guard.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial article "With Their Eyes Open" seems to me to fail wholly to grasp the situation as it presents itself to those affected by the drafting of the National Guard into the Federal service, for you have left out of account what Charles Peguy called "la mystique de l'action."

The training of the guardsmen in the piping times of peace means something more than the mere acquiring of the manual of arms, for the background of all of the training is the obligation to place it at the service of the State if this is required; the sense of this obligation becomes a habit of thought, the knowledge that the summons to service will be an extreme measure makes of it when it comes a mandate of such compelling force as to amount to conscription. No one can resign in the face of immediate need.

On the other hand, Lincoln's first call for volunteers—that is, for civilians from which to form an army to meet an impending danger—was for three months. The National Guard is a body of civilians who have voluntarily submitted to training for the common defense. During four months they have paced the border many of them have sacrificed large interests, all of them have been wrested from civil obligations, not a few of them are vulnerable to the demoralization that comes from an inactive life in camp. The wastefulness, the injustice, the stupidity of a measure which maintains under arms a body of civilians, irrespective of their value to the community, their obligations for other service, their fitness for this, is apparent. To carp at the guardsmen is to lose the significance of a costly experience. It is the Government that has bungled.

Trafalgar Day.

Dear Wise Wood: Recent episodes off Nantucket have reminded me of a certain dinner which was given early in 1900 by the merchants of Cape Town to Captain Sir Edward Chichester, R. N., who had done very well for them in the early part of the South African war.

After dinner his health was proposed, and the United States Consul, present in an unofficial capacity, said: "And let me assure you, Sir Edward, my countrymen can never forget what you did for them at Manila in 1898, and if only you will come to my country I can promise you a welcome that would make Lieutenant Hobson blush."

Sir Edward's reply was: "My only regret about that day is that I unnecessarily cleared my decks for action."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Allow me to call the attention of your readers to the collection of boulders which has recently been exposed on the high ground about half a mile east of the Queensboro Bridge. This is a collection of boulders ranging from two to four or more feet in diameter, which from the number of the specimens and the closeness with which they lie together, makes a very striking picture. Most of them consist of trap rock and were transported from the Palisades of the Hudson by the glacier which covered this part of the country in Pleistocene times, perhaps 20,000 years ago. There are also boulders of granite, Manhattan schist, gneiss, and, in fact, of specimens of all the rocks to be found to the northwestward, in New Jersey, and Manhattan Island, and the Bronx. There is in the Museum of Natural History in New York City a collection made by the writer of rock specimens from the glacial drift at Jamaica and Hollis, L. I. This collection is almost a duplicate as regards the kinds of rock, of the set of specimens of rock taken from their native beds in Manhattan and the Bronx.

"You All" in the Bible.

In the New Testament the expressions "You all, ye all, we all, they all" occur often. So that for their recognition as English we have the authority of King James the Scholar, as well as the colloquial Greek of the first century. May not the fact that the Bible is the chief source of language impressions account for the prevalence of the expression?

ANTI-SUFFRAGE CLAIMS.

The returns indicate that the women's vote in the Western States was practically indentical with that of the men of their families. This is most impressively shown in Illinois, the only State where the votes of men and women are counted separately.

Had women not voted, the result of the election apparently would have been the same—at less expense to the people and with less bother to the women.

The evidence shows that suffragists were not able to "deliver" the women's vote anywhere to the candidate they favored. "Sex solidarity" in this election has proved a myth, as the anti-suffragists prophesied it would.

The so-called "Woman's Party" failed completely to make good its claims with the women voters. It failed absolutely to carry out the purpose for which it was organized—to defeat the Democratic candidate in the States where women vote.

It had no effect whatever upon the election—unless its methods were responsible for the fact that the man it was organized to defeat carried the State of its birthplace, Colorado, the State of its militant President, Nevada, and most of the other States in which it was active.

The war cry of the Woman's Party against the President, "He Kept Us Out of Suffrage," did not influence the women voters. No astute politician hereafter can be bluffed or threatened by the alleged "women's vote." There is no such commodity for anybody to "deliver."

One peculiarity has been noticed in Illinois which may also obtain elsewhere. In many Republican districts the women were more Republican than the men. In many Democratic districts the women were more Democratic than the men. This would seem to indicate a more intense partisanship, where it exists, among the women voters, but no general party preference.

The woman in politics and the woman trying to get into politics have contributed nothing to politics, but increased election costs, more expensive and spectacular stunts, more bitter partisanship and bigger bluffs than the men have made.

The dignity, power, and status of woman in public life have not been elevated. Politics has not been purified. The exhibit at this election shows suffrage is an expensive experiment to the State and a burden of no benefit to women.

Latest reports indicate that the anti-suffragists have won an overwhelming victory in West Virginia, and will carry South Dakota by a safe margin.

Mrs. ARTHUR M. DODGE,
President National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

This is a great day for the solid South. The Republican Party, inspired by the vindictive spirit of Thad Stevens and Zach Chandler, crucified and humiliated us with carpet-bag rule and attempted to destroy us politically with the Force bill. In this election they invaded the sanctity of the Supreme Court for a candidate, and fifty years after Appomattox sought to revive sectional hatred.

The solid South with a son of Old Virginia has changed all this, and now in a sympathetic and natural alliance with the great West notifies New York and the East that the solid South can no longer be used by Democratic politicians of that section to nominate Presidential candidates of their own choice without regard to the interests of the rest of the country. This election sends to the rear pro-Germans and pro-Jews, pro-Allies and pro-Irish and proclaims the doctrine of pro-America for Americans. The Chairman of the Republican National Committee, I see, still calls us "the enemy."

Yes, the South is the enemy of all sections and all persons, however small, who attempt to divide our common country by preaching the doctrine of sectionalism and the superiority of wealth and financial power over any true American, however humble he may be.

Morale of Plattsburg Camps.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The "Plattsburg Idea" obtained a splendid impetus this year, but it is about to be ruined by an error of judgment. The men who gave a month to studying the necessities of preparedness, gave their money as well as their time, and were glad to do so. They paid their own expenses for the most part. As a result they were earnest in the work, and the slackers in the camps were few and soon eliminated.

By refunding the expense, as it is now planned to do each year, there will be attracted to these camps a much inferior class of men whose main object will be a free vacation at the Government expense, and who will have neither the spirit nor the inclination to get all they can out of the work.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As an educated woman who grew up in a Republican environment and who has become a Democrat chiefly on the tariff question, and who ardently desired the re-election of Mr. Wilson, it was very hard yesterday, after acting as my husband's chauffeur to the polls—it was very hard, I repeat—to have to sit outside while he was voting and observe persons whose mentality in some cases was obviously inferior to my own enter the polls.

How Will Hexamer Explain?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It would be rather interesting to know Dr. Hexamer's opinion about the German-American strongholds—Cincinnati and Milwaukee—voting strong for Wilson, while Wisconsin voted for Hughes, so much the more because German wards in Milwaukee voted for Wilson. Have not German-Americans threatened to show Mr. Wilson what they would do on Nov. 7?

ROBERT W. KIEWERT.

THIS NOVEMBER.

I've always watched the signs of Autumn come
With sudden, wistful fear,
But not this year!
I used to feel Love's richness pass me by
With southbound birds down each November sky.
Today, each gold or crimson leaf that studs
Of the forest's screen
Becomes a flaring torch or glowing coal—
Lights fuel on the hearthstones of my soul.
I've no more need for poetry of pen
Or lip; I made my poems when
Now, there's no time—
Head, heart and sense
But Love makes poems small.
Does Winter cross tomorrow's frost-bright hill?
What do I care?
Is not my shelter still

GARY FOUND JAPAN KINDLY.

Sees No Reason to Fear Irreconcilable Differences.

Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the Board of the United States Steel Corporation, who recently returned to New York from a tour of Japan, was the guest of the Japan Society at luncheon yesterday afternoon at the Bankers' Club, 120 Broadway. Among those present were many leading business and professional men of New York, as well as prominent Japanese. A. Barton Hepburn, Chairman of the Board of the Chase National Bank, presided, and the only other speaker besides Judge Gary was Dr. T. Iyenaga, Director of the East and West News Bureau.

Judge Gary's speech was in part the story of his visit to Japan, and he painted a picture in every respect pleasing.

"Japan is strong, healthy, virile, and progressive," said Judge Gary, "and is destined to be one of the greatest of nations. One of her principal assets consists in the sublime loyalty of all her people to their country, represented by their Emperor. They believe, as I do, that he is a good man, who desires to protect and promote the welfare of all the people, and they are quite willing to die, if necessary, in his cause or at his command.

"It was my endeavor to ascertain the real sentiment of the people of Japan toward the people of the United States and to inform them what I believed to be the feeling of the American people generally toward the Japanese. I wish to say that I have no doubt the leading and controlling men in Japan earnestly desire to maintain cordial, close, and continuous relations with the people of the United States. It seems to me, if we ever have serious trouble with Japan, it will be as much the fault of the United States as it is the fault of Japan, and perhaps more.

"But there is not going to be any irreconcilable difference between these nations. Both are equally anxious to avoid it. Both desire peace and tranquillity, friendship and fraternity."

TO EQUIP FOR AMAZON.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 9.—The steam yacht Alberta, with Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice and Ernest How of Newport aboard, steamed to New York tonight. Members of the Royal Geographical Society of England will join the party at New York for a scientific expedition to the Amazon. The region to be covered will be in part that which Dr. Rice explored in 1901.

The start from New York will probably be made on Nov. 15. While in New York the Alberta will be coaled and provisioned. Everything necessary for exploration work is now on board the Alberta, or will be placed there while the yacht is in New York. The equipment includes numerous instruments which were received this week from the Royal Geographical Society of England.

Tribesmen will meet the party in the Amazon for the land explorations.

Captain F. W. Baldwin commands the Alberta, which is owned by Commodore Frederick G. Bourne of New York. She has a crew of fifty-four in all. From Barbados the Alberta is first expected to sail for Para, thence to Manose and Iquitos, ports on the Amazon. She will probably return to New York next May. Her speed is 18 knots.

Dr. Rice, in discussing his trip tonight, said that the main object of the expedition was topographical. Investigations will be carried on of diseases peculiar to the Indians of the Amazon, and a study will be made of the bird and fish life and the large mammals peculiar to South America. The expedition will explore the Casiquare Canal, which brings the waters of the Orinoco into the Amazon basin.

The staff which will accompany Dr. and Mrs. Rice includes William T. Councilman, Professor of Pathology at Harvard; Ernest Howe of Newport, geologist; Earl F. Church of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, topographer, and John W. Swanson of New York, a wireless expert.

EASTERN LINES TO TAKE PART

National Conference Committee Meets Here — Santa Fe Charges Arbitrary Increase of Wages.

With the filing yesterday in Kansas City, Kan., of the Santa Fé Railroad's injunction suit against the Adamson eight-hour law and the starting of a suit by the Union Pacific in Omaha on Wednesday, the railroads of the United States began their fight against the eight-hour law. After a meeting yesterday of the National Conference Committee of the Railways at the Grand Central Terminal, it was learned that a number of other suits against the eight-hour law would be filed next week, among them being actions brought by several large Eastern railroads.

The railroads deferred court action against the Adamson law until after election so that no political significance would be given to the railroad attorneys' condemnation of the act. Railroad Presidents who were Democrats believed that sharp criticism of the act would have hurt President Wilson, and their Republican colleagues agreed with them that it would be better to wait until after Nov. 7. Again, the railroads wished to avoid all allegations that their fight against the Adamson law had any political motive and was not based entirely on the merits of the case. High railroad officials said yesterday that the fact that the first of the suits was filed while the result of the election was in doubt showed that there was no politics in the situation.

In the two months since the law was passed many of the highest-paid lawyers in the United States have been studying the law in a search for something unconstitutional in it. The plea of confiscation, it was said, would not be effective in a suit brought before the law was put into operation, and so the injunction suits will be largely based upon the allegation that the law violates the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution in that it affects the making of contracts for labor between the railroads and their employes, and that it is not a proper regulation of interstate commerce. If the injunction actions fail suits of another nature may be brought after the Adamson law goes into effect on Jan. 1.

Arguments in About Three Weeks.

In most cases it will take about three weeks for the injunction suits to come up for argument, it is said. This will bring the matter to an issue about the time of the opening of the short session of Congress. If at that time the Democratic leaders show a disposition to modify the law, or change it in a manner to block the arguments of the railroads, it is considered probable in some quarters that the injunction suits may be dropped.

There remains to be enacted that part of the President's strike settlement program favorable to the railroads. President Wilson issued a statement at the adjournment of Congress in which he said that the short session would take up the enactment of the rest of the program, which includes compulsory investigation of disputes and a resolution stating that it is the consensus of Congress that if the operation of the Adamson law imposes a hardship on the railroads the Interstate Commerce Commission should allow an increase in freight rates. It was said by railroad officials yesterday that the passage of the rest of the program would have no effect on the railroads' determination to fight the eight-hour law to the finish, as long as it stands in its present form.

The Newlands Joint Congressional Committee will begin its work of investigating railroad operation on Nov. 20, but it is said that the eight-hour fight will be kept independent of the inquiry of the Newlands Committee, before which the railroads will make a plea for exclusive Federal regulation to replace dual Federal and State regulation.

The work of fighting the Adamson law is being directed by the Railway Executives' Advisory Committee, which has offices at 61 Broadway, and of which President E. P. Ripley of the Sante Fé, which brought suit yesterday, is a member.

In the meanwhile the managers' committee is going ahead with its work of planning the operation of the eight-hour law and fixing the changes in schedule which the installation of the law will bring about. Should the law be declared unconstitutional the work of the committee would be temporarily laid aside, and the dispute between the four brotherhoods and the railroads would be just where it was when President Wilson stepped into the situation last August.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 9.—A petition enjoining the United States District Attorney and "labor leaders" from putting the Adamson eight-hour law into effect was filed in the United States District Court of Kansas City, Kan., late today in the name of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé Railroad.

The bill calls attention to agreements with train employes, none of which, it says, contemplates that the employe shall work a fixed number of hours, but that owing to the nature of train service the trip, in terms of hours or mileage, as preferred by the men, is the basis of compensation.

The bill alleges that the wages of the train employes are substantial and in many instances high, and are now higher than they have ever been before; that those wages vary greatly as to different classes of employes and as to employes in the same class, and that the rates of wages on one railroad are different in a great many particulars from the rates of wages on other railroads; that Section 3 of the Adamson act if capable of application is a mere arbitrary increase in wages without reference to the question whether existing wages are high or low, and operates with respect to any class of train service to give the greatest increase to the employe who now enjoys the highest wages and the lowest increase to the employe who now has the lowest wages.

Santa Fe Files Its Petition.

It is pointed out that the changes which the Adamson act undertook to make are radically different from the changes proposed by the Brotherhoods. It concludes with a statement that the railroad is willing to guarantee employes against loss pending final decision as to the legality of the law. The court is asked to indicate what steps it shall take "by way of keeping special accounts, giving bond, or otherwise, for the purpose of assuring complete protection to all its employes. On the other hand, complainant says that if preliminary and final injunction be denied and this complainant be compelled, under fear of penalties of the said act, to adopt at its own peril some construction of the act involving the payment of increased wages to considerable numbers of its employes, and if the act shall subsequently be declared to be invalid, the losses thereby sustained by this complainant can never be repaired in any way."

GLORIOUS FLORAL SHOW IN MUSEUM

The most beautiful exhibition that the Horticultural Society of New York has ever given was opened last evening to its members and friends in the Museum of Natural History. The magnificent bush plants which are staged in the big foyer hall of the museum, wonderful masses of color against the gray walls, the experts say have never been surpassed.

Of these the principal pieces are the great bush plants and the pillars and fans from Heatherdell Farm, the Adolph Lewisohn estate at Ardsley, with others by F. E. Lewis of Ridgefield, Conn., and W. B. Thompson of Yonkers, effectively backed by a beautiful collection of palms exhibited by Mrs. F. A. Constable of Mamaroneck.

From this central exhibit last evening the visitors passed down the corridor of the east wing of the museum, where was exhibited a fine collection of roses and carnations. In the long hall back from the foyer were the orchids, an exhibition by Clement Moore of Hackensack, large in numbers and fine in quality—prize winners. There was a charming little table of orchids exhibited by Samuel Untermyer, another prize winner, the blossoms banked in delicate masses of maiden-hair fern.

Joseph A. Manda also took prizes for orchids, and a beautiful new orchid took a first prize for Julius Roehrs—a blossom of dark green and green and white stripes.

Gold Medal For Begonias.

Near the entrance to the west wing of the museum was an exhibit of Winter flowering begonias, shown by John Scheepers of New York, which was awarded a gold medal. In this wing is the exhibition of greenhouse plants of W. B. Thompson, which took the first prize and called forth many exclamations of admiration from the visitors. There were many tall, drooping plants in the exhibit, and the combinations of color were excellent, red and green and white, with a touch of blue in the background and in the foreground many colors; small orange trees in fruit, full-flowered spirea, lilies of different kinds, with foliage plants.

Mrs. F. A. Constable took the first prize for a big vase of chrysanthemums, an effective arrangement, deep bronze-yellow blossoms, with a few of dark red, and here and there a branch of barberry or other red-leaved plant. Turning north down another corridor at the end of lines of chrysanthemums was another beautiful arrangement of flowering plants from the J. B. Duke farm, Somerville, A. A. MacDonald, gardener. At the back of this was one of the most interesting features of the exhibition, a tree attached to the branches of which, apparently growing in their natural parasitic way, were yellow flowering orchids. Below were different kinds of flowering and foliage plants, lilies in blossom, and all clustering around a beautiful little fountain. The Duke farms took a number of prizes for chrysanthemums, one for American Beauty roses, and had on exhibition some hothouse grapes and melons so perfect that many of the visitors thought they were artificial.

AMIDST CHRYSANTHEMUMS

The wedding of Miss Katharine Place, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira A. Place of 268 West Seventy-seventh Street, and James Fairchild Adams, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Crittenden Adams of 165 West Fifty-eighth Street, was celebrated at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Church of the Messiah at Thirty-fourth Street and Park Avenue, the pastor, the Rev. John Hanyes Holmes, performing the ceremony. The church chancel was gay with masses of pastel-colored chrysanthemums and Autumn leaves, combined with farleyance ferns and growing plants.

The bride, who walked up the nave with her father, wore an ankle-length frock of white satin, the skirt laid in wide kilt plaits, the front panel being of tulle. The low corsage showed satin bretelles, and the full tulle sleeves were bound above the elbow with satin to form two puffs. The veil of Brussels lace was held over her black hair with a coronet of lace and orange blossoms, and her flowers were lilies of the valley and white orchids.

The maid of honor, Miss Dorothy Cobb, was in pale pink taffeta, and the bridesmaids, the Misses Dorothy Taylor, Marion Holden, Katharine Barcus, Ellen Finley, Althea Rudd, Eveleth Derby, Katharine Biggs, and Hazel Benedict, were in deep apricot shades, almost matching the sheaf bouquets they carried of small apricot, orange, and brown chrysanthemums. Their frocks were made alike—had short skirts of the taffeta, with straight, long tunics of brown tulle broken by a star-pointed top tunic of white lace embroidered in silver. The corsages of lace and tulle over taffeta had square-cut necks, outlined by narrow brown velvet ribbon tied at the back in cravat bows with long ends, and bands of the velvet also outlined the top of the wide apricot girdles. The lace sleeves were finished in silver. The girls all wore large, round, brown hats with velvet crowns, and the wide tulle brims had clusters of silver roses at the right side.

Mr. Adams's best man was Eberhard Faber, and the ushers were his brother, Darwin J. Adams, Hermann G. Place, and Willard F. Place, brothers of the bride; also Howard Froelich, Reuel B. Kimball, Rudolf von Hoevenberg, J. Vincent Forrestal, and Andrew Fletcher, Jr. A small reception followed at the Biltmore. After their honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Adams will live in New Kensington, near Pittsburgh, Penn., where Mr. Adams is in business.

During the sale a woman in the audience, who bought a number of the pictures, sent up a note to Auctioneer Thomas E. Kirby, which he read. It said:

"Can't you possibly say that these are men who are war victims, and it is a shame that we who live in security should profit by their misfortunes?"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—State Department officials expect to learn by tomorrow the fate of the Americans reported to have been murdered by Villista bandits several days ago at Parral and San Rosalia. The Mexican Government has ordered its military commanders near those towns to make every effort to obtain news of the situation there.

POWELL GIVES NEW WORK.

Young Pianist and Composer Plays His "Sonata Teutonica."

At a preliminary concert of the Society of the Friends of Music at the Ritz yesterday afternoon John Powell, the young American pianist and composer, provided the program by playing for the first time here his "Sonata Teutonica," preceding the performance by an explanatory talk. In this talk Mr. Powell gave some idea of his general musical philosophy and dwelt in some detail on the problem of self-expression for the composer. Then he turned to his sonata, expounding its structure and playing the principal themes to show their relation to the work and to his theories. At the top of the program the words "The ocean is in the drop as the drop is in the ocean" were placed, and in reference to them Mr. Powell explained his idea that each movement should reflect the thematic material of the whole work.

The sonata itself is in three movements, of which the second consists of variations on a German folksong. Most of those who heard it yesterday were apparently unable to make a definite judgment as to its merits. It is long—perhaps one is justified in thinking, too long—and rather complicated in structure. Perhaps the composer was misled by trying to get too much into one Sonata. Certain excellencies were easily recognizable, and on its face the work deserves the commendation due an ambitious and high-minded task sincerely done.

is the incentive that has made many a man and woman economize, and even forego some of the so-called necessities of life, in order that they may possess sound bonds in either large or small amounts. For those who wish to eliminate the element of speculation from their investments, we would suggest placing their money in any one of a strong list of conservative securities we have chosen with this specific purpose in mind.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Specialties Move Sharply Upward in a Session Confused by Political Uncertainty.

It looked at times yesterday as though the stock market had given up waiting for a determination of the election results, and was going ahead along the lines marked out last week. The issues whose popularity comes from the prospect of big earning arising out of the extraordinary war conditions forged rapidly ahead, while others, among them some of the leaders in activity, fluctuated, now up and now down, according to the moment's election news. On the whole it was a strong market, although it was not clear even at 3 o'clock which way the deciding electoral votes of California and Minnesota would be cast.

There was a marked falling off in activity, although the day's total again ran easily over 1,000,000 shares. Dealings in Steel were only a little more than half the amount done on Wednesday. This issue proved more susceptible to the political news than most of the list, and after opening with an overnight gain of ⅞ it dropped back to 122½ with the growing conviction that Wilson had carried California. It closed at 124, only ¼ below Wednesday's final price. That, however, was raised suddenly in the last few minutes of trading by short covering, so that yesterday's level represented better buying support than the price changes indicated.

Attention was centred very largely upon the ease with which certain of the specialties moved up, entirely without regard to the trend of the election. Central Leather advanced without any real reactions, opening at 108¾ and selling up to 119, the closing price, on very active dealings. Allis-Chalmers became active, both issues advancing 4 points. American Locomotive also sold up 4 points, closing at 97, and American Writing Paper 4½. Baldwin sold at 90, but dropped back to 88½ at the close. International Paper moved from 64 to a new high price at 70; Lackawanna Steel gained 3¾ and South Porto Rico Sugar 3¾. Most of the rails lost slightly on the day's movements, and the closing was irregular.

Exchange on several European points declined, marks dropping an eighth below Wednesday's price to the lowest point seen in a month. Rubles sold at 29, but closed at 29.90. Delay in completing the Russian loan has given rise to reports that the amount will be only half that provisionally decided upon, although bankers in close touch with the matter said that the situation had undergone no real change in the last few days.

Politics dominated business to the exclusion of everything else, but it was apparent that traders had become impatient over the wait to learn who has been elected and were buying stocks that they thought should sell higher no matter which way the decision goes.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Planning for the Future.

While some leading steel manufacturers are preaching caution as to future commitments, there is no indication that they feel a slump of business may become great enough to prove that the steel-making capacity in this country has become too large. On the contrary the Steel Corporation, the Bethlehem Corporation, Crucible, Lackawanna, and other concerns are carrying out big expansion plans. It is expected that the Steel Corporation will spend fully $80,000,000 in additions and betterments, while officers of the Bethlehem have prepared for an outlay of many millions. The same conditions prevail in the copper refining industry. All the leading refiners are either busy extending their works or are completing plans to be carried out as soon as possible.

Copper for immediate delivery has sold this week above 31 cents a pound, according to information obtained in the trade. As there is comparatively little of the December metal not under contract, the establishment of so high a price for small amounts is important, chiefly because of the trend which it shows. Prices for future delivery also have stiffened to the extent that metal for the first quarter next year is around the 30-cent level, compared with about 28¾ cents last week. Producers are said to be well sold up for the first three months of 1917, with a great deal of copper under contract for the second quarter.

Missouri Pacific's Way Cleared.

With the approval yesterday by the Public Utility Commission of Missouri of the plan of reorganization proposed for the Missouri Pacific-St. Louis & Iron Mountain system, the beginning of the end of another receivership is in sight. It is expected that the Reorganization Committee will now push the foreclosure suit and prepare the way for an early reorganization of the property. Bankers who have been handling the matter say that with operating efficiency increased under the administration of B. F. Bush, and the fixed charges scaled down, there is every reason to believe that the road will again become a profitable system.

No Action on Marine.

Marine common gained ⅞ and the preferred 1⅛ in yesterday's active market, though holders of the stock seemed to be in two minds as to the effect on the company's plans of the continuation of a Democratic Administration, which favors shipping legislation that is not to the liking of the owners of steamships. The Marine Directors held another meeting yesterday at which it was thought some action might be taken on the question of funding the accumulated dividends, but members of the board said afterward that no plan had been agreed upon.

Transfer of Bank Reserves.

Although members of the Federal Reserve Board in Washington eagerly sought the passage of the amendment to the Reserve act, permitting member banks to carry in the Reserve Banks of their respective districts a larger portion of their reserves than authorized by the original law, the board has not yet taken any action looking toward the transfer of funds. The amendment to the law provides that an increase in the reserves on deposit with the Federal Banks can only be brought about by rulings issued by the Federal Reserve Board, the affirmative vote of at least five members being required. Thus far the board has been silent on the subject, but it is likely that the matter will be acted upon after Nov. 16, when the next installments of reserves will be paid in by member banks outside the central reserve cities.

One of the objects of the amendment permitting member banks to carry a larger portion of their reserves with the reserve banks is to permit the concentration of the country's surplus funds in the vaults of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks, where the money will be actually available as a reserve. It is contended that the stronger the reserve banks are made to be, the stronger will be the position of the member banks; and it is with this idea in mind that the administrators of the new banking law are endeavoring to prevail upon the member banks to make what may seem as a sacrifice, but which, in reality, will prove a decided benefit in the long run.

REACTION IN LONDON.

Uncertainty of Presidential Election Sends American Stocks Down.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The uncertainty of the result of the Presidential election caused a reaction in American securities on the Stock Exchange today and yesterday's improvement was lost. The list closed dull, pending the final decision.

The other sections had a good tone. The war loan was active and shipping shares and Peruvian issues were strong features. Rubber stocks and colonial bonds were steady.

Little notice was taken in responsible quarters of rumors in circulation of an early reduction in the bank rate. This is considered unlikely for some time.

Money was in fair supply and discount rates were easy.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 61 francs 10 centimes for cash; exchange on London, 27 francs 81½ centimes; 5 per cent. loan, 87 francs 65 centimes.

British Bank Statement.

WARNING BY NEWMAN ERB.

The Ann Arbor Railroad Company reports for the year ended June 30 operating revenues of $2,684,309, an increase over 1915 of $373,000. The gross income was $764,000, an increase of $209,000, and the net income $300,000, an increase of $100,000.

Newman Erb, President, calls attention to the fact that in 1907 the company handled 2,009,460 tons of revenue freight with 707,574 train miles, and in 1916 2,416,000 tons with 570,000 train miles, notwithstanding which the operating ratio increased from 64.86 per cent. in 1907 to 68.12 per cent. in 1916.

"Greater efficency by the railroads here and there is, of course, still possible," he says, "but the limit of locomotive axle load and development of train loading has almost been reached, and the intolerability of present conditions will be strikingly brought to the attention of the public when the existing stimulation of business has been withdrawn, and we are again experiencing normal times."

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

While still generally under the repressive effect of the uncertainty regarding the result of the Presidential election, the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange at times gave signs of breaking away from the election influence. Net changes at the end of the day displayed irregularity, but there were more stocks up than down. United States Steel common was the most active issue.

CONFER ON NATIONAL BANKS

With the view of keeping in closer touch with the condition of national banks in New York, John Skelton Williams, Controller of the Currency, has arranged period conferences with the national bank examiners assigned to this district. Mr. Williams spent more than three hours yesterday with the examiners at the Custom House in the office set aside for the Secretary of the Treasury.

Charles Starek, the chief examiner in this district, was not present, his place being taken by Governor Richmond, who is in charge of the New York office during Mr. Starek's vacation.

Controller Williams said he was pleased with the reports submitted and that he would leave today for Washington.

The Vital Point in Investments

The really vital point in investing money, as general experience has shown, lies in the question of earnings. "What is the margin of earnings of the property over the interest charges on the bonds?" is the experienced bond buyer's first question. He requires that interest must be earned twice or two and a half times over, before he will consider the bonds to be conservative.

The question of earnings is vital to the safety of mortgage loans on real estate—though few investors fully realise this fact. The loan which is not properly protected by earnings, as well as physical assets, is in danger of forcing the investor to foreclosure proceedings to realize interest and principal.

Safe 5½% Bonds

First mortgage bonds—each issue secured by a high grade New York building and land—issued under the Straus Plan, are safeguarded by ample earning power as well as ample physical property. This insures prompt payment of principal and interest in cash on the day when due.

If you have not yet investigated the merits of the Straus Plan and the safe 5½% bonds we recommend, you owe it to yourself to do so.

BULLS PUSH COTTON ABOVE 20 AGAIN

May Option Rises to Within 3 Points of Season's High Level, Reached on Oct. 25.

SPOT ADVICES VERY STRONG

Texas and Other Southern Markets Tell of Heavy Demand and No Inclination to Sell.

Aided by strong bull support and stimulated by favorable reports from Southern spot markets, cotton made another sharp advance yesterday to the highest levels that have been reached this season, with one exception. As a matter of fact, the March option went to within 5 points of the high record established on Oct. 25, and January sold within 8 points of the figure of that day. The May option touched 20.01, compared with its previous high level of 20.04. The close was steady, at a net gain of 14 to 18 points on the more active months.

Liverpool was a little lower than expected, and one private cable said: "Market very small; opening good on Continental buying of new crop; eased later under long liquidation and break in Egyptian, despite good spots."

The local market opened steady at a decline of 3 to 7 points, and was somewhat irregular in the early trading. Early in the afternoon prices advanced very sharply, with buying heavy and rather more general. Spot advices were very strong. Texas wires reported an enormous European demand, with offerings light. Charleston wired: "Spots scarce; extremely hard to find sellers, with buyers for both domestic and export at full prices."

The Waldorf interests were credited with buying freely on the advance which took place about the noon hour. The limited selling was easily absorbed. It was also reported that southern shippers who had been carrying hedged cotton in warehouses were covering the hedges as they sold the actual cotton.

Theodore H. Price in this week's issue of Commerce and Finance says: "It is more and more apparent that the futures market no longer dominates the value of cotton. The attitude of the Southern holder is the determining factor. There is no doubt that he can hold indefinitely if he is disposed to do so, but with cotton at 19 cents a pound, and a large acreage in prospect next year, common sense, in which he is not lacking, would seem to indicate the wisdom of accepting present prices."

The British Board of Trade returns on exports of yarns and cloth during October show shipments of yarns for the month amounting to 14,000,000 pounds, against 13,711,000 pounds for the same month last year. The total exports for the season are 149,000,000 pounds, against 158,000,000 pounds last year. Exports of cloth for the month were 386,000,000 yards, against 367,000,000 yards last year. Total exports of cloth for the season are about 380,000,000 yards in excess of last year to the end of October.

Evidences that the British Government was a heavy buyer of November contracts in the Winnipeg market, where the price advanced to $2 for that position, as well as reports that there was also active foreign buying in the West, caused a very sharp upward movement in the wheat market yesterday. The late positions made new high records, and at the close of the day values were 2⅜@3¼c net higher. In the local cash market No. 1 durum was quoted at $2.27¼; No. 2 hard, $2.05½; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $2.12½; No. 1 Northern Manitoba, $2.15¾, all free on board New York.

CORN.

The corn market was strong and higher, prices making new high records and closing with net gains of 2⅝c to 3⅝c. The trade was disposed to take a bullish view of Wednesday's Government report, and Europe was apparently in the market for American corn. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $1.10⅝, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was active and strong with buying by both commission houses and packing interests, prompted largely by the pronounced strength in the grain markets, especially corn. The hog market was firmer, and receipts of hogs at Chicago were 30,000 for the day, with 26,000 estimated for Friday. Kansas City received 7,000 and Omaha 8,400.

COFFEE.

The coffee market was very quiet again yesterday, with fluctuations narrow. After opening 1 to 3 points lower, prices steadied up a point or two on some positions, but there was no aggressive buying, and the market later eased off again, closing at a net decline of 1 to 3 points. Sales were reported of only 19,250 bags. The local market for spot coffee was quiet, with prices on the basis of 9⅝c for Rio 7s and 10⅝c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

Trading in sugar futures ruled generally quiet throughout the day with the volume of business small. The opening was generally unchanged to 2 points higher, but a little scattered selling by trade interests caused values to sag but price changes kept within a narrow range and the close was net unchanged to a decline of 3 points. Sales for the day 2,500 tons. Range of prices:

The market for refined sugar was steady and unchanged, 7.50c to 7.60c for fine granulated. Trading was light, although there were fair withdrawals on old order. The reentry of operators and local refiners in the market for raw sugar has firmly established the spot price for Cubas at 5¼c cost and freight, equal to 6.52c delivered, basis 96 degrees. The sales included 12,000 bags St. Croix from store to operators at 5¼c in bond, equal to 6.25c delivered. Quotations follow: Centrifugal, 6.52c; Molasses, 5.65c; cost and freight, 5½c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 9,513 packages. Further advances were established on practically all grades of butter, and the market has quite a firm tone at the higher rates. Supplies are coming forward moderately and the buying interest is still fair, considering the extreme figures that are now ruling. The export demand is perhaps the strongest feature at present. It looks as if the shipments this week will run close to 15,000 packages. EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 14,726 cases. Receipts include a quantity of storage stock, and the arrivals of fresh gathered eggs continue light, with a small proportion of strictly fine to fancy qualities. The demand, however, was rather quiet, and while the higher grades are rated firm with a fair movement, the offerings appear to be sufficient at about previous quotations. Storage eggs are held with confidence, and the market shows a firm tone as quoted. Nearby white eggs continue in comparatively light supply, but the demand is light and of a selective character; fancy new laid qualities of good size meet some demand, but receivers report only a limited outlet for these and the lower qualities are of extremely irregular value. Fresh gathered, extra fine, per dozen, 42@44c; extra firsts, 40@41c; firsts, 37@39c; seconds, 35@37c; thirds and poorer, 31@34c; dirties, No. 1, 30½@31c; No. 2 and poorer, 28@30c; checks, good to choice, dry, 29@29½c; undergrades, 26@28c; refrigerator, special marks fancy, storage and insurance paid, 33@33¾c; firsts, 32@32½c; seconds, 31@31¾c; lower grades, 26@30½c; dirties, 26@29c; refrigerator, State whites, 33@36c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites fine to fancy, 62@68c; ordinary to good, 45@60c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 45@60c; nearby white pullets, 45@55c; Western and Southern gathered whites, 40@55c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, 45@52c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 37@44c.

AMERICAN PORTS MAY RIVAL LONDON

MORE WAREHOUSES NEEDED

To Handle Cargoes Sent to This Country from Other Lands for Transshipment.

New York has, according to a report made by H. McL. Harding of this city to the Merchants' Association, an opportunity of becoming one of the principal transshipment ports of the world, equaling London, where cargo for all parts of the world is received and transferred to ships bound for nearly all ports.

"On account of the war," Mr. Harding writes, "the American dollar is now expected to replace the English pound as the medium of exchange throughout the world. The larger ports of the United States have the opportunity of taking on themselves this function of the ports of London, Liverpool, Hamburg, and Antwerp.

"From a study of the history of navigation, it is learned that this transshipment traffic went from Venice to Portugal and Spain, then to Hanseatic League ports and from them to the Dutch ports of Holland. England took it by force from Holland, but before the war Germany was making great progress in obtaining an important share.

"Only a few years ago, if goods were to be shipped from the United States to Suoth America, Africa, or to Australia and to almost any foreign country, the goods were first shipped to London, and at that port were transferred to ships sailing to these countries.

"London therefore became a great distributing centre for the whole world, a kind of a clearing house for cargoes.

"Below London, on the Thames, down the river, were constructed the great Tilbury terminals called docks, with sheds, warehouses, and other terminal facilities. Besides these were the Alexandria docks and others.

"While a certain amount of the cargo of a ship might be for England, yet the amount generally was small in proportion to that which was to be transshipped into other vessels, as for Russia, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, Germany, or for the Mediterranean ports, or for North and South America, Africa, and for every country where there might be a port.

"From the great London docks full cargoes for ships could be made up for anywhere. To hold the merchandise, whether awaiting ships or to get a full shipload, warehouses of great capacity were erected.

"Everything was done to make the shipment of goods through the Thames terminals easy, safe, and financially advantageous. Bills of exchange and through bills of lading for almost everywhere could be there obtained. The expenses at the great Thames docks were reasonable. Warehouse receipts were issued which were negotiable securities.

"There is now coming another shifting of this transshipment centre. As it was transferred from Italy to Northern Europe, and then to England by wars of conquest, now this great business of transshipment is moving peacefully to another world port, that of New York.

"It is not sufficient to have this opportunity offered to this Port of New York, but provision must now be made to receive it and retain it. This business cannot be held today by warships as in the past, but only by offering superior facilities, such as the rapid and economical discharging and reloading of vessels, holding sheds and storage warehouses and those features which will attract commerce."

BANK IN GREECE IS NEEDED.

American Branch Would Promote Trade Between U. S. and Athens.

An American branch bank in Athens would promote trade between the United States and Greece as well as all the Balkan countries in the opinion of Alexander Wilbourne Weddell, American Consul General at Athens. Mr. Weddell, who is on leave of absence, is spending a few days at the New York office of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce conferring with business men interested in trade with Greece.

"An American branch bank," he said yesterday, "is in great demand. To have branches in a number of the Balkan countries would also strengthen trade conditions. At present there are too many difficulties and formalities in the way. A bank would make the way clear for the Greek business man as well as the American."

Mr. Weddell said he could not discuss cases where, it was alleged, American exporters were discriminated against by the British authorities in getting goods into Greece. One of the complaints by American manufacturers had to do with the shipment of forty automobiles for Greek purchasers. Although these cars reached New York ready for shipment, the Commercial Department of the British Legation at Athens objected to the cars being sent to the purcahsers on the ground that they were to be used for "joy" riding. This department, it was said, was composed of British merchants interested in the promotion of British trade in Greece. The British Embassy at Washington regarded the objection as weighty and refused permits for the automobiles to go forward.

Mr. Weddell said the Greek currant crop was smaller this year, with the result that prices would be higher. American exporters desiring to make a success in the Greek market were advised by the Consul General to make their sales through agencies, and not try to do a direct business.

You may be interested to know that in five days after the reference in The New York Times of July 23 to our booklet "Fundamentals of a Cost System for Manufacturers," we received 4,500 replies. Ninety per cent. of the inquiries were on letter heads of business firms, which shows, first, the pulling power The Times has with business men, and, second, the keen interest that has been aroused in our campaign of education for better accounting methods.

NO MAIL FOR DEUTSCHLAND.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The German cargo submarine Deutschland, now at New London, Conn., will carry no mail to Germany on this return trip, although permission had been granted by the United States Post Office Department, the German Embassy said today. Inability to obtain the necessary waterproof containers for the mail was the reason assigned.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 9.—Just what day or hour the submarine Deutschland will leave here for her return trip to Bremen is a conjecture. Captain Koenig has promised to take his craft out of the harbor awash in broad daylight, so that every one may have a view of the submarine.

The Deutschland has not yet received the full complement of cargo that she will carry across the Atlantic, and the Eastern Forwarding Company officials say she will not leave for a few days. Both British and French warships are believed to be cruising off Montauk and Block Island, lying in wait for the submarine, and it would not surprise New London if the submersible quietly took her departure under cover of darkness.

Captain Koenig was installed in the Order of Hermann Soehne tonight at Lawrence Hall in the presence of fully 1,500 men and women.

CLOSE RESIGNS FROM BANK.

President of the Orange Second National Disagrees with Directors.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., Nov. 9.—Charles M. Close, President of the Second National Bank, Orange, resigned this morning. Further than to say that a difference of opinion over the business policies of the bank caused him to resign Mr. Close would make no statement. The Board of Directors was also not inclined to make a statement further than saying the bank was in good financial condition.

Mr. Close, who resides in Maplewood, came to the Orange institution seven years ago from the North American Trust Company in New York to take the position of cashier. Although his resignation will take effect immediately, it is understood his successor will not be elected until January.

NO CANADIAN STEEL MERGER

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Nov. 9.—Investigation leads to the conclusion that there will be no immediate amalgamation of the various steel interests of the Dominion, such as has been reported. There has been extremely heavy buying of Dominion Iron stock lately, and American shareholders in Nova Scotia Steel have recently acquired large holdings in Dominion Iron.

It is considered not improbable here that the next six months may see a large amalgamation of Canadian steel interests, but whetherd this would be under American direction or control is not discussed.

WON'T SELL SHORT BEACH.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Nov. 9.—By a vote of more than two to one in the election Oyster Bay defeated the attempt of Peter Cooper Hewitt, the New York inventor, to buy Short Beach, an island owned by the town, near Long Beach.

Hewitt said he wanted the island for a Summer home, and offered $5,000 for its fifty acres. The people of this neighborhood believed he wanted to develop the property into a resort similar to Long Beach.

PLAN CAR SERVICE REVISION.

Railroads Hope to Make New Rules to Correct Current Abuses.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 9.—That a revision of the car service rules of the country's railroads is under consideration was brought out in the testimony of George Hodges, Chairman of the Car Service Commission of the American Railway Association, who appeared today at the Interstate Commerce Commission inquiry into the exchange and return of freight cars.

Such a revision, designed to correct certain abuses, had already been prepared, he said, and would be placed before a meeting of the association at Denver on Nov. 15.

The primary cause of the existing car shortage, Mr. Hodges said, was the unusual volume of export shipments, coupled with the irregularity of steamship arrivals, resulting in the holding of cars for long periods at seaports.

FOG DELAYS BAY SHIPPING.

Steamboat Priscilla Touches Bottom Off the Battery.

Traffic in the upper and lower bays was impeded for several hours yesterday morning by a thick fog which hung low down on the surface of the water and caused considerazle delay to incoming steamships and to the ferryboats.

The steamboat Priscilla of the Fall River Line, inbound with many passengers, went aground off the sea wall as she was rounding the Battery to go to her pier at the foot of Warren Street, North River. In snawer to her whistles for assistance the tugboat Wade and the fireboat New Yorker came up and towed her out into midstream, and she proceeded to her pier without assistance. The vessel was not damaged.

Brokers Pay Bonus to Employes.

The Stock Exchange firm of Carlisle, Mellick & Co. distributed a bonus of two weeks' salary yesterday to each of its 250 employes. The distribution amounted to about $12,000, and was made in recognition of the long hours and hard work put in by the clerks in the present big stock market. The firm is one of the group of odd-lot dealers whose business has caused much extra labor for the office force. This is the second bonus paid in the last two months.

Bliss and Cochran on Board.

Two more of the vacancies on the board of the Bankers' Trust Company through resignations forced by the Clayton act, forbidding interlocking directorates, have been filled by the election of Thomas Cochran, President of the Liberty National Bank, and Cornelius N. Bliss, Treasurer of the Republican National Committee.

Paisley Designs for Spring.

Opinion differs in the silk trade regarding a continuance of favor for paisley designs for next Spring. Those who hold that these designs will be popular believe that the run on them started late enough this season to swing them over to next year. They add that the novelty of the designs compared with the usual order of patterns will also have a lot to do in deciding the question in favor of the paisley prints. A prominent ribbon man asserted that prospects look good for designs of this sort in his line because they have not been featured quite as strongly as in the broad silk end.

The committee in charge of making out a range of colors for the Textile Color Card Association of the United States will shortly add several new shades to those already issued in the Spring color card. The card, when brought out, drew complimentary comment from all the trades for which it was intended. The committee hopes to go further in its work of supplying the textile trades with the latest information on the color situation. Some sort of bulletin service, it is said, has been proposed and will probably be adopted. Colors, members of the committee believe, will be the all important item in the styles for next Spring.

One of the strong arguments advanced to support the prediction that suits will regain favor next Spring has to do with the sport clothes fad. A prominent manufacturer pointed out that, with every indication that the vogue will be even greater than it has been, suits are the logical garments. The sport clothes idea, he said, can scarcely be carried out in dresses, and for that reason the suit manufacturers ought to do a very large volume of business. Style tendencies also favor suits in this respect, he added. Straight lines and narrow skirts are promised, and the colors will be strictly along sport lines.

Raw Silk Markets Quieter.

The Yokohama raw silk market, which continued its advance up to the end of last week, has quieted down again, and prices have eased off to the extent of 2 or 3 per cent. from the highest levels paid for the medium and cheaper silks. The best ones continue firm at last prices. Sales for the week there amounted to 3,800 bales, with stock increased to 15,000. Cables received from Canton by H. L. Gwalter & Co. say that the market continues strong, with an upward tendency as the result of good European buying. Partly due to demand, and partly to a sharp rise in exchange, tussah silks are quoted at record prices in Shanghai. Other silks are firmly held there. A drop in production is looked for at Milan after the turn of the year as a result of the limited supply of dry cocoons. The uncertainty of the Japanese market and the usual Election Day dulness combined to keep business small here. Prices, however, were steady enough.

Clothing Demand Keeps Up.

While the political excitement has had some effect in slowing up trade, the clothing manufacturers have nothing to complain of with the business they are doing. The one difficulty seems to be in acquiring a sufficient amount of materials with which to make up the record orders that have been put in for next Spring. Ordinarily, if the volume of business taken in was for so large an amount, so the manufacturers say, there would be some discounting of the figures in order to allow for overbuying on the part of retailers fearful of not getting full deliveries. In the present circumstances, however, the clothiers believe that the orders they have booked are all bona fide and represent the actual needs of their customers. There is still noted a higher standard in the demand. The retailers in their purchases have shown that people appear to be willing to pay more for their clothing.

The most notable event in the drug market during the last week, according to Drug and Chemical Markets, was an advance by leading interests of 50 cents a pound on opium, due to the continued small arrivals of the gum from abroad and the decidedly small quantities held here. Morphine and codeine were firmer, in sympathy with the rise in opium, while makers of resublimed pyrogallic acid announced a noteworthy rise in prices. Second hands put an advance of about 10 cents a pound on potassium permanganate. The market for botanical drugs was stronger, while the better grades of gum arabic went up about a cent a pound. Russian ergot, menthol, and Norwegian codliver oil were among the declining articles. The last named fell off $5 a barrel.

The Textile Alliance, Inc., has been informed that the resumption of the issue of licenses for the export of wool from the British Empire is receiving the consideration of the British authorities, and that intimation of the Government's intention as to the season's clip is expected soon. In view of former difficulties the Alliance recommends that those expecting to import through it should refrain from purchasing privately or in anticipation of the expected decision.

Will They Alienate Accounts?

The question was raised yesterday as to whether or not trouble is being laid in store for some of the big wholesale dry goods houses by the almost philanthropic way in which they have been selling certain merchandise, notably knit goods, below the cost of replacement from the mills. The contention was advanced that, when the comparatively low-priced goods now in stock in these houses are disposed of, and when the present price advantage is gone, they are going to lose out. It was asserted that new accounts which have been attracted by low-price bait will then doubtless go gack to their "first loves," for the same reason that they dealt with those houses in the first place, while the tendency on the part of buyers for old accounts to shop around in an endeavor to find lower prices will probably result in many of them being hooked by special offerings put out by competing wholesalers. In the meantime, the first jobbers are losing profit which is rightfully theirs.

The decreased quantity of foreign-made gloves available this year as a result of the continuance of the war abroad, together with the shortage of domestic glove leathers and the higher prices that are being asked for them, has caused an unusually heavy run this year on secondary distributers of this merchandise. The result has been that several lines are already sold out, or are very close to it, and great difficulty is being found in filling the repeat orders that are coming to hand. Not only the ordinary range of street gloves for both sexes is affected, but the shortage is being felt all the way from dress handwear to the kind of gloves that are used by teamsters and others engaged in rough work. Heavy wool gloves and mittens are no better off.

Gray Goods Not Very Active.

While buyers and sellers in the local gray goods market were a little more disposed to trade yesterday than on Wednesday, the continued uncertainty regarding the name of the next President kept business smaller than would probably have been the case under other conditions. Printcloth business was taken for deliveries running up to May, where mills were optimistic regarding the future, but from all accounts the bulk of the trading was for shipments within the next ninety days. In this were sales of 39-inch 68-72s, 38½-inch 64-60s, 38½-inch 60-52s, and 27-inch 64-60s at the prices quoted below. There was a little more snap to trading in coarse goods also, but it was said that for the most part there was little feature to the business done in this end of the market. Closing printcloth prices were:

39-inch, 68-72s	9c	38½-inch, 60-52s	7c

Matches and Celluloid Among the Articles Classified.

A dispute regarding the kind of matches imported by the James H. Furman Company, Chicago, was settled yesterday by the Board of General Appraisers adversely to the claim of the firm. The merchandise consisted of matches with colored sticks which were returned at 25 per cent. as fancy matches. The importers insisted that the matches were of the plain variety, and therefore dutiable at 8 cents per gross. No evidence was submitted, but Judge McClelland, who examined the Custom House record, said the board reached the conclusion that duty was properly taken by the Collector, who was therefore affirmed.

G. W. Sheldon & Co. imported sheets of celluloid returned by the Collector at the rate of 40 per cent. as polished. It was contended at the hearing that the sheets were not polished either in whole or in part, and that duty accordingly accrued at 25 per cent. The testimony was conclusive that the sheets had not been subjected to the process of polishing. The Collector was accordingly reversed and duty at the lower rate ordered.

A controversy between the Government and J. H. Lynch, Boston, as to crushed and shredded geese feathers was settled in favor of the former. Duty was taken at the rate of 40 per cent. as ornamental or manufactured feathers, whereas the importer claimed 20 per cent. as crude feathers. The official record showed no reason for disturbing the Collector's assessment.

Adverse action was taken by the board in a protest by Bamberger, Stern & Co. The articles in question were composed of paper with ornamental printing, and were shown to be used as covers for fashion display albums. Entry was claimed at 15 per cent. as for printed matter, but Judge Fischer held the provision not applicable. The Collector was affirmed in his levy of 25 per cent. as manufactures of paper.

Bacon & Co., Boston, were sustained in the claim that round bar iron was properly dutiable at 5 per cent. under the specific provision for bar iron. The Collector was reversed in classifying the merchandise as wire rods, and collecting duty at the rate of 10 per cent.

U. P. TO SPEND MILLIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 9.—Judge R. F. Lovett, head of the Union Pacific, today ordered the expenditure of several millions of dollars on that railroad. Judge Lovett and party today completed a survey of the property, and when the special train arrived in Omaha orders were issued for a tunnel under the summit of the Rocky Mountains, much double-tracking, and a large number of new freight cars.

"We have plenty of cars if we could get other roads to send them back to us," said Judge Lovett, "but that they will not do and so we must purchase new ones."

The new tunnel will be under the famous Sherman hill in Wyoming, the highest point on the Union Pacific, where the Ames Monument is situated.

APPROVE RAILROAD PLAN.

State Board Sanctions the Missouri Pacific Reorganization.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 9.—The proposed reorganization plan of the Missouri Pacific and the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railways was approved here today by the State Public Service Commission. The opinion was prepared by Chairman Busby and Commissioner McQuillen and was concurred in by the other members of the commission.

The plan provides for the merger of the two roads into one system, incorporated under the laws of Missouri, with an aggregate capital of $383,642,282. Both roads have been in the hands of receivers since Aug. 19, 1915. The reorganization will mean that they will be taken out of the receivership.

The opinion says that the reorganization is expected to decrease the total funded debt by $51,938,058, and to provide a security through new first and refunding mortgages sufficient to meet all expenditure requirements. In addition, it says the fixed yearly charges will be reduced from $12,951,388 to $9,904,447, and that these will come "well within the earnings, even under adverse conditions."

Good Wools Remain Firm.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The offerings at the wool auction sales today amounted to 9,400 bales. It was a miscellaneous selection of poor quality. After the principal demands had been satisfied, medium sorts dragged, but good wools remained firm. The sales will be concluded tomorrow.

BUSINESS NOTES.

A meeting was held yesterday of the Pattern Committee of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, which was appointed to study the matter of paper patterns, contracts, and conditions relating to this industry as affecting the retail dry goods stores. The members attending were R. C. Fraser of the Fraser Dry Goods Company, Brockton, Mass., Chairman; Myer Heller of the Kahn-Heller Company, Newcastle, Ind.; H. S. Shelton, of the Johnston, Shelton Company, Dayton, Ohio, and S. F. Iszard of the S. F. Iszard Company, Elmira, N. Y. E. L. Howe, Secretary-Treasurer of the association, also was present. It will be some time before the committee completes its investigation and is ready to report.

A cablegram received by the Department of Commerce from Consul A. B. Cooke, who is stationed at Patras, Greece, says that the currant market has advanced an average of 33 per cent. over the mid-September quotations. Merchants there report that 50,000 tons of fruit are available, of which 40 per cent. is of inferior quality.

H. Uehlinger, credit manager for the Moller and Schumann Company of Brooklyn, last night delivered an address on "The Salesman's Interest in Credit Interchange Bureau Service" before a meeting of the Travelers' Association of the Local Paint and Allied Trades at the Imperial, Brooklyn. This organization is said to be the only body of salesmen in the country formed for the purpose of protecting credits. Mr. Uehlinger is active in the work now being done to establish a credit interchange bureau in this city under the direction of the New York Credit Men's Association.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD.

Vincent Astor Makes $400,000 Lease in Astor House Building—Bowman Will Pay $175,000 Per Year for Hotel Commodore—Private House Sales—New Jersey Buyers.

An important lease in the downtown centre by Vincent Astor was an interesting feature of the realty market yesterday. To the Exchange Buffet Corporation he leased the Vesey Street store and basement in the Astor House building, which Mr. Astor recently erected on the lower half of the Broadway frontage formerly occupied by the old Astor House. The lease is for a term of twenty-one years, and will represent an aggregate rental of about $400,000. The space includes 5,700 square feet on the ground floor and about 8,300 square feet in the basement.

The lessees will spend about $50,000 in alterations and will sublease the ground floor. They control about thirty lunch rooms in the city. The Charles F. Noyes Company negotiated the lease.

The lease is made by the New York State Realty and Terminal Company, the holding company for the New York Central Railroad in real estate. The lease is for twenty-one years from Jan. 1, 1916, with the privilege of two twenty-one year renewals at 2 per cent. of the total cost of construction, 6 per cent. per annum on the cost of construction and 91 per cent. of the taxes.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—A disturbance now in the Northwest will advance southeastward and be followed by a pronounced change to colder weather within the next thirty-six to forty-eight hours in the North Rocky Mountain region and the North Plains States and by Saturday in the Upper Mississippi Valley. The cold weather will be of several days' duration in these regions.

It is probable that this change to colder weather will overspread the Northern and Middle States east of the Mississippi River by the end of the week.

General rains have fallen within the last twenty-four hours in the region of the Great Lakes, the Mississippi and Ohio Valleys, the Gulf States, and the North Pacific Coast and rains and snows in the North Rocky Mountain region.

The weather continues warm throughout the Atlantic States, while colder weather has overspread the lake region, the Mississippi and Ohio Valleys, and the Gulf States.

Indications are that the weather will be generally fair Friday and Saturday througout the Atlantic and Gulf States, Tennessee, and the Ohio Valley.

In the lake region the weather will be overcast and unsettled, with probably rain Friday night and Saturday, probably turning to snow in the upper sections.

Temperature will be lower Friday throughout the Atlantic and East Gulf States, and decidedly cold weather will overspread the lake region and the Ohio Valley Saturday.

Winds for Friday and Saturday along the North and Middle Atlantic Coasts will be strong west, showers, followed by fair weather; South Atlantic Coast, fresh, shifting, overcast, showery weather.

FORECAST: TODAY AND SATURDAY.

ELECTION DOUBTS STIMULATE BETTING

WILSON STEADY FAVORITE

What with the shifting returns from California, New Hampshire and other States classed as doubtful, the Curb almost forgot oil stocks and "war brides" yesterday and bet instead on the election. President Wilson was the favorite all day. Estimates of the amount of wagers ran all the way from $400,000 to $1,000,000. Because of the rush, no accurate record could be kept.

There were three periods of great excitement on the Curb—one just before noon, when news from the West favorable to Wilson sent the odds on him from 10 to 8 to 2½ to 1; again, early in the afternoon, when the reports that Hughes seemed sure of New Hampshire on the recount and also of Minnesota, sent the odds back to 10 to 8 on Wilson, and finally, an hour before closing, when reports that Wilson's margin in California was growing, sent the odds on the President up to 2½ to 1. When the Curb closed the odds were quoted at 2 to 1, with no Hughes money in sight. It was said by brokers that the transactions in election bets exceeded in volume the Curb trading in stocks yesterday.

The Curb presented a lively scene. Broad Street was filled with a surging mass of men who fought to get to the centre where a group of betting commissioners stood, prominent among them Ed McQuade and Fred Schwade, who in the first part of the day held a large amount of Hughes money offered by Stock Exchange houses.

A large part of the betting yesterday, as was the case Wednesday, represented the activity of brokers in watching the odds and hedging. With the odds short they took the short end, and when they swung to longer odds "covered," only to "scalp" some more when the odds swung back. A good bit of this work has been going along ever since the betting livened up on the Curb two weeks ago.

Clerks Signal Latest News.

All during the Curb session clerks in the open windows above the trading circle stood with telephone receivers at their ears catching the latest flashes from news services and signaling to the brokers on the street. A reduction of Wilson's lead in California sent the odds one way; good news for Wilson from Minnesota sent them another. There were charges made of efforts to manipulate the market. One report of a bet of $100,000 on Wilson received such credence that a ticker service sent it out as having been made by a prominent Stock Exchange firm, which it named. Ten minutes later the ticker denied the report.

The betting on the Curb started at 10 o'clock with Wilson a 10 to 7 favorite, the Hughes men demanding 2 to 1. In the first hour more than $50,000 was bet at 10 to 7. Then favorable Wilson news started to come in from the West, along with the report that New Hampshire had switched to the Democratic column, and the Wilson odds soared to 2½ to 1. Then the Curb began to bet on the result in California. The odds on Wilson started at 10 to 9 and varied from that figure to 2 to 1, back to 10 to 6, with one bet of $10,000 at even money, and closed at 2 to 1 on Wilson. This was before the news was received of the whittling down of the Wilson lead in California.

When favorable Hughes news was received early in the afternoon the odds went to 10 to 8 on Wilson, and then when the tide seemed to turn to Wilson the odds shifted, and finally shortened on Wilson until about 2 o'clock they were betting 2½ to 1 for big bets and little bets were being laid as high as 3½ to 1. One bet of $2,000 against $7,000 was made that Wilson would carry both California and Minnesota. The betting closed at 2 to 1 on Wilson.

Uptown Bettors Favor President.

An interesting sidelight on the election betting is that one commissioner, who has wagered hundreds of thousands of dollars of other people's money, stands to win or lose two boxes of lollipops, having "rounded out" all his bets because he got weary of the shifting odds.

A remarkable factor in the betting uptown was that the apparent swing to Hughes late in the afternoon brought little response. At the Waldorf-Astoria, where more than $50,000 was bet yesterday, the odds didn't take cognizance of the change. The betting there followed the Curb odds closely, and last night the election of Wilson was so much taken for granted that the odds on him were quoted at 1 to 4 with no takers. One man well-known along Broadway appeared at the hotel last night with large bundles of bills saying he was almost ready to pay his bets on Hughes. This man is said to stand to lose $200,000. Most of the commissioners stand to win no matter who is the next President.

Tex Rickard, who bet $100,000 on Ohio going for Wilson, spent most of yesterday in a telephone booth talking to a "correspondent" in California. He laid long odds against Hughes all day.

Bets on Ohio were paid yesterday about the Waldorf. One young man, who only a short time ago was a newspaper reporter, said he had collected $31,000 won on Wilson carrying Ohio, and stood to win $42,000 more if Wilson is re-elected.

Perhaps the hardest of all election bet losers are those persons who in the excitement of supposed victory early Wednesday morning quoted long odds on Hughes and were taken. Hundreds of bets at 10 to 1 were made in cafes.

WILL GIVE DANCES IN JAIL.

Mrs. J. Sargeant Cram's Plan for Women Prisoners in Queens.

Mrs. J. Sergeant Cram, wife of the former Public Service Commissioner, and friend of the feminine wrongdoer, has obtained the consent of Commissioner Lewis of the Department of Correction to hold weekly dances for the female prisoners in the Queens County Jail. There are ninety women in the jail at present, but this number frequently runs as high as 130 when the overflow from Blackwell's Island is sent to Long Island City.

For some time Mrs. Cram has been a frequent visitor at the jail, where she gave helpful talks to the women prisoners. Now a handsome upright piano, her gift, is installed in the chapel where the dances are to be held.

Mrs. Cram will play the piano herself for these dances, which are to be held every Friday afternoon from 4:30 to 5.30 o'clock. A professional drummer will accompany her.

SOCIALISTS PROUD OF PARTY'S SHOWING

ESTIMATED AT 1,500,000

Although the returns on the Socialist vote throughout the country are still meagre, there was plenty of optimism at State headquarters at 239 East Eighty-fourth Street yesterday. Reports indicated an increased vote, and this was taken as an indication of the growth of the party. Socialists here professed to be looking forward to the time when socialism would be a national issue, or when the party would hold at least a measure of the balance of power.

Returns indicate, it was said at headquarters, that there has not only been an increase of 25 per cent. in the Presidential vote, but an increase of 30 per cent. on the State ticket vote. The total party vote throughout the country is estimated here at between 1,200,000 and 1,500,000, as against 916,000 in 1912.

Socialists say that the returns would indicate that the party has elected two State legislators in California and two in Minnesota. Thomas H. Van Lear, the non-partisan candidate for Mayor in Minneapolis, who had the Socialists' indorsement, has been elected by a majority of 5,000.

The most encouraging reports come from Milwaukee, a Socialist stronghold. In Wisconsin two State Senators and seven Assemblymen were elected, according to advices received here. The party also carried into office the Board of Supervisors and a Sheriff. Reports here were that Representative Victor Berger of Milwaukee had been defeated.

Reports received by the German Socialist newspaper, the Volks Zeitung, indicated the election of a State Legislator in Vermont, the first Legislator to be elected by the Socialists in that State. In Providence Dr. Reed has been elected a member of the Legislature In Haverhill, Mass., another unexpected thing happened—Morrell, a Socialist, was elected to the State Legislature. The report reached New York yesterday that in Florida the people sent a Socialist to the State Legislature. In Montana one Legislator was elected and two are reported to have been reelected.

Reports received from Oklahoma Socialists were encouraging. A wire received from the State organization announced that there had been an increase in the Socialist vote in the State. Six Sheriffs and a county administration are reported to have been elected.

It was reported also that a Socialist had been elected to the Legislature in New Mexico, two in Washington, and one in Utah. As to the result in Chicago the news was not encouraging. Two Socialists were defeated for the Legislature.

In the little town of Haledon, N. J., the Socialists elected August Brueckman Mayor. Interest centred in this election because it was in Haledon that meetings were held at the time of the strike in the Paterson silk mills.

A noticeable feature of the Socialist vote in this State, it was said, was the percentage of increase in the State rather than in the city. Two Assemblymen were elected here, Shiplacoff in the Twenty-third Assembly District and Whitehorn in the Twenty-first Assembly District, the former by 1,600 votes and the latter by a small majority. Socialists here are disappointed in the defeat of Morris Hillquit in the Twentieth Congressional District. Meyer London was re-elected to Congress.

NEW STIELOW HEARING.

Governor Again to Review Convicted Man's Case.

ALBANY, Nov. 9.—Governor Whitman today fixed Nov. 28 as the date for a public hearing in the case of Charles F. Stielow, who has been reprieved several times and who now is under sentence of death for the murder of Charles D. Phelps in Orleans County, in March, 1915.

The hearing was granted on application of several persons who have been active in efforts to obtain a new trial for the convicted man.

Gives Union Right to Pick Members

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 9.—Justice Swayze in the Supreme Court handed down a decision this afternoon refusing to grant a mandamus compelling the National Alliance of Billposters, a labor organization, to admit Louis Frank to membership. The court held that it did not have the power to force one man's companionship on another. "It would be quite impracticable," said Justice Swayze, "for the court to undertake to compel men to receive into their social relationship one who was personally disagreeable, whether for a good or bad reason."

JERSEY LAWYER DISBARRED.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 9.—A memorandum of the Supreme Court was filed today granting the application for an order, made through the Attorney General's Department, to strike from the roll as an attorney at law the name of Robert G. Brown of the Jersey City law firm of Butler & Brown.

Brown handled the divorce case of Lambert vs. Lambert, in the Chancery Court, representing the husband. He engaged several men, one of whom was named Fay, and a woman detective to watch Mrs. Lambert. Through the woman detective, it is declared, Brown planned trips for Mrs. Lambert and his aids, one of the trips being to Rockaway. Automobiles were provided by Brown, it is alleged. The memorandum of the Supreme Court says testimony indicated that on several of the occasions arranged Mrs. Lambert was guilty of misconduct with Fay, one of the men engaged by the counsel. By Brown's own evidence he aided and abetted in the commission of the statutory offense by the wife, the Supreme Court states.

Counsel for Brown argued that the attorney was trained as a spy before he became a member of the bar and earned his living in that capacity, and in effect had done no more than prosecuting attorneys do in administering the criminal law.
